LUTHER'S LIFE.

When a youth Luther condemned and dis-approved the persecutions of the Jews. In 1543 he wrote inflammatory and inciting pamphlets against them, entitled: "The Jews and Their Lies," about Yehem Hamp. shoros, against which the persecution schemes of the firm Wilhelm, Bismarck, and Stoecker and that of the worthies in Tissza Essiar, Hungary, sink into utter insignificance. He writes: "The synagogues of the Jews must be burned down, their houses destroyed, their prayer-books, their money, silver, and gold must be taken from them; they must be whipped and driven out of the land, for a Jewish heart is so stone iron-devilish-hard that it can in no wise be moved.' Luther was, as is universally known

A VERY LICENTIOUS MAN.

When young he attacked the institution of marriage as a sacrament most bitterly in his book, "Marriage is no sacrament." He justified in the same (p. 177) adultery, and explains in language too loose to be printed in a newspaper that if a man has betrayed his sponse by his impotency, if he obtained her ander false pretenses, she should have the right to seek recourse and gratify her natural desires elsewhere. To be brief, he advocated free love, and taught that matrimony was not a sacrament. Fifteen years later the same Luther says that marriage is a sacred institution, and that under no circumstances or considerations whatsoever should adultery be committed, though husband or wife were unfit for married life. When Nicolaus Kodernicus appeared before the world with his new idea, that instead of the sun revolving around the earth the latter revolved around the sun, Luther stood up and cursed Kobernious, in whom, as he said, the devil had invoked that blasphemous idea, Headvocated to burn the "heretio," Kopernicus, on a stake. If he, Lu-ther, had not died soon alterward (1543), he might have succeeded in having Kopernicus executed.

This is the identical Luther whose memory is to be celebrated in this city next Friday, as that of a pioneer of progress and liberty, and as a pathfinder of scientific investigation. "What fools these mortals

In his book, " De Abrog. Miss.," Luther says : " To be a Christian one must strangle reason, scratch out her eyes, and choke the beast.

The orations and pamphlets of Luther regarding the appearance of THE DEVIL are without number. He believed he had to fight many a contest against the devil himself, to wrestle and box with him chiefly during the night, and he used to say: " The devil did frequently approach him more closely than his Katherine." In his " Table-Talk," beginning from chapter 23, he devotes to the devil fully one hundred pages in print. He says, for instance : " The devil is everywhere about us, and, at times, wears a mask, as I have seen myself, as though he was a hog, a burning broom, a cur, a bull, or a fly, or any-thing." Luther assured his friend Miconius: In 1538 the devil had twice come to him in the shape of a big dog, with an intent to kill him, but he had every time overcome him. In his garden at Wittenberg Luther saw the devil in the shape of a black boar; at Coburg as a buil. At the Wartburg he saw the devil in the flesh during his work of translating the Bible, and a fly on the wall, and threw his ink-well effer him. That ink-spot has been shown the visitors up to this date, and the writer has seen it himself in its place. In his "Instructions upon Various Matters," part 7, page 2, Wittenberg, 1545, he says, "I do eternally."

The Catholic clergy are dissatisfied with the repudiation by the Government of the plan for wholesale emigration. There are suspicions that a scheme is still in existence. Archbishop Croke, in replying to the Ohlef Secretary's letter, says there is revealed the prospect of a project to force poor dependent people to adandon their land under pressure of want and affliction, in order to perish among the snows of Canada. Private protests from the priests have been forwarded to the Pope in order to induce His Holiness, through Mr. Errington, the English agent, and Cardinal Manning, to remonstrate with Mr. Gladstone against such a scheme for emigration, and also for permitting the Orange agitation in the north of Ireland. The trial of Jos. Poole for the murder John Kenny in Seville Place began in Dublin yesterday (Nov. 12). The prisoner was detended by Drs. Webb and Moriarity. The Attorney-General stated that it would be proven that Poole lured Kenny to the place where the murder was committed and that he was named as one of those delegated to commit the murder. William Lamie, an informer, testified that Poole told him how Kenny was killed, and said that the daggers used in the murder were no good; they might as well have been chisels. He also said that Kenny was doomed to death on suspicion that he was betraying the secrets of the Fenian Brotherhood. Mrs. Keuny testified that her hasband left his home in company with Poole on the night of the murder. Then turning his gaze in the direction of the Judge, he charged that official with acting as a prosecutor instead of a Judge. The Jury then retired, and after a short absence returned to the Court room, when the foreman announced that they were unable to agree upon a verdict, whereupon the Judge dis-

EVICTIONS IN IBELAND.

LANDLORDS AIDED BY THE POLICE. LONDON, Nov. 12 .- Great excitement exists throughout Loughren, in Ireland, in consequence of a system of wholesale evictions put into operation yesterday, a direct result of the revived feuds between the Orangemen and Nationalists. The evicting landlords, before proceeding to turn out their tenants, secured protection of the police, and had soldiers with fixed bayonets stationed on guard around each farm that was to be cleared. Thus prepared the landlords had constables dipossess all the tenants, putting them and their effects into the roadways. The evictions began at daylight, and were well under way before the neighbors of the sufferers were made aware of what was going on. Then all the farmers and farm hands for miles around gathered in groups about the different scenes of action, and nothing but the overpowering strength of the well-intrenched military prevented the worst forms of rioting and bloodshed.

COMMERCIAL. WEEKLY REVIEW — WHOLESALE MARKETS.

The mild weather of the past few weeks has been succeeded by a cold snap, and the season being already late, the St. Lawrence will soon be closed to ocean steamers. The last steamer is the Peruvian, of the Alian Line, which arrived at Quebec yesterday and which will be in Montreal to-morrow. She is advertised to leave Quebec for Liverpool on the 24th and will have a lively time of it if the weather keeps as wintry as it is at present. This is the ship that was frozen up in bushels changed hands at 93½c, which indities St. Lawrence only a few winters ago. cates a firm market. Corn was quoted firmer The state of trade is much the at 62c to 63c, in sympathy with the improved same as last week. Goods have situation in the West. We quote prices as been pushed forward into the country by the steamboats before their withdrawal from their respective routes, and now business is beginning to slacken off perceptibly. There are whisperings of serious trouble in the iron trade, but so far nothing has transpired to justify the rumors which have been affoat. If the grain trade has been disappointing and cattle trade, and stock raisers must have made at the moment have not enough stock on money if shippers have not. The total shipments of cattle from the opening of navigative ported of 100 superior at $5.60, 125 extra ments of cattle from the opening of navigation to date have reached 49,403 head, against 41,673 during the corresponding period last pear, and 41,968 in 1881, an increase of 7,730 lbs., and 250 Ontario bags (medium) at $2.65 head over 1882, and of 7,435 over 1881. We quote:—Pig Iron — Coltness $21 50; Lengloan $21 50 Gartsherrie $20 50 to 20 75; Summerlee $20 25 to 20 50; Eglinton $18 50; Dalmellington $18 50; Siemens $21; bar iron $1 90 to 2; hoop and bands $2 25; sheets and plates $2 50 to 2 75; angles $2 25; tin plates, charcoal, I C $5 to 5 25; do, cokes $4 35 to 4 40; Canada plates, penn $3 10 to 320; ingo tin, straits' 230; dc, lamb and flag 240; ingot copper, beaver, 18c; do, Montana, etc., 17c; lead $3 75 to 380.

LEATHER. - There have been few buyers in the market, and the trade is dull. The general supply is ample, and prices, if anything, bave an easier ruling, and may be called barely steady. It is probable that concessions would be made to move round lots. A report of the boot and shoe trade says :- " Now that the fall trade is over, manufacturers have turned their attention to outling up prices and otherwise preparing for the annual stock-taking. The feature of the week has been the arrival of Western buyers in town, who have placed several orders for spring execution. Manufacturers, however, are not disposed to contract too heavily just at present, and we know of at least one very large order being refused from prudential motives. The enquiry from the West is much better than was anticipated. A few export orders have been received during the week."

LUMBER-The movement on local account has not increased since our last report, but quite a fair demand has been experienced from the outlying localities as Longueuil, Laprairie and Lachute. Prices remain unchanged. The cut this winter, it is estimated, will be 25 per cent less than last. It this be the case, it will have the effect of maintaining prices, which otherwise would weaken, owing to an overstocked market. Dealers report dry lumber of last year's cut all sold and, therefore, are not buying much stock, as they are waiting for the seasoned lumber next spring.

DRY Goods.—The general market is very dull. There is no spirit in the demand, and the aggregate volume of transactions is light. The weather, certainly, has not tended to help matters. Stocks all over are fair, some houses reporting them well in hand, while others acknowledge some little surplus.

RAW FURS .- The cold weather will, it is hoped, cause a decided change for the better. Beaver is in good demand. Prices, therefore, in the absence of transacactions, are purely nominal as follows Beaver per 1b, $2 50 to 3 50; bear per skin, $8 to 10; bear cub, $4 to 5; fisher do $4 to to G; red fox do, 750 to $1; cross de, $2 to 3; lynx do, $2 to 250; marten do, 75c to 90c mink do, 75c to $1; muskrat do, 8c to 10c otter do, $8 to 10; raccoon do, 40c to 50c skunk do. 40c to 60c.

The local breadstuffs markets keep dull. A oar lot of Canada Red winter was sold at $1.22. What the Great Fish Culturist Says:

Last winter I went to Florida and while there contracted Malaria in a very severe form. When I returned home I went to bed and remained there until spring. My symptoms were terrible. I had dull, aching pains in my head, limbs and around my back. My appetite was wholly gone, and I felt a lack of energy such as I had often heard described but had never experienced. Any one who has ever had a severe attack of Malaria can appreciate my condition. As I failed to get any better I determined to try a remedy made by a gentleman in whom I had the greatest confidence. I am happy to say it effected permanent relief and that I am well to-day through the influence of Warner's SAFE Cure. After such an experience I can most heartily recommend it to all sufferers.
