you of what you lack and what you may buy to advantage.

But neverthless we will have to ask you to think a little this time. We have so much to remind you about in this Furniture Sale that we cannot do it in detail. We can simply ask you to remember that this Furniture Sale of ours is the most important event now in progress at this store. We have room only for suggestions. A comprehensive list of the Sale's economies would exceed the limits of our space. And so we go back to the cry of old days and ask you to consider earnestly for yourselves and for your households—"What do ye lack? What do ye lack?"
