MRS. T. HASTINGS DIES HERE AGED 86

Former Resident of What Was City's Petite Cote Section Stricken Suddenly

One of the early residents of that part of Montreal that used to be known as Petite Cote (Little Hill), now Rosemount, Mrs. Thomas Hastings, died suddenly yesterday at her residence, 660 Murray Hill, Westmount, in her 87th year. Despite her advanced years she had been in good health until Thursday evening.

Formerly Jane Kydd, Mrs. Hastings was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Kydd, and was one of the founders of the Kydd Memorial Church in Rosemount.

Born in Petite Cote section of Montreal, she lived here all her life. She was married first to William Nesbitt, a farmer in that area. Later she married Thomas Hastings, who also operated a farm in what is now Rosemount.

Mr. Hastings died in 1923, and she then moved to Westmount, at which time she gave the old Hastings home and the ground around it, on Rosemount boulevard, to the Royal Victoria Hospital, which institution used it for many years as a convalescent home.

Mrs. Hastings was a member of Stanley Presbyterian Church, Westmount.

Survivors include Mrs. G. E. McLean and Miss Rita Jordan, nieces; J. Ogilvie Hastings and Ernest Jordan, nephews; Mrs. George Kydd and Mrs. William Kydd, sisters-in-law.

The funeral will be held Monday at 2 p.m., from the residence, to Mount Royal Cemetery.
