As it is now they could take fifty per cent, and nobody would be any the wiser.

With the parl-mutuels only a few great the money and those few are the directors of the jockey clubs. The public and horsenen are generally all broke nowadays. For example, take the season of 1915. That was the year that the parl-mutuels became universal around the C.R.A. circuit. The spring meeting at Conraught Park saw some 200 Toronto turf followers here. The fall meeting there were about six down. One reason for the difference was given by one who had traveled the circuit. He said that everybody was broke after traveling the circuit, and the mutuels were to blame.

We are not knocking the mount they can take. As it is now they could take fifty per cent, and take. As it is now they could take fifty per cent, and take. If the jockey clubs were unable to make money when the book system of betting money was used how can they make it now? The crowds that attend the races are the system of the word of money that the jockey club take.

If racing is cut out until after the war the sport will only be revived under greatly changed conditions, that seems upon the paying the mutuels, says the jockey club take they provide the best means of wagering, but we do dirink that there ought to be a check on the amount of money that the jockey club take.

Kelly for a suburban reserve.

Whether Kelly will ever come thru I will not venture to say. McGraw has hopes. However, his two-year batting hopes, the Glants is so small you hopes. However, his two-year batting average with the Giants is so small you can scarcely see it with the naked eye. There is one thing to be said in Kelly's favor. He is consistent. In 1915 he acquired a batting average of .158 in 17 games. Last season he arrived at the same result in 49 games. In the two seasons he has made 22 hits-in 66 games. Naturally a man with such swatting proclivities would hardly be of much help if a player like Robertson, Kauff or Burns was hurt.

or Burns was hurt.

Few Injuries on Giants.

The Giants also had the good luck to go thru the season without any serious infield injuries. Fletcher was out for a few weeks, and the veteran Mickey Doolan filled in fairly well. Hans Lebert formerly one of the game's leading infielders, was out of the game much of the time, and he has slowed up most perceptibly, but he is not counted even as being in the second line of defence.

Bradley Kocher, who, was second catcher until McCharty was progred. to 2, amount of work except as a coach, and therefore there is a chance for a young-

Young Most Promising Recruit. But about the youngsters and their chances. The most promising youngster picked up by the club is Ross Young, accoraing to Secretary Foster. He has been purchased from the Sherman Western Association team, and plays either the outfield or the infield. Foster says he is only a kid, but is a natural ball player who appears to have a big future who appears to have a big future.

Two new players procured from Omaha, in the Western League, look to have chances of sticking. They are Shortstop Kılduff and Catcher Krueger. There would be little chance for Külduff if Shafer decided to return, but that is only a possibility. In the Western League Kilduff was rated as a remarkable fielder. Krueger is coming up for air for the Krueger is coming up for air for the aird time. He is a "bear" in the minors, at could show nothing with Cleveland on the Yankees. However, he may now be ripe, and he has not a hard man to beat Sandberg, a local backstop released ander option to Albany last spring, has been recalled and will get another opportunity to show his many friends that portunity to show his many friends that he is big league timber.

Perhaps Jim Thorpe's leading rival for the position of outfield utility is Witter, the player drafted from Newark. Witter was one of the original Federal League players, playing in the league before it was rated as a "major." He had a fine season in the International League.

Two players purchased from Dallas last fall are regarded as future possibilities, but are unlikely to see much of the Polo Grounds next season. They are First Grounds next season. League."

This had the effect of making the players more cautious, but in the very next year, 1877, four players of the Louisville Club, James Devlin, W. H. Carver, A. H. Nichols and G. W. Hall, were convicted of throwing games and were forever placed on the blacklist.

Players Become Cautious.

Outside the four "black sheep" in the glorious procession of ball players, there were thousands of honest young men whose characters remained stainless, and who, after quitting the game, became useful members of society and were given every public honor just one step short of the Presidency of the United States. They have gone into the United States Senate, into the house of representatives, have become governors of states, members of the judiclary, clergymen and evangelists, to say nothing of state fish commissioners and factory inspectors. They have also become successful business men, some leading in their respective pursuits, from banker to saloonkeeper. Despite the fact that a lot of strength cattered thru the Giant pitching staff, more first-class right-hander could a strong candidate for a position on the first string staif. His admirers say he was the best pitcher in the minor leagues last season. George Smith, the Columbia collegian showed a lot of stuff last fall, and Mc-Graw thinks highly of him. He is looked upon as a strong prospect, as is Pi Way, the former Yale star, who finished the season with Rochester by winning six games in a row. Bill Ritter, returned by Louisville, also may make a strong bid to hang on in the big show.

Another good prospect is Causey, a left-hander from Waco, who had pitched in the spring. Atlantic Highlands also has a candidate for the Giants' pitching even, 1 to 2.

2. Billy Nestlehouse, 115 (G. Alexander), 7 to 5, 1 to 2, 1 to 4.

RICORD'S SPECIFIC

New York, Feb. 12.—The land is now full of ball players in all stages of development and perfection. There are at present almost as many of them in one league of eight clubs as could be counted in the whole country during the first ten years of the national game. It was sometimes a difficult matter for the pioneers to collect a sufficient number of players to collect a sufficient number of players to present a "full field," and then, again, there was an overflow of ambitious and enthusiastic individuals to prove more than enough. That, no doubt, was the reason why no limit was set to the number of participants in a game. But since 1858 the number was definitely fixed at nine, and it has remained so to the present day. The Professional Association lived five years, during which it became corrupt under the influence of gamblers. Therefore, in 1876, the National League of Baseball Clubs, not players, was formed. One of its first acts was to prohibit gambling by players. The mandate read as follows: "Any player who shall in any way be interested in any bet or wager on the game in which he takes part, either as umpire, "layer or scorer, or who shall, purchase or have purchased for him any pool chance—sold or given away—on the game he plays in, shall be dishonorably expelled, both from the club of which he is a member and from the National League." 9.25 a.m. DAILY except Saturday. nine, and it has remained so to the present day.

In 1876 an attempt was made to introduce a tenth man, a right shortstop, but the idea found little encouragement. It was adopted here and there by amateur teams, but the professionals apparently never gave it more than a passing thought, altho the change was favored by more than one prominent patron of the game.

No Set Rule Years Ago.

Up in New England before 1858. in which year the New England and middle states promoters got together and agreed on uniform rules, the custom was to use all the way from ten to fourteen men. These could be placed anywhere on the field, except, of course, the "thrower,"
