The Position of the Irish Party

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE GAZETTE.

DUBLIN, Aug. 29.—United Ireland, in a leading editorial, informs the Radicals that the position of the Irish party regarding the project for the endowment of the Catholic college is the same as when it squelched the scheme for the underhand treaty with Rome which was sought to be negotiated by Lord Salisbury and Irish Unionist Bishops who now stood ready to sell Ireland to Balfour for a mess of pottage, if they only had the country to sell.

The New Irish University Bill.

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE GAZETTE.

LONDON, Aug., 29.—The Standard believes the new Irish University bill was foreshadowed by Balfour yesterday. It will provide for a special charter, and the separate endowment for a Catholic university completely independent of the existing Institutions. The Government's concession on this point, the Standard says, is likely to strain the relations between the Parnellites and the Radicals.

New Cars.

Messrs. James Harris & Co. are now building six passenger cars for the Intercolonial, which when completed will be probably the finest and best equipped passenger cars yet secnred by the railway. Two of the cars are nearly finished, and two more are well under way, and work has been commenced on the remaining two.

The cars are beautifully panelled and finished inside with oak and mahogany. The outside appearance is similar to that of the Canadian Pacific passenger cars, only that the color is of a deeper hue and much handsomer.

These cars will run on the celebrated Krupp wheels, which are about 47 inches high or 3 inches higher than the ordinary car wheel, and will consequently draw much easier and run smoother than the cars with the smaller wheels.

The Krupp wheels are manufactured in Germany, and are in four parts. The inside or centre peice of the wheel is of wrought iron and around it is the steel tire about 2½ inches in thickness held firmly in place by two rims over which it laps down about half an inch, the rims being set tight to the wrought iron centre peice by bolts and nuts.

Wheels of this make have hitherto been used almost altogether on Pullman cars. This is the first time this firm has ever equipped passenger cars with them.

Messrs. Harris & Co., also have fifteen new flat cars for the Great Eastern Railway and two for the International Coal Company almost completed.

ART IN ST. JOHN.

Mr. S. E. Dawson's Appreciative Notice of the Owens' Art Gallery and School.

The "Short Line" to the sea of the Canadian Pacific railway has brought Montreal so near to St. John that we are naturally interested much more than before in the institutions of that city. Visitors to St. John ought not to miss the Owens Art Institution, where they may learn what our sister province on the sea is doing in the way of art.

Mr. Owens, the founder of the institution, was a wealthy shipbuilder of St. John, who died in 1867. He was, in his life time, a Methodist, and being a successful and energetic as well as wealthy man, was for a long time a leading member of that body. In process of time, however, he, like many other successful men, projected into the sphere of theology the same masterful spirit which made him a good shipbuilder, and, having been unable to convert the Methodist conference to his views, he built a church for himself; pretty much as he would have started an opposition line of packet ships. This church he endowed by his will, and he sought, by various limitations and stipulations in his will, to inflict his peculiar theological crochets upon succeeding generations. It seems very hard for successful men to give up trying to live after they are dead.

But St. John had already almost as many churches per head as Montreal, and the St. John people felt the want of many other things, a dry-dock for instance, more than of another religion; therefore they would not go to the Owens church. A building and a clergyman cannot alone make a church, under any existing theory, and so, in 1882, the services came to a stop; we are sure to Mr. Owens' great satisfaction, if he be anywhere conscious of the fact. Fortunately he had provided in his will that the residue of his estate should be applied to the founding of an art school, and his surviving executor, Mr. Robert Reed, with the trustees of the church applied to the Legislature and got an act to change the trust into a fund for the foundation of a school of art. The upper part of the church was then floored over, skylights were made in the roof the windows were closed up and the walls tinted, and a capital gallery was the result. Thus it came about that the St John Art gallery has a steeple, and thanks to the good common sense of his executors, Mr. Owens has become a real benefactor to the city.

It was only in 1884 that the requisite legislation was obtained, and the results apparent in this institution are surprising. This is chiefly due to the unaided exertions of the president, Mr. Robert Reed. The principal of the school, Mr. Hammond, is an artist who is known here by a picture exhibited at our last exhibition: His works have had the distinction of being exhibited in the Paris salon and the Royal academy at London. Under his care the school has increased from 20 in 1885 to 110 pupils in 1888, and it is doing an excellent work among the young people of St. John who are becoming deeply interested in art subjects. The gallery is furnished with casts from the antique, and in the collection of fac-si mile productions of sketches from the old masters there is abundance of material for a solid foundation in the principles of drawing. The careful study of these sketches is most helpful to students in teaching them the methods of those great masters whose finished work is never seen here, and when seen in the great galleries of Europe is apt to fill the student with despair.

This leads us to call attention to a peculiarity in this gallery which renders it in some respects more helpful to a student than our own. It is the fact that the managers have expended their funds upon a very characteristic and wide selection of original studies in black and white and in water color by the great London masters. These are invaluable as giving a key to the greater works of the artist represented. Thus, of the English school, the gallery has orignal works by Morland, Sir John Gilbert, Collins, W. H Hunt, Copley Fielding, Mulready, Harding, Stanfield, Nash, Constable, Landseer, Pyne, Herring, Sir Joshua Reynolds, Cattermole, Etty, West, Cooper, Lewis, Elizabeth Thompson and others. In the collection of the president (Mr. Reed), also upon the walls, are specimens of Richardson, Pugin, Millais, David Cox, Sir A Calcott, Prout, Creswick, Maclise, Corbould, Absalou and Fredk. Taylor. These cover the greatest names in English art. Some of them are slight sketches and some are finished works, but the important point is that the student can study the work of the English school by specimens from the hand of each master. There are works also from the hands of Gaspar and Nicholas Poussin, Carlo Dolce, Sir Peter Lely and Rembrandt and among the moderns, from Horace Vernet, Claude Vernet, Bouvier, and Jean Francois Millet. Canadian art is represented in examples by L R O'Brien, Bell Smith and Blair Bruce.

It will be seen at once that the pupils of this institution have great advantages in this very wide selection for study, and that is the characteristic part of the gallery. The collection of oil paintings is not large. There was no nucleus to commence with, but there are sixty-two works in all, many of which are of great merit. Wyatt Eaton is represented by two examples, but the most are from the easels of French and Italian painters. The influence of the prevailing modern French school of art is visible here, as everywhere else, where collections are being made at the present time.

The Owens Art Institution is most creditable to the city of St. John, and especially to the president and trustees who have inaugurated it and are carrying it on with so much success. In a practical community like that of St. John there is a good deal of up-hill work to be done before the general public arrive at a proper appreciation of the importance of the fine arts. The history of our own Art association shows that; but the Owens school is working on the right lines, and in the end its value will receive general recognition.

The Jesuits.

The first missionaries, explorers and natural historians of Canada were the French Jesuits, and it would seem not at all wrong, in fact, in the opinion of a great many, would have been a very proper and meritorious act to recognize the devotion, self-sacrifice and learning of so many of these illustrious men, by witnessing to the world the appreciation, in which their past services are held by the present generation. Bacon, in his work on the advancement of learning, twice mentions the labors of the Jesuits; in one instance he says that "they partly in themselves, and partly by the emulation and provocation of their example, have much quickened and strengthened the state of learning," and in another place, in the same book, he makes the following remarks respecting them:

"Yet the ancient wisdom of the best times did always make a just complaint, that states were too busy with their laws, and too negligent in point of education;" which excellent part of ancient discipline hath been in some part revived of late times, by the colleges of the Jesuits; of whom, although in regard of their superstition I may say

"Quo meliores, eo deteriores," yet in regard of this, and some other points concerning human learning and moral matters, I may say, as Agesilaus said to his enemy Pharnabasus,

"Talis quum sis, utinam noster esses."

There are not a few, even in our own day, among Protestants who are under very considerable obligations to the Jesuits for the advancement which they have made in learning.

Thirty or forty years ago very many of the leading classics which were in use in schools and colleges had been edited by learned Jesuits and the writer of this bears testimony to the accuracy and learning of the notes and glosses, with which these works were illustrated and their reading and translation made thereby more easy and pleasant. While he condemns the wrong done by this distinguished society, let us have the fairness to give it the credit of all the good which it has done.

These remarks must not be construed as favoring the action lately taken by the Mercier government in Quebec, which in compensating the Jesuits for what they had lost in that province must needs insult the prejudices of the Protestant minority, not by voting $400,000 to the Jesuits, but by placing the distribution of this sum under the control of a foreign bishop instead of handing the money directly over to the parties who alone had interest in it. Surely the government of the province of Quebec could have at once given the Jesuits their money without calling upon an Italian bishop to aid them in this work.

The question naturally arises, why did the Quebec government adopt this course of appealing to a foreign bishop? For this there seem to be but two reasons, either they were incompetent to decide, or they wanted, in an indirect way, to let the world know that they were ready and willing to submit the adjustment of a portion of their financial affairs to the sole arbitrament and determination of a foreign ecclesiastic, an act utterly unnecessary and highly provocative to those Protestants who consider that their opinions have been needlessly and glaringly insulted.

EDWARD JACK.

Furious Driving.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE GAZETTE.

DEAR SIR:—Have you any idea when the furious driving nuisance will be abated? Not over half an hour previous to my writing this, a lady was knocked down at the foot of King street and one if not both wheels passed over her. She declared herself unhurt and it is to be sincerely hoped that she is not, but it is just possible that in the excitement she might not feel certain injuries which may develop later, say to-morrow. Something like 3 or 4 years since a young lady was knocked down, run over and killed in the same spot and the culprit, although the evidence of guilt was most clearly established, got off Scott free, not if my memory serves me properly being even fined. Everybody admits that this kind of thing is not right but nobody raises hand or voice to abate the nuisance. Is it not about time to make an example? I think so. Arrest the party and irrespective of social position, punish him to the utmost limit of the law and do not stop at his case. Arrest or cause the arrest of every person guilty of fast driving and fine them, and I venture the opinion it will remedy itself.

Yours truly, JUSTICE.

Funeral of the Late Rev. Canon Medley.

The funeral of Rev Canon Medley which took place at Sussex yesterday was the largest ever held in that town.

The body laid in the church all night and at 7 and 10 o'clock yesterday morning holy communion was celebrated, about one hundred communicants being present at each occasion.

The church was filled to overflowing, and many were unable to get in. Among those present were many old residents and a large number of ladies. The body was in a handsome casket in the chancel and the congregation passed it and took a last look at the departed before taking seats in the church. The casket was covered with numerous floral tributes, among them a large cross sent by the deanery of St. John, and an offering from the Odd Fellows and Masons, of which deceased was a prominent member, and a number of cabinets from friends.

Rev. G. G. Roberts read the lesson and Rev. Mr. Cowie read prayers. The procession to the grave was headed by the Odd Fellows, Masons and visiting clergymen. Behind the hearse came the mourners, a long procession of friends and about 100 carriages. At the grave the service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Cowie. The pallbearers were; Rev. Canons Deveber. Brigstocke, Neales, Forsyth and Revs. C. Williams and S. J. Hanford.

THE BEHRING SEA.

THE "RUSH" CAPTURES ANOTHER BRITISH SCHOONER.

The Cases of the Seized Sealers Will be Tried in the Alaska District Court.

(BY TELEGRAPH TO THE GAZETTE.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., August 29.—A letter has been received from an officer of U. S. steamer Richard Rush by the steamer St. Paul, which arrived from Ounalaska on Tuesday night, stating that on Aug 6th the Rush captured the British sealing schooner Lily of Vancouver while taking seals in Behring Sea. The schooner was searched and 3000 skins were found and placed on board the Rush.

A prize crew of one man was placed on board, and the "Lily" was sent to Sitka. The seized sealers will have their cases tried in the Alaskan district court.

The Rush will proceed to San Francisco when relieved by the Bear at Ounalaska.

In all there have been fourteen sealers boarded by the Rush and warned out of Behring Sea, besides six that were captured.

DARING BURGLARY.

Captain Doane's Residence Entered and Several Hundred Dollars Stolen.

Early this morning a daring burglary was committed in Carleton. Captain James M. Doane's residence on Protection street was entered and money and valuables to the amount of $500 carried off. About 4.20 o'clock this morning Miss Black, daughter of Dr. Black of Baie Verte, who has been staying with Mrs Doane for the past month, was awakened by the crash of a window falling, and fearing something was the matter she hastily awakened the lady of the house whose sleeping apartment is on the opposite side of the hall. They saw that a burglary had been committed, although not for some time discovering the extent of their losses. Officer Ross, of Carleton was notified, and afterwards Inspector Weatherhead of the Southern division.

On examination it was found that the burglar had scaled a ladder in the rear of the house and had first entered Miss Black's room. In a fancy box on the toilet table he found the key of the bureau drawers. These he opened and in the top one of all came upon what he was evidently looking for—a cash box, containing several hundred dollars. The box he wrapped in a fur tippet and dropped from the window. Going back the burglar rifled the other drawers, getting a gold brooch and a purse containing about nine dollars. He then crossed the hall into the room occupied by Mrs. Doane, and proceeded to carry off a gold watch and chain which had been left on the stand by that lady, and, returning, made his exit by the way he had come in.

Directly below the window the tippet was found and round the corner of the house was the cash box in which still remained a couple of watches and several trinkets presumably unnoticed by the fellow in his haste. But the money was gone. The fancy toilet box, and a hand satchel also dropped from the window, were discovered lying on the ground. As yet there is no clue as to who was the perpetrator of the deed.

It was late when Miss Black retired, as she proposed returning home this morning, and she had slept soundly.

The money stolen belonged to Miss Ring, sister of Mrs Doane, who had previously occupied the room, while the watch and chain were Mrs. Doane's and the brooch and some trinkets, Miss Black's. Detective Ring and Officer Ross are working the case.

This afternoon the watch and chain which it was thought had been stolen were found in another part of the house by Mrs. Doane. It is also stated that the exact amount of money stolen was $330 and that it belonged to Mrs. Doane and not to Miss Ring. The whole matter is very mysterious, and there are numerous theories respecting the burglary, the most probable of which is that whoever the thief was, he must have been aware of the location of the cash box and must also must known something of the house.
