OYSTERS DOING WELL,

Eastern Varieties Distributed in British Columbia Are Progressing Satisfactorily.

Fishery Inspector E. G. Taylor in an nterview in the Nanaimo Herald says of the new oyster beds that have been planted at various points in coast waters by the Dominion government, that they are thriving fully as well as was hoped proposal in detail. He pointed out that by the most sanguine. The story that all the expenses of the militia would be was extensively circulated through propaid, while rations would be provided by vincial papers a short time ago, that the cysters had been destroyed by starfish was totally untrue and probably arose from the fact that a few of the oysters that were to be planted in his regular beds had been overlooked and were planted in a certain locality, which was thought by some would make a good bed Investigation afterwards, however, proved that the place was not at all favorable, and the oysters did not thrive as hoped for. This, however, was the only place where such a thing occur-ied, and it is well to note that the place was not chosen by the fishery officials but was just taken by chance without us examination Mr. Taylor says that in the places where regular beds have been planted they are thriving splendidly. In one iace not far from Nanaimo, the oysters how a growth of fully an inch in a period of about three weeks. This proves that eastern oysters may be cultivated in British Columbia waters with he very best success, and Mr. Taylor is confident that the ultimate results of the experiment will be all that even the lost sanguine promoters of the venture

Capt. Kemp, the Eastern oyster ex pert, arrived in Nanaimo yesterday after noon on the D. G. S. Georgia. He has been visiting several of the beds, recenty planted, and is most favorably im pressed with the success already achiev ed. He says British Columbia waters ere apparently well adapted to the cultivation of these large eastern oysters, and l is should result in building up an extensive and profitable industry for British Columbia with the very best success, and Mr. Taylor is confident that the ultimate results of the experiments will be all that even the most sanguine Prominent Leaders in Movement Think the English Government's Offer Should Have Been Accepted.

New York, Aug. 3 .- Interviews with lead ers in the movement gathered by special correspondents attending the Zionist con gress, which closed vesterday at Basle Switzerland, are published to-day by the Jewish Morning Journal.

Attorney James Sinowski, leader of the seceding Zionists of Warsaw, declares that 5.50 the majority of the congress did not repre sent the interests of the Jewish nation, and adds: "A great mistake was made in refusing the land offered by the English govern 6.50 ment as a site for a colony. It would have been the beginning of a movement that 1.50 would have world-wide significance and 1.60 would have been a haven where persecuted Jews could have taken refuge." Israel Zangwell, the author, said: "The rejecting of the English offer, if it had been agreed to by the majority of our people, would have been the death blow to practical Zionism and would have reduced the move ment to a case of phantoms. Zionism will be rescued by the terrorists who have abanened the original movement and have or ganized a new movement that is bound to be crowned with success."
