Amateur and Professional Races at Providence. THE GREAT RACE OF 11 OARSMEN.

Wallace Ross Victorious. Hanlan Takes Sick & Gives Up. WHAT THEY SAY IN ST. JOHN.

[From the "Daily Telegraph." PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 17. Probably the city of Providence never saw as many people within its limits as gathered on the banks of the Seekonk today. The number is variously estimated from 40,000 to 100,000. They came by rail, street car, sailboat, barges, steamers 30 octaves OldScotch WHISKEY, and every conceivable mode of conveyance. It was a peaceable crowd, all intent on seeing the grand race, but the proportion that had any definite idea of who started to row or finished was remarkably small, as the river was crowded with craft of all descriptions, whose occupants thought the best position for viewing the race was between the grand stands, of which there were a dozen or more, along the course. The press facilities were poor, also for the same reason, inefficient or rather utter

> AMATEUR RACE. This trouble, and the tardiness of Mayor Doyle in putting in an appearance, delayed the start of the amateur race. The men were called at 4.05 p. m, when seven re-

WINNER. Another long wait occurred with the professionals in line before they started, which they did at 5.29.42½ p. m. The following men appeared on the ourse and took up positions as drawn :-

those who followed. At the start Plaisted

Boyd were seen almost together. The thing that I wish to tell you," said the two latter kept at it for about 60 strokes gentleman; "Ross, when in practice for when the champion shot away ahead of his previous races, always showed good the Britisher, and began to creep up to form and was plucky. But when he faced Plaisted, who was the leader, and right his antagonist he always lacked the backnobly was he cutting out the pace. Ross bone to carry him through. This was the the quarter was on even terms. Then Hanlan, who had left Boyd, began to tell case of Plaisted and Brayley, because he slowly to creep up to Ross. So tremendous nessed than was presented by these four men who were rowing nearly abreast, quotation 'Nothing succeeds like success straining every nerve for the mastery.
Hanlan, Ross, Plaisted, and Riley, who the interview closed. had came up rapidly on the finish of the first mile away, went from half a mile to a mile and a half.

HANLAN STOPS ROWING,

holding second place to the turn, which he made immediately after Ross. From then to the finish he slacked up and rowed home leisurely.

Ross seeing that Hanlan was disabled also turned buoy No. 2, and squared away homeward at a magnificent pace, leading the field by at least 20 lengths to the finish, crossing the line in 28 min. 54 sec., an easy winner, amid the cheers of thousands of spectators and salvos from the yachts round about. Plaisted and Riley, after a struggle and great liability of fouling, turned the stake together. As soon as they were fairly on their way home, Riley, by extra exertions, managed to catch Plaisted, and was away dozen lengths, ahead.

RILEY PASSES HANLAN. At the two miles stake he passed Hanlan and securely settled down to second place which he gained without much further effort, he passing the stake boat in 30 min.
30½ sec. After Plaisted, Ten Eyck turned, then Gaudier, Lee, Pelano and Boyd, Dempsey giving up the race before reach. ing the turn. As Ross had it all his own way on the home stretch, so did Riley as second man; and Ten Eyck, as third man, having passed the others, came in third in 30 min. 50 seconds, five or six lengths aheard of Gaudier, who finished a length ahead of Plaisted. The boat of the latter was half full of water. Craft on craft on the river now crowded in at the general. turn over the finish, thus shutting out the others and THE GREAT RACE WAS OVER The only accident to mar the day's plesure was the fall of about 150 feet of the grand stands, by which Mrs. Mary Wallace, of Boston, severly and several people slightly injured. A number of others became panic striken and jumped overboard, but escaped with a wetting. Various rumors are abroad to-night relative to Hanlan's giving out, but Referee

Curtis says he was out of condition and lost

the race through illness caused by not being acclimated. ST. JOHN TAKEN BY SURPRISE Had St. John been visited by an earth-quake there would not have been more surprise felt than the announcement that Ross had won a victory, in a great field of oarsmen, over three of his old rivals, before two of whom he had been obliged to bow, while one had been defeated. There was little or no interest taken here in the Seekonk regatta, from the fact that it was considered Ross had no chance for first place with such a collection of scullers, particularly as Hanlan was among the rivals. A few, however, made inquiries at The Brothers Fitzgerald, of Philadelphia, the Western Union and Dominion Teledid not put in an appearance; the men graph offices during the progress of the were kept in line waiting until 4.23. Gaisel, Laing, Buckley, Hayden, Murphy OLD BOATING FEVER WAS AROUSED The telegram giving Ross' position at the close of the second mile indicated that he was doing well and the information that others being strung out behind. Murphy | followed went to show that Ross had an soon overhauled Hayden and cut out work for his followers, but his stroke was ner-first. Good news, in this instance, spread vous, and his pace was too fast for him, as was soon seen when Holmes put on speed and passed the leaders, and then went telegraph offices to obtain a confirmation ahead at a pace that showed early in the of the stories. By the time the race was struggle that he was the peer of them all. over, there were crowds on the sidewalks As for Murphy, he was out of the race, being far in the rear of all. In the meantime, Laing, Buckley and Gaisel were palmy days of boating. About 6 o'clock having a lively struggle among them-the Dominion Telegraph Company posted selves. Gaisel made a noble effort to a bulletin in its window stating that spurt himse's alongside of the Pawtucket him. He anowed the row row ROSS HAD WON THE RACE, proach to a safe distance, nearly abrerst seemed long, but very few words were Recent performances; that he should winevell, it was too much. People who had apparently, dropped all interest in aquatics suddenly realized that there was a spark left, and it soon kindled into a flame as t' tidings spread. The result was discussed by many and the advice of old boating men 36 sought. Some were surprised, yet there were not a few who expressed no wonder Murray came home with the others and at what they heard, and said it did them was announced as fourth man, but as he did not turn the stake was not entitled to any position. Murphy gave up the race to any form of the stake was not entitled to any position. AN OPINION THAT ROSS WAS NOT PROPERLY THE PROFESSIONAL RACE-ROSS AN EASY BOATED IN THE PAST. A very firm supporter of Wallace Ross, in days gone by, said that he was glad to hear of "Pompey's" success and, despite the fact that he had been the loser by backing Ross, renewed his off-repeated declaration of confidence in the St. John course and took up positions as drawn:
