RICKS HERE LIFE TO SAVE HER MAID.

Miss Letta Carrington, Fully Dressed, Swims to the Rescue of Drowning Girl.

MADISON, Conn., July 8.—Miss Letta Carrington, daughter of J. B. Carrington, of New Haven, who is popular in society in the Elm City, is now famous here as a life saver. With her parents she is spending the season at the Carrington residence.

While seated on the veranda yesterday her attention was attracted by the screams for help of one of their maids who was bathing. There was an unusually high sea and a strong undertow and the maid had gone beyond her depth. Miss Carrington ran to the shore, and without removing any of her clothing plunged in and swam to the rescue of the maid.

There was a short struggle for the mastery and Miss Carrington won. She brought the maid to shore in the presence of a large crowd which had gathered. When taken from the water the maid was unconscious.

Medical aid was summoned and after two hours the efforts at resuscitation were rewarded.

"Here, my boy!" said the old gentleman, "I wouldn't cry like that." "G'oden," retorted the boy; "let's see how you'd do it!"—Philadelphia Press.

JUDGE PARKER NOMINATED.

The First Ballot Ends a Famous Fight.
Democrats at St. Louis Sat All Night in Exciting Session
—Bryan's Eloquent Appeal.

ST. LOUIS, July 8.—Chief Judge Alton B. Parker, of the New York Supreme Court of Appeals, was nominated at about fifteen minutes to six o'clock this morning for president of the United States by the Democratic national convention. But one roll call ensued and so decisive was the result of that one that contrary sides began to call for recognition and the ballot finally resulted in an unanimous vote for the New York statesman. The scene was dramatic in the extreme. Darkness had witnessed the gathering of the Democratic hosts, while broad daylight, the sun paling the electric light, witnessed the close of the convention. The convention was in session from six o'clock last night until nearly six o'clock this morning. In that time eight names were presented to the convention. Nominating and seconding speeches immeasurable were made and as dawn approached it became necessary to limit the seconding speeches to four minutes each.

An exception was made in the case of William Jennings Bryan, who in one of the most dramatic situations ever witnessed in an American political gathering, addressed the convention and concluded by seconding the nomination of Senator Francis M. Cockrell, "the favorite son," candidate from Missouri. Mr. Bryan received the third great ovation accorded the convention. His speech was an impassioned appeal to the delegates to give the party a candidate who had won the democratic ticket in 1896 and 1900. He spoke in behalf of the Nebraska delegation, which he said had been the most present or favors to ask, but a candidate whose nomination would not prove a triumph for one section over another. He suggested Hearst, if the convention thought best, then former Governor Patton of Pennsylvania, and finally created a surprise in the convention by declaring for Senator Cockrell.

One of the features of the long drawn-out session had been the tribute paid to Senator Cockrell when his name was placed in nomination by Republicans and Democrats. It was a spontaneous outburst. The delegates, already weary of the tedious and trying session, paused in their labors and in the guise of a nomination for the presidency which the senator's friends knew to be beyond his reach, indulged in a demonstration, continuing about half an hour. Nearly every delegate and spectator in the galleries or on the floor had kept provided with a flag and the scene was far the most impressive of all the ovations given during the session.

That thousands of cheering persons apparently converted Mr. Bryan to the belief that Senator Cockrell's chances of nomination were greater than those of any other candidate. The Nebraska gain recognition, and in a speech directed undoubtedly in an effort to defeat Parker, made his electrifying plea for the anti-Parker forces to rally. He was given the closest attention. The great convention with its solace and serenity of mind were powerless to control themselves as though every word were a personal message to each person. In a hypnotic spell had been cast over the throng.

But when it was all over, the Parker forces had not been shaken. The ballot for president gave Parker 658 votes out of the 677 needed to nominate and before the result could be announced, the delegates from Nevada, Washington and others made changes to the Parker column. Gov. Dockery, of Missouri, moved to make the nomination unanimous and it carried amidst increasing cheering. The result of the ballot was never announced officially and it is not likely that it ever will be.

The convention took a recess yesterday until eight o'clock last night for their purpose of receiving the report of the committee on resolutions. The report was received and adopted by a free vote. So far as surface indications were concerned, there was no more opposition to the platform than there had been in that adopted unanimously by the Republican convention in Chicago a few weeks ago.

ESCHMUEHL, N. Y., July 8.—The news of Judge Parker's nomination was given to him at 8 a. m. today by the correspondent of the Associated Press who found him clambering out of the water after his morning swim. "Well, Judge, you've been nominated," cried the reporter as the athletic figure of the judge appeared over the bow of the barge from which he had been diving. "Is that so?" replied the judge, his ruddy face breaking into a cherry smile in which satisfaction was undisguised. He asked for details of the fight and displayed the liveliest interest in the proceedings, but refused to discuss the situation until he was officially notified.

The present Democratic nominee is fifty-two years old and though a strong Democrat, has not of recent years been identified with things political. For about twenty years he has held a judicial office, and obedient to his theory of judicial independence, has avoided all participation in politics except the casting of his own secret ballot at elections. And yet he is a man of strong political convictions. Before he was elevated to the bench he conducted a Democratic State campaign as chairman of the executive committee. He was one of Mr. Cleveland's earliest and most earnest supporters.

He has held no office with distinction the positions of supreme court justice, member of the second division of the court of appeals, member of the appellate division of the supreme court and the chief justiceship of the court of appeals, which office he now holds. Judge Parker is regarded as the embodiment of the conservative principles of the Democratic party.

JAPS CAPTURE TEN GUNS.

Another Victory Near Kai Chau—Russians Strengthen the Defenses of Port Arthur.

LONDON, July 8.—The Tokio correspondent of the Daily Chronicle, under date of July 8, says that the Japanese captured over ten guns and fifty prisoners near Kai-Chou.

No other despatches in confirmation of the foregoing have been received. CHIEFY, July 8 (noon).—Junks which passed through the Gulf of Pechili on Thursday, July 7, report having heard heavy firing at sea all the afternoon.

TIEN TSIN, July 8.—Three Frenchmen arrived at Tien Tsin yesterday from Port Arthur, having come over in a Chinese junk, report that 30,000 soldiers and 10,000 marines compose the garrison of the Russian stronghold and that the Russians have mounted 700 guns on the heights north of Port Arthur.

They say also that the Russian torpedo boat destroyer Lieut. Durukoff was captured at Tien Tsin yesterday. He has made in all four trips from Port Arthur to Newchwang.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 8.—General Sakharoff, commander of the eastern army, in a long despatch to the general staff, dated yesterday, reports that the Japanese have been definitely ascertained, but it is known that 20 officers and 15 men were killed or wounded.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 8, 2:15 a. m.—Reports from the front indicate that the Japanese are continuing their activity of the Japanese is all-important. The advance posts of Lieut. General Count Kellor, the force holding the main Kang Ching road converging on Liao Yang, are faced by a heavy Japanese force, and there is constant skirmishing between the two forces.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 8.—Calling attention of July 8 to the Standard's correspondent at Tien Tsin says: "The Chinese government today paid to the American consul $25,000 in gold as indemnity for the death of Lewis Eitel."

SOME OF THE THINGS HE HAS GIVEN US.
The first knife was of course, a flint flake, and the earliest point of a shell, to which primitive man learned in the course of ages to fasten a handle of wood or bone.

Such articles as these, together with hammer, axes and needles, are easily made by a primitive man. It is, however, more startling to find that such a comparatively modern invention as the rifle has been used for ages by tribes whom we designate as savages. The application of the primitive rifle to the modern war is a thing that is gradually being learned by the savages of the island of Timor.

W. J. DeVemie, late of the Imperial Cigarette and Tobacco Company, of this city, left last Thursday for Fredericton, where he will accept a position as surveyor with the Patterson Lumber Co.

AGED WOMAN TORTURED.

The Fiendish Work of Four Thieves; One a Woman.
Septuagenarian Refused to Tell Robbers Where Her Money Was Hid.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 9.—With her wrists and ankles tied by robbers with leather thongs, and with a gag in her mouth, Mrs. Elizabeth Tangney, seventy-five years old, reported to be worth $200,000, was left to die in her lone room on the third floor of the building at No. 135 West Harrison street.

Four robbers, one of whom was a woman, had tied the thongs so tightly that every movement caused the aged woman agony, and at each attempt to scream the gag cut into her throat. For seven hours after the thieves left her home the woman struggled with her hands and finally freed one hand. She rolled over and over through a doorway into the kitchen, where she got a knife from the table and cut the leather which held her a prisoner.

She then became unconscious. It was two hours before she opened her eyes and crawled to the home of a neighbor on whose doorstep she lay until discovered in the morning.

The robbers entered the house at eight o'clock Sunday night. Mrs. Tangney was lying on her bed and was awakened when she felt a hand pressed against her forehead and looked into the muzzle of a revolver. A tall man was standing over her and demanding to know where her wealth was concealed. She told him she had no treasure, but in return received a kick in the chest.

Three more thieves then entered the room. One was a woman, the other two men. The men bound the aged and frightened woman, and while one drew her hands behind her another bound her wrists with thongs. The blood was trickling down her face and one of the men laughed. "It may loosen her tongue some," he said.

Next her feet were tied securely and she was told that if she did not reveal the hiding place of her money she would be tortured with live coals. The suffering woman pleaded that there were only a few dollars in the house. Another thief was taken in the bonds and she cried out that her money was in her trunk in the room of Miss McLean.

When the robbers entered the room they found a woman sitting up in bed, her head covered with a towel. She had been awakened by a noise and had slipped on the floor and disappeared from sight to pick it up. Then the judge would sit upright with a start. The vigilant clerk had given him a sharp nip in the calf.

SHORT STORIES.
She is a woman—college sophomore and was returning from a visit to New Haven and transferring by street car from the station in New York. She took the only available seat in the car and just opposite two young men. Suddenly there entered a ladylike, plainly-gowned girl. "Why don't you offer her your place?" said the first man nudging his companion. "She is too ugly," responded the other in a low voice, but the wind carried the remark to the sophomore and she looked up quickly to see if it had reached the other girl. Apparently it had not.

CATHOLIC COLOR LINE.

Baltimore Negroes Protest to Cardinal Gibbons Against Being Ordered Out of Church.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 8.—Several negro Catholics have protested to Cardinal Gibbons against the drawing of the color line in the Church of the Immaculate Conception, and they say the cardinal's secretary has promised to investigate.

W. T. Carr, a colored physician, says that his wife was put out of the church by the Rev. Patrick Donoghue, the pastor. The woman says that on Sunday, June 28, she attended an early mass together with a colored woman named Dorsey, the mother of the Rev. Father Dorsey, one of the only two colored priests in this country. Several other colored persons were in the party. They were told by an assistant priest to leave the church and not return. Mrs. Carr claims that Mrs. Dorsey was ordered to leave while on her knees at prayer.

A celebrated health club enjoins upon each member the duty of taking one hundred deep breaths every day, advising that those who are drawn in the morning should take ten deep breaths. Those who practice learn to take advantage of the freshest air to be taken in the course of the day. The first ten are enjoyed after leaving the morning bath. The shoulders are thrown back, the chin is level or slightly raised, the arms held tightly at the side, the lips are firmly closed. Ten or fifteen deep breaths with the mouth open is an admonition which cannot be too rigidly enforced.

The ten breaths are drawn from the live air, not that which has stagnated all night in the house. Each inspiration is slow and steady, filling the lungs to their depths, the live air is held a few seconds, then expired as slowly as it was drawn. To throw it out in rapid pants is harmful to muscles and tissues.

Ten breaths taken in this way will not only strengthen and refresh the respiratory apparatus, but quicken the blood into a livelier flow so naturally and healthfully that the action of the heart is not made irregular. The skin all over the body is tinged with a clear pink, the system having been awakened all along the line of life. In cold weather ten deep breaths, taken on the ferry-boat, the green salt air filling in the nostrils, or in the teeth of a north wind tearing down the street, will warm one from head to toe. The thought and the action become an instinct in time, the duty a pleasure which is missed when omitted.

THE McRobbie Shoe Co., Ltd., and M. I. Savage announce their intention of observing the half holiday, independent of the action of other shoe stores, and ask their friends to do as much of their Saturday shopping as possible on Friday night and Saturday morning.
