

Gateway

Member of Canadian University Press

Published twice weekly by the University of Alberta Students' Union in the Gateway Offices, Room 282, Students' Union Building.

Volume LXVI, Number 30
January 13, 1976

SENIOR EDITORS

Editor-in-chief: Greg Neiman News Editor: Kim St. Clair Photo Editor: Brent Hallett Graphics Editor: Craig McLaughlan
Footnotes Editor: Marg Reed

STAFF

Greg Hoosier
Rick Fritze
Norm Selleck
Marilyn Zuber
Bob Austin
Brian Gavriloff
Gerhard Hiob
Kevin Gillese
John Kenney
Tom Baker
Ben Verdum
Darrell Semenuk
Keith Allan
Keith Steinbach
Nancy Brown
Willie Campbell

CIRCULATION

Circulation 18,000. The Gateway publishes on Tuesday and Thursday during the Fall and Winter Sessions.
It is distributed to the students, academic, and non-academic staff on campus.

Subscription Rates: $10.00 for 67 issues

Circulation Manager: Jim Hagerty

ADVERTISING

No mats accepted. National and local advertising $.28 per agate line.
Classified Ads, 10¢ per word. All classified ads must be prepaid.

Advertising Manager: Tom Wright 432-3423

PRODUCTION

Ad make-up, layout and typesetting done by Media Productions, University of Alberta, Room 238, Students' Union Building.

Production Managers:
Loreen Lennon
Margriet Tilroe-West

FOOTNOTES

Publicizes campus events or those of interest to students, without charge.
Footnote forms available at the Gateway office and should be submitted before 2 p.m. Mondays and Wednesdays.

LETTERS

Submit all letters, typed and double-spaced to the Editor, who reserves the right to edit copy. Regular copy deadlines apply.

Opinions expressed in the Gateway are those of the writer, and are not necessarily those of the Gateway.

GRAPHICS

Submit all graphics, cartoons, and illustrations to Graphics Editor by normal copy deadlines.

COPY DEADLINES

Monday noon for the Tuesday edition; Wednesday noon for the Thursday edition.

TELEPHONES

Editor's office:
432-5178
All Departments:
432-5168
Media Productions:
432-3423

letters

Just friends

With reference to your letter published in the Gateway of Jan. 6, 1976, I would like to make a few comments.

What makes you think that it is "not a right of a citizen of a foreign country to be educated in Canada, any more than it is his right to immigrate into Canada?" Did you really stop to think where your kind of rationalization could lead to Mr.
Edmunds?

If we start eliminating foreigners from Canada, I'm too scared to say who might remain, but them, that's only thinking in accordance with you, and adding fuel to the fire certainly would not put it out. You are not only asking for a different Canada; you are indirectly asking for a different world! Isn't that just a little too much?

Saying that "a right to an education can only come from a commitment to a society" sounds reasonable enough, but how many people (students, to be specific) think in terms of being committed to a society? No one plans his life on that basis Mr. Edmunds.
If you think that you would like to live in some other part of the world after your education, I'm sure you would not say: "Hey, I can't because I'm committed to my country." Since it's not an obligation, then why make it sound like one?

Your assumption that foreign students "will never contribute" to this country is untrue. Most of them do to a certain extent (carry out a survey if you have the time to spare), and others would if only they were given a chance. Those who are landed immigrants certainly contribute to this country, but those who are here on student visas MUST return to their home countries at the completion of their studies.
That leaves them with no alternative, so why make an issue where none exists?

To say that "the quality of education at the U of C suffered because of foreign students' attendance", sounds like midwinter humour. I do not see how this "quality of education" can be affected by the mere presence of foreign students.

Imparting knowledge certainly does not deprive anyone of anything. The lecturers would cover the same materials regardless if there were only Canadian students or only foreign students.

Overcrowding? I'm certain that there is an adequate number of people on every university campus to make that conclusion. No school-system will accept more students than it can possible accomodate.

Come on Mr. Edmunds, save us the ordeal. It's not our fault that we are less fortunate than you are in getting a good education in our home countries. Both you and I are only trying to argue about things that we simply cannot change at this stage. Why don't we just give up the wild gobbse chase and be friends instead?

Dolly C. Jagdeo
Sc. 1

Eating your words

I am writing to request that you print a full retraction for the totally unjustified headline in your editorial column dated December 4, 1975.

The proposal that was drawn up by my brother and I, regarding an increased level of fees for international students on student visas, made no reference to the racial background of any group of students. The proposal, if implemented, would affect all international students equally whether they be white, black, brown, or yellow, regardless of their background.

Please feel free to contact me at 284-6551 during office hours if you have any questions.
I would appreciate it if you would forward me a copy of your December 4th issue and any other relevant material.
Thank you.

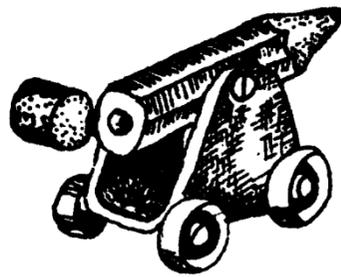

David L. Wolf
President
Students' Legislative Council
University of Calgary

Dear Mr. Wolf:

I regret the wording of the editorial headline in question, and do retract it insofar as it may be libellous.

However, I reaffirm that once a society or a university accepts someone from another society all should be treated the same. There should be no discrimination between students, financially or otherwise.

Ed.

editorial

The new paranoia

Remember the good old days when just about everything that was going wrong with society or the national budget was cited as a communist plot?

Increasing crime, student riots, the new morality, all seemed tailor-made to break down the fabric of western life. All the moral and psychological changes which were seen as sicknesses totalled up, in the eyes of many, as a plot - a clever, obscenely thorough communist plot.

I wonder if the present tide of government policy can also be labelled a plot? A capitalist plot. A plot aimed at keeping the poor out of university, and the rich in an even more exclusive elite than at present.

Evidence: the government puts a ceiling on education funding, hailing themselves as protectors of society against inflation, at a time when anyone who knows would tell you that such a ceiling has no effect on the inflationary spiral.

And the university administration seems to be in on the plot as well, by suggesting increased tuition fees, and even raising the rents in Michener Park, in blatant contradiction of federal and provincial guidelines.

For someone who is naturally skeptical of the actions of the governing boards it seems like a means to ensure that society's underprivileged are not to gain from society's benefits.

The percentage of students from upper and middle income groups here is well into the majority. There is no real cross section of society in our university - the number of native students at the U of A, for example, is less than ten.

Yet both the provincial government and the university seek to increase the inequities that forbid the lower classes of society from entering university. Does anyone consider these things when they ratify these unfair tuition and housing increases? There is precious little evidence to prove it.

Arguing that our society has means to help poor people through university is not quite to the point.
Sure student loans are available. My point is that when the university increases the inequities they actually prevent poorer people from considering university.
The debt that one foresees is just too great to embark upon.

This is the unfortunate circumstance one faces when institutions don't consider the rights of anyone but the rich, or at least don't appear to.

...and Council leads behind

On the same issue, Council doesn't seem willing to show any leadership at all. If last night's display is any indication of Council's awareness or initiative, we might as well forget about our student reps. At any rate, they seem of have forgotten about us.

When discussing the tuition increase issue councillors sat and chewed some irrelevant bone on what the university should do with its investments.
Should they invest in preferred stock, sell their IT & T shares, develop their land holdings through real estate investors, or pump it back into the university?

Nobody seemed to care about whether or not there was any justice in keeping university education for the elite, they wanted to speculate on whether the university could make more money from students than they could from the stock market.

Nobody seemed willing to consider the underprivileged, or any of the facts before them. Talk about who gets to university, and why, fell on deaf ears.

Not that deaf ears would be out of place in Council Chambers in the first place. Brian Mason, unfortunat-ly inarticulate, had the honor of being the only one present with any facts.

It was lucky that only eighteen councillors managed to make an appearance. Otherwise they'd still be in there, probably investing money in the Alberta Energy Company.

Greg Neiman