ARE AFTER MORE CLEWS

It is Expected that receiver of Stolen Horses Will Be Captured

Local Officer Dezella Deserves Much Credit For Clever Work

For the past few days it has been practically a game of hide-and-seek between the local newspaper reporters and the detectives who have been working on the horse-stealing case. The latter were anxious that the findings should be kept a secret till they got the mystery cleared up, and until to-day they were successful in keeping out of the range of the newspapermen. It will be remembered, however, that The Planet was first on the ground with the story of the stealing of Dr. MacFarlane's horses, and published the details a day previous to any other newspaper, and before the sleuths of the law were on the scent. A further account of the capture and preliminary hearing given Yott will be found in another column of to-day's issue.

To-day a Planet reporter waylaid Provincial Detective Reaburn, near the Police Court. "I have been dodging you the last couple of days," was the cheerful confession of the sleuth from Toronto. The authorities are not giving out any information, but it is confidentially expected that another man will be rounded up before nightfall. This will probably be the receiver of the stolen horses. It is further understood that Yott has made a confession admitting his guilt.

A great deal of the credit for the capture of Yott should go to Officer Peter Dezella, of this city. The bulk of the information on which the detectives worked was supplied by the shrewd local officer, whom Crown-Attorney D. H. Smith described to look after the local end of the work as soon as the robbery was reported. Officer Dezella and Detective Reaburn kept in touch with Detective Campeau, of Windsor, and he, in turn, supplied them with what information he picked up in the border city. In this way evidence was secured, on which the Crown authorities hope to base a conviction.

AGE LIMIT IS CHANGED

Department of Education Issues Circular Re Model School

Candidates Who Were Refused Admittance May Now Attend

The following circular, in reference to the admission to County Model Schools for the season of 1907, has been received from the Department of Education, Toronto, by J. W. Plevins, Principal of the Chatham Model School, and H. W. G. Colles, Inspector for East Kent.

For the present session of the County Model Schools, and not thereafter, County Boards may admit pupils who are qualified non-professionally as prescribed in Regulation 59, and who will be eighteen years of age on or before August the 17th, 1908. Certificates of qualification as Public School Teachers shall, however, not be issued to such candidates until they are of the legal age, nor shall a County Board have authority to admit any other candidates than those qualified as above.

R. A. PYNE,
Minister of Education,
Education Department, Toronto,
Sept. 9th, 1907.

Those who were under age were denied admission on the opening day of the Kent County Model School. These may now attend.

WHITE STAR FLOOR OIL

Is especially recommended for use in Schools, Public Buildings, Hotels, Stores, Offices, Shaving Parlors and Billiard Parlors.

This Floor Oil is a powerful disinfectant against the germs of contagious and infectious diseases, prevents dust arising when sweeping and preserves wood floors and linoleum.

AUDIENCE TAKEN IN

Schubert Symphony Club Was Not up to The Standard

Thomas Purcell, Violinist, Was The One Star Attraction

The Schubert Symphony Club, which performed in the Borden Opera House last evening, was a disappointment to the small but select audience, who had gone expecting to hear something out of the ordinary. The concert was under the auspices of the Ladies' Assisting Society, the members of which were as badly taken in as any person in the Opera House. It is unfortunate that the ladies who brought this entertainment to Chatham did not know of the real merits of the production, for there are people who are loyal enough to the hospital to purchase tickets for any entertainment recommended in aid of this worthy institution. It is hardly fair that these people should be "held up" as they were last evening.

The Schubert Symphony Club should be called a guitar and mandolin club—and a poor one at that. The one lone man, who is a member of the club, was the only redeeming feature to the whole production, and he was exceptionally good as a violin and mandolin soloist. He played a mandolin when the "Symphony" Club performed, and the rest of the players were easily sized up when once or twice he stopped playing in order to tune up his instrument. There were two guitars and three mandolins. One guitar made considerable noise, but, although the other fair maiden who held a guitar in her lap went through some of the motions, the sounds of her instrument were faint and indistinct. Sort of "double piano."

It was plainly evident that the high soprano was suffering from a severe cold, and on this account she should be excused. Barring this unfortunate circumstance, however, she had a pleasing voice, and, under favorable conditions, would have done herself credit.

One member of the company rendered what was termed a contralto solo, which turned out to be a high soprano voice, sung an octave down. This wouldn't have been so bad if the accompaniment had only been changed to suit her voice. The high treble accompaniment made the voice sound coarse and harsh.

The electioneer's first number was good, and thoroughly appreciated. After that her selection was at fault. If she had had anything better she should have given it, for the audience last night was cultured enough to appreciate her best. Her dialect was poor.

There was also a ladies' quartette, which looked very much as if this was why the Symphony Club was formed; the members of the quartette picking up a few notes on string instruments in order to fill in sufficient numbers to make up a full program. Their selections were good, but, unfortunately, the audience was exceptionally hard for visitors to please owing to the fact that we have in the Maple City a ladies' quartette which is not excelled by many of the best on the American concert stage.

The violinist, Thomas Purcell, was the star attraction. Those who did not know too much about violin playing knew he was good because he wore his medals on his coat lapel. His playing was indeed exceptionally brilliant and fascinating. He is an artist of seemingly unlimited ability, and he took his audience by storm upon his first appearance.

The house netted about $60. The company took away about $40, so that, after the rent of the Opera House is paid, there will not be much to the credit of the hospital.

HAD A FINE TIME

Messrs. Drum Aitken, Claud Brundage, and John B. Smith have returned from Cleveland, after attending the cricket match between Detroit and Cleveland. Aitken and Brundage were prominent players in the game, and also in the game with Akron. Detroit won from Akron with a score of 159 to 47. This last game finished the series of the Middle West Cricket League. Detroit and Pittsburgh are tie, each having won five games out of eight. The league is formed from the following teams—Cleveland, Akron, Pittsburgh, Youngstown, and Detroit. The game to play off the tie between Detroit and Pittsburgh will be played on neutral grounds, and it is expected to be played in Cleveland.

Brundage is reported to have given the finest exhibition of cricket playing that has ever been known to the D.A.C. Club. He has to his credit an average of twenty-five runs per innings, having made 175 runs in 7 innings. This is the highest average in the Middle West League. "Bunny" is thus awarded the medal. Dr. Biggar, of Cleveland, entertained the players to a fine banquet at the Colonial Hotel. This was indeed a great pleasure to the players, as the Doctor is one of Cleveland's most distinguished personages, being John D. Rockefeller's private physician.

PRAISE FOR MR. CLEMENTS

He Is Assiduous In Promoting Interests of his Constituency

So Says The Toronto News, Independent—Tribute to Bowyer

The Toronto News Independent, in the report of the Borden meetings at Chatham, says—

"A corner may be found for the speech by Mr. Clements, the member for West Kent. Mr. Clements is assiduous in promoting the interests of his constituency, and his speech dealt with local questions, such as the protection of agricultural products, which in Kent seems something of an issue, the shutting out of American hops, and a severely local issue—the interchangeability of Grand Trunk and Wabash tickets on that line of the Grand Trunk, the old Great Western, which is leased to the Wabash; apparently some irritation has been caused by one road refusing the other's tickets. Incidentally Mr. Clements denounced bounties."

"Mr. P. H. Bowyer, the Conservative member for the Ontario House, in an admirably brief speech, said:—'I have read Mr. Borden's platform, and am personally thoroughly in accord with it. I desire to make special reference to the progressive planks, to me very dear; I mean those which can in the direction of the public ownership of public utilities.' That little speech may be taken as a model. Mr. Bowyer selected the newest and boldest features of his leader's policy—expressed his adhesion to it and his pleasure at seeing it in the platform—and sat down. Furthermore, the crowd showed interest in, and approved of, Mr. Borden's exposition of the Radical planks in his platform."

A CLEVER CAPTURE

George Yott Suspected Of Dover Horse Thieving Is Arrested

He Was Brought Here And Case Is Adjourned For A Week

One of the cleverest captures in the criminal history of Western Ontario has just been accomplished by three of the shrewdest police officers in the Province, in the arrest of George Yott, alleged horse thief, on whose tracks Provincial Detectives Rayburn, of Toronto, and Campeau, of Windsor, along with Officer Peter Dezella, of this city, have been following swiftly the past few days.

Crown Prosecutor H. D. Smith naturally feels quite elated over the capture, which was accomplished under his direction.

Yott was brought to the city yesterday morning, and was brought before Judge Houston in the County Police Court, for a preliminary hearing, at 2:30 in the afternoon. Chas. Cook, a liveman, of Windsor, was the only witness examined. He identified Yott as the man who appeared in the border city a week ago with a team of horses tallying in description with the horses stolen from Dr. MacFarlane's stables in Dover. He said that Yott brought the horses to his barn on Tuesday night, at 9:30, and took them down to the ferry at 8 o'clock the next morning. He did not appear to be anxious to sell them in Windsor. Richard Zakoor, of Windsor, offered Yott $150 for the Clyde mare, but the prisoner replied that he wouldn't take less than $200 for her.

The case has been adjourned for a week. Lewis and Richards are solicitors for the defendant.

BORROW CAREFULLY

Toronto, Sept. 9.—An important official statement was made to-day by the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board on applications for approval of by-laws increasing the rate of interest on debentures.

Speaking generally, the Board are not encouraging applications of this kind during the present stringency in the money market. The Board are of the opinion that it is good policy for municipalities to postpone the construction of municipal improvements for some time until monetary conditions have improved. The present stringency may only be a passing condition, which will right itself in a short time, and in that view it will be well for municipalities to borrow as little as possible at the present excessive rate of interest.

A TRIP TO JAMESTOWN

Will Foreman And Roy Robertson Had A Pleasant Outing

Many American Cities Visited—A two Weeks' Tour In States

Messrs. Will Foreman and Roy Robertson returned home on Sunday afternoon, after a two weeks' trip through the Southern States. They report having had a very pleasant time and feel greatly refreshed after their outing.

After leaving this city they set out for Albany. They travelled by the Wabash and New York Central Railway to New York, where they spent a very interesting time. Mr. Foreman, when interviewed this morning, stated that New York is a most beautiful place. They visited the Bronx or Zoological Park, Washington Heights, Grant's Tomb, The Columbia University, and the Museum of Natural History. They also attended the Zoological Congress of the World, which was being held there at that time. People from every country of the world were there. The Central Park has fine scenery, and the art galleries and museum exhibit the finest paintings in the world. Morgan and the Vanderbilts were contributors to these fine galleries. Battery Park was visited, and from there they went to Coney Island, thence over to Brooklyn. Here they saw the American warships, the Massachusetts and the Washington, and several cruisers. From here they continued on to Boston, and by the Neptune line, to Long Island Sound and Fall River.

This is the seat of the famous cotton mills. It is the largest cotton concern in the world and the trip through it was a most interesting one. They returned to New York and from there journeyed by electric train to Boston. Steam is being done away with on this road and is being replaced with electricity. From Boston they went to Fall River in an open electric car. The distance was about sixty miles and the country was very fine. The quaint old New England architecture, so much in evidence in the homes along this line.

In regard to the Jamestown Exposition, Mr. Foreman said that the reports were incorrect in stating that the fair was a failure. He said that the exposition was splendid and it was nearly completed. The reason he gives for it having received such a disreputable name is that the buildings had not been finished, and the exposition is all that can be desired.

Next to be spoken of is the Hampton road, between Old Point Comfort and Norfolk. From Norfolk they went to Washington by boat, a distance of 110 miles up the Chesapeake Bay and about 90 miles up the Potomac. Washington was described as a fine city, having beautiful parks and boulevards and magnificent Public Buildings. The Congressional Library is a fine construction.

The return trip home was somewhat the same. After leaving New York they went to Buffalo, and from there took the Eastern States to Detroit. The trip was a very pleasant and educating one.

In New York they met Mr. Hactor Jackson, and in Washington Mr. C. K. Eberts.

GOOD SHOOTING

Dr. Neil Smith returned to the city yesterday, and, in conversation with The Planet, gave some information as regards the success of the Regimental team from this district, who were taking part in the rifle matches at Toronto and Ottawa.

All the marksmen were from Tilbury East, and were as follows—Dr. Oliver, of Merlin; Dr. Neil Smith, of this city; J. W. Smith, of St. Mary's; Roger Hutchinson, of this city; M. Kerr, Mr. Graham and Mr. Lumley, of Tilbury.

The first week was spent in Toronto, where good shots were made at the Ontario Rifle Association, and the following week was spent in Ottawa, at the Dominion Rifle Association. The International Trophy was competed for by four teams. The teams taking part were from Canada, Great Britain, United States, and Australia. The United States team won. Each team was composed of eight men, and was allowed fifteen shots at 800, 900, and 1,000 yards range. The United States team had the advantage of the other teams, in the fact that they used peep sights, while the other teams were compelled to use open sights. The United States War Office has authorized their regiments to use peep sights, while the other war offices will not allow it. The scoring was the highest that has ever been made in any contest for the International Trophy. The United States came first, Canada second, Australia third, and Great Britain fourth.
