German Linen Industry Has Been Placed Upon a Gold Mark Basis,

[The Associated Press.] Berlin, April 26 .- With a view of encouraging the manufacture of linen textiles, the German government has removed the export license and tax for these goods. According to the German trade reports of the American Chamber of Commerce in Germany the export tax has been the greatest obstacle in the revival of the export trade here. Exporters have been making stren uous efforts to secure reduced freight rates for export shipments so as to put them on a basis similar to that which prevailed prior to the war. Simultaneously with removal of the export license and tax the removal of import licenses is planned, and already has been put into effect for a number of foreign products.

The German linen industry, like all other industries, has been placed upon a gold mark basis. The Chamber's trade report says the price of linen yarn, compared with peace time prices, is now 60 per cent. less, while cotton and cotton yarn in New York has increased from 14 cents in 1914 to 37 cents, indicating an increase of nearly 200 per cent. Due to this fact, says the report, the German as to-day flax has replaced cotton therefore linen textiles are lower in price than cotton textiles and their substitutes. The report assume however, that gradually linen price will reach the price level of cotton

It is reported that employment in the linen industry has been favorable recently, and that the mills have been able to dispose of their products fair prices. Merchants say that be-cause of the unsettled conditions prevailing here it is not likely Germany will be able to consume the
