Mrs. John Ireland, Nobleton, Ont., writes:

Assuring Your Business

A policy of advertising is a policy of life assurance, and the protection thus secured is well worth its annual cost.

Old customers die or move away—they must be replaced.

Old customers are subject to the influence of temptation—they may be induced to divide their custom—to do some of their shopping at a competitor's.

New comers to this community will shop with you—become regular customers—if they are invited to do so.

Your competitor's advertising is an influence which must be offset if you are to maintain your trade.

Not to advertise regularly to the readers of the UNION ADVOCATE is to leave your business unprotected.

A WORD TO THE PUBLIC

It is no sign of weakness to follow the lead of advertising. You owe it to yourself to get the most for your money, the best goods and the best service. And if you find that your inclination is to shop where you are invited to shop rather than to continue to be a customer of the shop which never solicits your good-will you need have no compunctions of conscience.

DRIVE TO SAVE RUSSIA FROM REDS

Ex-Communist Leader Quits Communism After Seeing Russia's Despair.

New York, Feb. 16— An anti-Bolshevist meeting was held in Webster Hall yesterday, to hear Morris Gordon tell "Why I lost my faith in Communistic Russia," Dr. S. Ingermann, Chairman of the Russian Social Democracy of New York, presided.

The meeting was the beginning of a movement that it is intended to expand into national and international protests against conditions affecting the Russian people under the political rule of the successors of Lenin and Trotsky.

The hall, inside and out, was well guarded by the police who had been called upon by the organizers of the meeting when they heard that Communist groups had threatened trouble. Gordon, a former Communist leader here and in Russia, had a body-guard of a dozen friends and several detectives. Admission was by card or personal identification but managers of the meeting said some of their political enemies had evaded the scrutiny and mingled with the crowd. If they were present they refrained from making a disturbance.

One-third of the 60 persons at the meeting were women. The audience applauded every point Gordon made against present conditions in Russia, and there seemed to be unanimous approval of his declaration that Russia was slowly but surely progressing toward, "a republic of the United States of Russia."

The speaker, formerly a student at the University of Chicago, was a draft soldier in the American Army during the World War. Until 1921 when he went to Russia, he was one of the leaders of the New York Communist Party. He returned here on Sept. 24. Describing his conclusions regarding his nearly three years of experience in Russia, Gordon said:

"I went there expecting to find a heaven for the people and for the workers; instead I found a hell. The people have no say in their government and little or any freedom in commercial or social activities. It is all a sickening dead level of political and industrial slavery, where the people are directed by a little group of dictators, headed by Gregory Zinovieff, chief of the Communist international and the Bolshevik's leading international propagandist. Then there is Stalin, President of the Russian Communist party and Leon Kameneff, Chairman of the Moscow Soviet. "The people may change this situation at any time, but when I left they seemed everywhere, so far as I noted, to be passively resentful, too hopeless to assert themselves. Everywhere around there was going on the economic, industrial and moral ruin of Russia. "In the meantime the leaders of this terrible situation are holding on to the shreds of Communism in their visionary scheme of getting through propaganda among nationals support for Communistic dominion.

"These selfish and misguided men, now in control, have trampled Russia politically into a big prison, a red dungeon. Before the unfortunate Russian people, most of whom would like to end their sufferings under this colossal failure, can expect any concrete help from other countries they must show their resentment of this false doctrine by attacking it themselves.

New Trial in Hanson Vs. Gleaner

The Appeal Division of the Supreme Court of New Brunswick, in three concurring judgements, upset the verdict which a jury in the York Circuit Court awarded R. B. Hanson, M. P. for York-Sunbury on four of five counts in the libel suit which he brought against The Gleaner Limited. The jury had awarded damages of $100 in the suit in which the plaintiff asked for $25,000.

Upon the grounds that evidence of an important nature had been improperly rejected by the trial judge, Chief Justice Barry of the King's Bench Division, all three judges agreed in ordering a new trial. This related especially to the evidence of Ernest A. MacKay, Deputy Registrar of the Supreme Court, to the effect that he had heard the telephone conversation in which Hanson told Dr. Allan to alter the Nevers decree changed.
