DE PROFUNDIS

You must be troubled, Asthore Because last night you came And stood on the moonlit floor, And called again my name In dreams I felt your tears. In dreams mine eyes were O dead for seven long years

And can you not forget And you not happy yet The Mass-bell shall be rung. The Mass is said and sung, And God will surely hear;

Go back and sleep my dear! You went away when you heard The red cock's clarion crow. You have given my heart a sword, You have given my life a woe, I, who your burden bore,

On whom your sorrows fell;

You had to travel, Asthore, Your better need to tell, And I-was faring well! The Mass-bell shall be rung The Mass be said and sung, And God will surely hear; Go back and sleep, my dear !

March 12, 1919-31

For the information of our many patrons, in both town and country, we deem it necessary to announce that the Coal Business, successfully car ried on in the past by the Itae Mr. Charles Lyons will be continued by the Estate, under the old firm name of C. Lyons & Co.

By maintaining a high standard of service and by courteous and honest treatment of the public, this firm has, for aperiod of more than a quarter of a century, enjoyed a large and ever-increasing patronage; and in announcing our intention of "earrying on," we desire, most earnestly, to give expression to our appreciation thereof. We are deeply grateful to the firm's many patrons for their constant manifestation of confidence in it in the past, and we assure them that if they favor us with a similar evidence of their good-will in future there shall be no economy of effort on our part to make our intercourse both pleasant and profitable to them,

As we possess almost unlimited facilities for supplying the coal trade, and as we are desrious of extending our already large business, we respect fully invite the patronage of new customers; and if we succeed in thus increasing our present con nection, we guarantee that we shall be indefatigable in our endeavor to justify the confidence of our new friends.

We again thank our patrons for their past generous patronage, and respectfully solicit a renewal of their esteemed custom.
