During the past season I have been concerning interested in agriculture. I have net with some success, but net emough to madden me with joy. It takes a good deal of success to unsered my reason and make it totter on its throne. Agriculture has a charm about it which I cannet adequately describe. Revery product of the farm is furnished by nature with something that loves it, so that it will never be neglected. The grain crop is loved by the weevil, the bessian ify, and the chinch bug; the watermelon, the squash, and the cumber are loved by the squash bug; the putato is loved by the potato bug; the sweet corn is loved by the potato bug; the sweet corn is loved by the cure-lic, and so forth, a all scientists seemed to be silent. I read the agricultural reports, the dictionary, and the encyclopsedia, but they didn't throw any light on the subject. I got wild. I feared that I had brought but one cut worm through the winter, and I was liable to lose him unless I could find out what to feed him. I asked some of out what to feed him. I asked some of my neighbors, but they speke jeeringly and sarcastically I know now why it was. All their cut-worms had frozen down last winter, aird they couldn't bear to see me get ahead.

All at once, an idea struck me. I

One morning late in the month, however, I saw a cut-worm come out from behind a cabbage stump and take off his car muff. He was a little stiff in the joints, but he had not lost hope. I saw at once now was the time to assist him if I had a spark of humanity left. I searched every work I could find on agriculture to find out what it was that farmers fed their blamed cut-worms, but he first man to bring the scientists were testing a new patent fuse. mell without care, I devoted myself al most exclusively to my cut-worms. They were all strong and well, but they seemed melancholy with nothing to eat, day after day, but cabbages.

I therefore bought five dozen tomato plants that were tender and large. These I fed to the cut-worms at the rate of eight to ten in en night. In a week the cut-worms had thrown off that air of enui and languor that I had formerly noticed, and were gay and light hearted. I got them some more cabbage for a change. On the whole I was as proud as any young farmer could be who has made a success of anything.

One morning I noticed that a cabbage plant was left standing unchanged. The mext day it was stil there. I was thund cr-struck. I dug into the ground. My cut-worms were gone. I spaded up the whole patch, but there wasn't one. Just as I had become attached to them, and they had learned to look forward each day to my coming, when they would all most come up and eat a temat-plant out of my hand, some one had robbed me of them. I was almost wild with despair and grief. Suddenly something turbled over my foot. It was m-stly stomach. but it had feet on each corner. A neighbor said it was a watty toad. Gentlemen—Having been a sufferer for a long time from nervous prostration and general debility, I was advised to try Hop Bitters. I have taken one bottle, and I have been rapidly getting better ever since, and I think it the best medicine I ever used. I am now all gone, and I was in despair until I tried your Bitters. I am now well, able to go about and do my own work. Before taking it I was completely prostrated.

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral.

No other complaints are so insidious in their attack as those affecting the throat and lungs: none so trifled with by the majority of sufferers. The ordinary cough or cold, resulting perhaps from a trifling or unconscious exposure, is often but the beginning of a fatal sickness. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has well proven its efficacy in a forty years' fight with throat and lung diseases, and should be taken in all cases without delay.

A Terrible Cough Cured. A Terrible Cough Cured.

"In 1851 I took a severe cold, which affected my lungs. I had a terrible cough, and passed night after 1: ght without sleep. The doctors gave me up. I tried AYER'S GIERRY PECTORAL, which relieved my lungs, induced sleep, and afforded me the rest necessary for the recovery of my strength. By the continued use of the PECTORAL a permanent cure was effected. I sim now 62 years old, hale and hearty, and am satisfied your CHERRY PECTORAL saved me.
