Dr. Grenfell Writes.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir,—One or two questions of very great importance to the health of outport Newfoundlanders are very insistent to a person with any view of the real duties of the medical profession to the people. One is tuberculosis, and the other, the dietetic inefficiencies. I've worried you with both of these before, but they are increasingly pressing, especially as one feels one can't remain here forever. One may practically say that nothing is done whatever for the very large and undue proportion of people who fall victims to tuberculosis. Again and again and again we meet with it in every form, and—while we might possibly care for the patients who come with acute attacks—there is no fund available for doing the real work of preventing a relapse which is often immediate. We have a tuberculosis shack built at the cost of $400 granted by the St. John's Anti-Tuberculosis Society. A great many of the victims who come to us gain strength and a start on the road to recovery, but we cannot keep them long, and there are no funds for provisioning and nursing those especially sick, and no proper hospital anywhere outside of St. John's for the poor creatures. I'm not going to weary you with stating instances—such as a mother who was putting on weight and doing splendidly in the hospital, and returned to take care of a family of children thereby losing in three weeks all the gain she had made, and is now marching steadily to her death. Why couldn't that Reid money offered be used, say for a ten to twenty bed hospital in each of the big bays or for one large hospital in the North, which we could superintend if only some regular appropriation were made for its expenses. We can get the best of staffs, give the most modern treatment, and the climate is—at any rate—as good as Newfoundland has to offer. But—wherever they establish it—surely we should have an opportunity to send some of these poor creatures there. They suffer terribly and die miserably as it now.

About diet: I'm going to send along later some pamphlet that our newly-organized Emergency Committee is spreading all along our coast, on the most truly economical diet obtainable, along with suggestions for cooking it to the best advantage. I wish Newfoundland would pass a law, as Sweden has done, just for the war, to make it a criminal offence to peel a potato. Then if they would issue an authoritative pamphlet telling people to use corn meal for breakfast instead of wheat flour, and could—in addition—send a peripatetic agricultural expert to advise and suggest at all these little stations the best places and ways to get potatoes and roots to grow, and to suggest some scheme by which a central piggery could be established—say near St. John's—which could supply them with the much needed pigs. These animals could be sold to the people with a notice attached telling how to treat them best and cheapest. These pigs could be fattened in summer and kept for killing as part of the winter's food supply. Once these suggestions had been made realities would be seen well on the way to limiting the subtle undermining of people's constitutions that gives us our heavy child mortality, and has unfitted so many of our recruits for the war.

Some of the legislators in St. John's have expressed their opinion that the people should be moved from all the North Coast as the only method of remedying the poverty that we see. My twenty-five years of experience have shown me reasons for still believing that the coast provides facilities for a thriving population provided the best is made of it. The lack of any main road is a much greater handicap than is at first evident. A proper official to use the money granted for roads could have given us a main road long ago. This would open up our whole coast economically and should connect with the railroad so that a motor lorry could drive to it. The excellent legislation and efforts of the Agricultural Board and the facilities which they afford are lost to us because there is not any person, whose business it is (as in the States) to instruct individual settlers as to the best application of it to their particular problems. Advisors of this kind would be a real economy to the country through the increase in production. Heaps of gardens this year will be barren because—as usual—the people couldn't get seeds down in time. The unusual lack of the snow, and several early frosts of last winter brought destruction to the seed potatoes. We believe that a main road properly protected and with a telegraph wire—if it ran around the coast—would be a real economy of the best kind. It is absolutely indispensable if the coast is to advance, and the assistance—such as we have been obliged to give people in getting away from the coast from time to time—would be unnecessary.

Re Co-Operative Stores: That work is very much of the same nature as that of the Union Stores. As most scrupulous care has been observed always that no breach of customs regulations should be made, and that department has known very well how to manage its own business all the years of these efforts. No charitable goods of any kind whatsoever have—so far as I know—been used in unfair competition, and only on one or two occasions have mistakes been made by isolated workers which it was necessary for me to report to the customs, whose letters we have to show that they were perfectly satisfied with our bonafides and the rectification which we made. In each case the initiative has come from us, and the amounts concerned have been trifling anyhow. That any effort which interferes with a man's profits is likely to meet with the opposition of some one we fully anticipated, and the possibility of misrepresenting those making the effort as interested for personal gains was fully foreseen. If the loan of money without the return even of the interest upon it is being objected to, the responsibility rests on those who we knew beforehand would be willing thus to misconstrue it, and for that reason only the money so loaned has been from my own private means. The Co-Operative Store at Cape Charles refused the offer of a gratuitous loan from Americans, accepting only on condition that they paid the proper percentage for the money. A really efficient inquiry into the history of these stores would be very acceptable, and possibly would lead to the spread of that movement though the efforts of the Fishermen's Union have largely forestalled any such expansion. It was at one time quite an important ques-

You are quite at liberty to use any or all of this material in your paper. You have always taken a broad and generous enough view of our efforts to believe that our mistakes have not been interpretable as purposeful or selfish. Mistakes and misinterpretations are the inevitable lot of all progressive movements and we realize that.

Municipal Council

Government Refuses to Hand Over Motor Car and Telephone Taxes But Gives the City the Dogs.

Mayor Gosling, presided at the weekly meeting of the City Council held yesterday afternoon. Commander McDermott, H. M. S. Briton, stated in a letter to the Council that the water supply to his ship was insufficient.

The Engineer was ordered to make inquiries. The Smith Co. again requested a motor service for their new cold storage plant.

J. J. Mully was given permission to repair houses 73 and 75 Queen's Road. The plans of the proposed building for the Gorton Pew Co., South Side, were approved with the understanding that a guarantee be given that the building must not front on the thoroughfare.

The Public Health Officer submitted his report to the Governor in Council. After the usual business had been disposed of Mayor Gosling gave out the following facts in relation to the city finances:

THE CITY'S FINANCIAL CONDITION.

As a result of various interviews with the Members for St. John's, the following financial arrangements have been made. It will be remembered that as a result of the passing of the Charter, the following additional revenue would accrue to the City:

Water and Sewerage Rates . . . $15,000 One-half Motor Car Taxes . . . 2,000 Dog Tax . . . . . 1,400

In addition the Council asked that the Telephone Tax of $3,400 should be paid to the City. In all, therefore, the sum of $21,800 was required to pay all estimated expenditures, and to wipe out the deficit of $13,500 which had accrued from 1915 and 1916.

After the Estimates were submitted, it became necessary to further increase the pay of the Employees of the Council; and, in order to meet this, it was proposed to add 50 per cent. to the Motor Car Tax, and one cent per ticket on theatregoers, which was estimated to produce about $9,000. Only the portion of the financial section of the Charter has been passed which makes the owner liable for the whole of the water and sewerage rates. The section, empowering the Council to adjust the rates so that a 10 per cent. discount could be given for cash payments, was not passed. Upon the passing of these sections, the Council depended for the prompt collection of an additional $15,000, and it is difficult to estimate how far the passing of the first portion only will assist.

The Government refused to return to the Council 50 per cent. of the Motor Car Tax, but has agreed to pay over the Dog Tax to the City. They also refused to give the City the Telephone Tax of $3,400, but the Council trusts that a further consideration of the matter will result in the acceptance of the Council's plea that these amounts rightly belong to the City. In fact, it is difficult to see how the Government could refuse a claim to all the moneys which in the past have been collected on account of the Telephone Tax. It appears, however, that a special road grant of 40 cents per head has been voted by the House of Assembly. The City's population of which, with a population of 33,750, is $13,500. The members for St. John's have offered to pay to the City at least one-half of this amount, say $7,000.00, which is just about the amount that the Council has recently voted to the City employees.

Under the circumstances, therefore, the Council has decided not to proceed at present with its intention to place a further tax on Motor Cars and Theatre Tickets.

Of the $21,800.00 anticipated revenue the Council is certain only of the Dog Tax and some additional amount from Water Rates. It is feared, therefore, that it will be impossible to avoid a deficit at the end of the current year. To return once more to the additional Road Grant, the Council trusts that the Members for St. John's will see their way to increase substantially, the amount of $7,000 promised to the City. A very heavy extra expenditure must be shortly made for the South Side Road. This part of the City has been a heavy expense to the rest, and not much over $1,000 in all has been contributed from that section towards the City expenses. The Council, therefore, intends to appeal for a further share of this grant for the purpose of rebuilding the South Side Road. This also raises the question whether the whole of any per capita Road Grant should not be paid to the City Government, for the use of the City, as in the case of Local Councils throughout the Island, and the Council proposes to submit a section to be inserted in the Charter embodying this principle.
