Weakly or Experiencing

With salves, suppositories and ointments, and dreading a surgical operation, scores and hundreds have turned to Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment and have found in it an absolute cure for relief. The first application brings relief from the terrible itching, and it is very seldom that more than one box is required to effect a permanent cure.

FAGGED OUT—None but those who have become fagged out know what a depressed, miserable feeling it is. All strength has gone, and despondency has taken hold of the sufferers. They feel as though there was nothing to live for. There, however, is a cure—one box of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will do wonders in restoring health and strength. Mandrake and Castor Oil are two of the articles entering into the composition of Parmelee's Pills.

METEOROLOGICAL

Toronto, Oct. 25-8 p.m.—The trough of low pressure which extended last night from Lake Superior southeastward now stretches from the Gulf of St. Lawrence southeastward to Texas. Its general tendency is to move more to the south of the lakes and Eastern Provinces, whilst higher pressure from the northwest, accompanied by cool weather will likely spread over the lakes and the Eastern Provinces. Low-pressure is setting in over Alberta, which will probably cause an increase in temperature there. Minimum and maximum temperatures: Victoria, 44-50; Kamloops, 32-44; Calgary, 18-48; Battleford, 23-44; Qu'Appelle, 23-40; Winnipeg, 35-44; Port Arthur, 42-50; Parry Sound, 32-48; Toronto, 48-70; Ottawa, 42-70; Montreal, 43-70; Quebec, 43-66; Halifax, 38-56.

Local temperatures—The highest and lowest readings of the thermometer at the observatory on Wednesday, Oct. 25 were: Highest, 74.5; lowest, 51 degrees.

Today sun rises at 6:46 a.m.; sets, 5:19 p.m. Moon rises at 11:58 p.m.; sets, 1:32 p.m.

—Sergt. Frank Burkham, of Delhi, who is a member of the Toronto company of the Canadian contingent, took a course at the barracks here some time ago.

—Rev. Dr. Wilkie, of India, is visiting at St. Andrew's manse, and will address the annual thank offering meeting of the St. Andrew's W. F. M. S. this evening.

—The Froebel Society held a social meeting at the West London kindergarten last Tuesday, to welcome home their president, Miss Mackenzie, who has been on a three months' trip to the old country. A short informal programme of vocal and instrumental music, with the presentation of a basket of roses to Miss Mackenzie, occupied the first half of the programme. The latter part was spent in viewing some of the treasures from across the water.

—An information against Harry Phipps has been laid by F. J. Spettigue, a Westminster dairyman, charging him with committing an assault with intent to recover three head of cattle. Phipps is a neighbor of the complainant. The assault is alleged to have taken place yesterday while Spettigue was driving three of Phipps' cows to the pound. The cattle had been grazing on Spettigue's property. A warrant was issued by Squire Smyth for the arrest of Phipps.

—The harvest home entertainment in the Colborne Street Methodist Church Tuesday night was largely attended. It was held under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid. Aid. Chas. Graham, occupied the chair and spoke briefly. Rev. Mr. Livingstone, of Windsor, gave an interesting address. Vocal numbers were contributed by the Misses Templeton, Cooper, Dixon and Pickard, and by Mr. R. Albert Brown. The ladies of the church provided an appetizing spread.

—The supreme court at Ottawa has dismissed the appeal of John Purdon, London, against John A. Robinson, barrister, this city. It will be remembered that Mr. Robinson secured an injunction from Justice Meredith restraining Mr. Purdon and other summer residents at Port Stanley from crossing the beach on his property. Mr. Purdon appealed to the court of appeal but it was dismissed, and the supreme court has done the same.

—Mr. Robinson comes out on top—St. Thomas Times.

A large number of Londoners will attend, and a parade will take place from the L. E. and D. R. station to the theater. —St. Thomas Times.

—One of the earliest pioneers of Stratford, died at the hospital the other day, in the person of Mr. Thomas Stoney, late city mail gatherer, at the advanced age of 79 years. Thomas Stoney's biography is a history of Stratford, for when he went there in 1822, there were but six houses in the village. The deceased was born in Burford, Brant county, in 1820, and when quite a young man came to London, where he learned the trade of saddler, and harness maker, having with him as a fellow apprentice, the late Isaac Carling. Subsequently, he went to Stratford and set up a harness maker's and saddler's shop, and did a large trade. He was elected city mail gatherer in 1852, and for many years was prominent in municipal circles. As years went by he filled the office of reeve, and was appointed mayor in 1873.

—A WARM RECEPTION.

An Ottawa correspondent, writing on the 23rd, says: "Robert Wheeler, a street car conductor in London, returned to our village on Saturday night and visited the home of his wife for the purpose of getting her to return to London with him. They had been parted for some time. On entering the house he was accosted by his wife and Will Dalkens and received a severe beating. He then returned to the hotel and had his wounds dressed. His children will return to London."

—The people of Tilsonburg in about an hour subscribed $60 for Lieut. H. R. Wilson, of that place, and the money was presented to Mr. Wilson yesterday by Rev. E. Hughes.

—Court Brighton, 6,507, A. O. F., passed a resolution Tuesday night that the court will pay the dues of all members on the Transvaal contingent while they are away on active duty.

—Archdeacon Davis presented two members of his Bible class who are with the contingent. Privates F. W. Hessel and J. T. Hennesse, with handwritten copies of the English Church service and prayer books.

—MISUNDERSTOOD.

Stratford Beacon: Col. H. A. L. White has refused to accept the public subscription which was subscribed by the members of the town council and others in the council chamber Monday evening for the Canadian contingent, as the object was not simply for the money subscribed, but to have the town as a corporate body to express their loyalty towards the Mother Country in the South African war, and as this was not gone in the manner asked for he declined to accept it, because if he had intended to have taken up a public subscription he would not have come to the council for aid.

—DISAPPOINTED.

One of the men who was among the first to volunteer, and who came some distance to do so, came to The Advertiser office after the train bearing B. Company had pulled out. He had been told in the morning that he would not be needed. Nine other men were told the same thing. They were all bitterly disappointed. They had volunteered at the first call, had been examined by the doctor, had been sworn in and had worked hard in all the drill, and at the very last moment, when their hopes and enthusiasm were highest, they were told that they could not go.

—HAVE BEEN THERE BEFORE.

Among the Northwest veterans of 1885, who were in the parade, were: Col. Garthshore, Major Beattie, Quartermaster Smyth, Quartermaster Sergt. Jury, Ptes. W. Hodgins, J. T. Martin, S. O. Lancaster, Geo. McComb, Dr. Gibson (Watford), Dr. Hyttenrauch (Appin), Lieut. Harry Bapty, Color-Sergt. Jackson, Bugler Reid, Bugler Coghlan, Sergt. Anderson, Capt. H. Butler, Lieut. A. G. Chisholm, Ptes. H. Arbuckle, Geo. Davis, Gray, Jas. Harding, McRoberts, Sergt. Somerville, Ptes. Burleigh, Smithson, Sergts. Wilson, Owens, W. D. Mills, Ptes. J. Blackburn, H. Dignan, Corp. E. —NOTES.

The bouquets provided for the members of the contingent by the Maple Leaf League were presented to the men by Miss Hamilton, secretary of the league.

B. Company's special train was attached to the regular 2:10 accommodation. Engineer George Phamister and Conductor E. Higgins were in charge.

Notwithstanding the immense rush at the G. T. R. station yesterday, the movements of eight regular trains coming in and leaving the city between 2 and 2:40, were on time.

—WORTH TELLING.

"So you were at Santiago?" we said to the young trooper whom we met at the close of a Christian Endeavor service. "Yes," was the answer. "I only wish there was some way I could tell everybody what we boys owed to General Wood and Colonel Roosevelt. During the hottest of the fight I fell exhausted, but by good luck Colonel Roosevelt was coming that way. He got off his horse and kindly asked if he could do anything for me—one of the boys of another regiment. I told him that I supposed I was only overcome by heat and fatigue and would be all right in a few moments. He unsprung his canteen and said, 'I hope you don't want whisky, my man; because I haven't got any, but here is some coffee that will do you good.' He not only insisted upon my drinking from his canteen but he poured half of what was left in mine; helped me into his own saddle and carried me to a place of rest and safety. And I've seen Wood do more than that for 'child.' The day after the surrender I saw the general pick up a little Cuban not more than 7 years old who had tried to reach our camp to get something to eat, and had fallen by the way from sheer weakness. I saw Wood gather that little Cuban bundle of bones up and carry him to headquarters and nurse him better than his own mother would. And when we marched into Santiago if there wasn't that little chap, with nothing on but a pocket handkerchief, holding something in his hand closely wrapped up in an old rag he had found somewhere. He caught the general's eye and succeeded in presenting his gift to him. It proved to be a little yellow chicken about a week old. Wood sent it back to America. 'I was told, and I hope it is alive yet. But I warrant he thinks more of it than of any military honors he has won.'
