

VIEW PROPERTY FOR SCHOOL USE

Trustee Bice and Inspector
Greer Make Survey in East London.

Steadfast in Commending
Site On Dakin Street.

Obviously willing to meet the city council "half-way" respecting the much-abused Dakin street school site, Trustee Bice and Inspector Greer, who have been conducting a survey of the property, have today made a report to the council. The report is a commendation of the site on Dakin street, and a recommendation that it be purchased for school use.

Conduct Careful Survey.
At the same time, the officials conducted a careful survey of the district "feeding" the Chesley avenue and Ealing public schools, with a view toward arranging the rental of suitable dwellings that could be converted into temporary class-rooms to relieve for a year or so the congestion at these institutions in question. Two likely buildings were selected, one a two-story house on Egerton street, and the other a Sunday school room on the Hamilton road. Inquiries as to these possibilities were conducted, and a final report will be forthcoming to the chairman by Tuesday morning at the latest. Should the report be of a promising nature, a report will be submitted forthwith to No. 2 committee with recommendations.

Discussing sites in that district Tuesday morning, three of which were brought to the attention of the chairman and inspector, the latter, while acknowledging that one of these would be a "fair" choice, held steadfast to his claim that the Dakin street property, already the property of the trustees, could not be bettered. "The latter," he said, "is the most central site that we could obtain, while the best site that we viewed Monday, is not sufficiently near to Chesley avenue as I would like myself."

Commend Dakin Street.
The school authorities are emphatic also that no other land will be obtained for such a reasonable figure as the Dakin and Price streets location. The object of much bitter criticism from Mayor Cameron Wilson himself as well as several members of the city council.

The latter now claim that in addition to the many complaints already voiced by them within the past nine months, the city would be compelled to expend quite a substantial sum in order to provide adequate sewerage facilities for the new school if constructed.

A complete report of the situation and of their activities will be submitted, however, by Trustee Bice and Inspector Greer, and the same will receive the earnest consideration of the board at the next general session.

HITS TAXI DRIVER IN EYE WHEN CAR GETS BUMPED

Dispute Over Parking Space On Richmond Street Ends In Court.

Because George Cook's car bumped Harry Alfords' auto, Alfords punched Cook in the eye, according to Alfords' admission in police court Tuesday.

Cook remembered distinctly getting the "bat in the eye," as he termed it, but did not know what it was for. He did not expect the blow, and stated he would not have laid the information if he had expected it.

Both men are taxi drivers. Within the past two weeks there has been a little trouble regarding parking on Richmond street, near the Grand Trunk station among the drivers. The men say that the cars must be parked four feet away from each other. It is because of the failure of some of the men to observe this rule that trouble is made, they state.

FINES HORSEMEN FOR TRESPASSING

Court Convicts On Charge
Laid by C. P. R. Constable.

After David Tomlinson, race horse owner; William H. Ryan, Jockey, and Arthur Taylor, of London, had been tried on a charge of trespassing on the C. P. R. Magazine, A. H. M. Graydon found them guilty and imposed a fine of $10 and costs in each case. Richard Smith, Jockey, who was not present, was also fined $10 and costs, after Tomlinson stated he wished to plead guilty for him and pay his fine.

Constable Albert Weller stated he saw six men near a horse car east of Adelaide street on the C. P. R. track, and questioned them. He stated Taylor gave the name of Bartlett. Later he arrested the four men. He did not arrest a man named Stewart, as he was convinced he owned the horses in the car.

Ryan stated he had come from Windsor to tell Tomlinson, who was traveling from Toronto with the horses, where to have the car shipped to the C. P. R. track. However, the prosecution showed the car was being used for a horse track.

When asked what he had to say regarding the matter, Tomlinson said: "I guess I'm guilty, but in a way I had a right there. I've been shipping horses from coast to coast for twelve years, and this is the first time I was ever arrested. After this when I have any shipping to do I'll take the Grand Trunk if it is at all possible."

CLAIMS $70,000 AVAILABLE FOR SCHOOL CONSTRUCTION

City Treasurer Reminds Trustees of Surplus Discovered Two Weeks Ago.

While members of the board of education are still clamoring for certain financial support for construction purposes, James Bell, city treasurer, reminds them Tuesday that there is $70,000 or so that was "discovered" available two weeks ago.

While the treasurer states emphatically that the trustees cannot assume control of this tidy sum in any offhand manner, they could, should they choose, apply to the city for authority to use the same for construction purposes. This amount, he explains, can be easily transferred by the aldermen, the passage of a bylaw facilitating the move.

It would appear to the casual observer that this transaction, once approved by the city council, would tend to solve automatically the seeming endless controversy involving the request for $82,000 for a new edifice in southeast London.

Bernard, secretary of the London Motor Club, reports that a large number of American cars visited Canada during the last few days. On account of the holiday the tourists are making a long week-end tour.

MEMBERS OF THE city council have been invited to visit Windsor and inspect the trackless trolley system now in operation at that city. The invitation has been accepted, and the city fathers will visit Windsor in the near future.

THE LOCAL EDUCATIONAL authorities expect that results of the recent entrance examinations to the Central Collegiate Institute will be announced by the department of education, Toronto, by July 15. PRESIDING in the Middlesex County court Tuesday morning, Police Magistrate A. H. Hawkshaw disposed of several speeding cases, dispensing justice on a 200 basis. Dorey and Miss Tosseland, vocal solo by Mr. Burnett; musical number by Miss M. Rowe; a short address by Mr. J. Gibson on "Better Praying"; The meeting was presided over by Miss Maribel Coughtry, captain of the Red Star group.

W. H. T. MOONEY, principal of the Central Collegiate Institute, reports that he has decided, from among several applications, who will be the new science teacher. This teacher is required by reason of the recent changes in the staff of that institution to provide teachers for the proposed South London high school, which is still delayed, however, by lack of approval from the provincial department.

Claims Work of Board of Education Conducted in Businesslike Manner

While expressing the opinion that it will not be necessary to call a special general session of the trustees before July 20, the next scheduled meeting, Chairman Smith valiantly upholds in the face of continued and stern criticism, the new arrangement of board meetings by which the members will gather on a monthly basis on each third Thursday in lieu of the first Tuesday as has been the practice, so long as Trustee Thomas Rowe states he can recollect.

It is more than probable Trustee Smith opines that the regular August session will be eliminated, and the trustees will rest from their labors of the past six months until September, when they will "gird their loins again for the fray," and tackle anew the Dakin street and other leading problems.

RAP FAILURE OF EVEREST CLIMB

London, England, July 4.—The Daily Mail correspondent in Bombay writes that a controversy is under way there regarding the recent unsuccessful attempt to scale Mount Everest, which it is widely believed failed through over-haste. While the members of the climbing party declared the early monsoon prevented success, native bearers say the monsoon does not reach the higher Himalayas, and that the rains which the climbers believed to be the monsoon were merely a passing storm. They assert that if the expedition had waited at a height of about 20,000 feet, it would have found several calm, sunny days on which the summit could have been reached.

buses. That ought to even things up there, too. I shall endeavor, as a member of the commission, to be absolutely impartial. The commission will get to work as soon as possible," continued his worship, "and will prepare a report for the city council. As soon as that report is completed, it will be up to the city council to lay the facts before the people. I will call the commission meeting at once, and all meetings will be open to the press."

It is likely that should the commission advise purchase of the London Street Railway system prior to expiration of the franchise, the question will be submitted to a vote of the citizens at the municipal elections.

The next commission will be granted a reasonable amount of money with which to prepare its report and carry on the work drafted out for that body.

WILL REVIEW CITY HOTEL CONDITIONS

Before the luncheon the visitors will be taken through the city in cars provided by the Motor Club and shown the points of interest.

At 2:30 p.m. the committee will hold a round-table discussion with the hotel proprietors of London to glean information concerning hotel accommodations in the city.

After the conference with the hotel proprietors, the members of the committee will leave London at the 4:20 London and Port Stanley car for Port Stanley, where they will continue their investigations along lines similar to the ones on which they are basing their researches throughout the province.

Leaving London at 6:30 Thursday morning, the committee will continue to Chatham.

HOTEL COMMITTEE ARRIVES

Brantford, July 4.—The legislative committee on hotels and tourist traffic sat today in the Kerby House, meeting with the mayor of Brantford, the local inspector, the president of the chamber of commerce and a large number of the local hotel-keepers. Frank discussion followed regarding the hotel situation. The general demand of the hotel-keepers was for general exemptions. They complained their trade is limited to practically 4½ days a week, one landlord stating that over the week-end his help cost more to keep than his guests.

The hotelkeepers frankly admitted that the class of men keeping hotels in the past had not been high. Mr. Littlefield, proprietor of the Kerby House, the leading hotel here, complained that hotels were practically places of unrequited public convenience, and thought some advantage should be given them a survey fee, without the bar. Grievous complaints were made as to the difficulty of securing help.

PLANS BYLAW GOVERNING FEES FOR NEW SURVEYS

City Council Recommends Measure on Proposal of No. 2 Committee.

In keeping with the recommendation of No. 2 committee the city council has ordered that a bylaw be prepared stipulating that before plans of new property surveys are prepared, the city engineer must be notified. The city engineer must be notified of the survey, and the city engineer must be notified of the survey, and the city engineer must be notified of the survey.

This bylaw is being drafted in an effort to prevent opening of surveys on the city limits or in outlying districts, with no sewer water or side-walks, while residential property more central and improved is allowed to remain vacant. The plan of Highbury Park subdivision has been held up for this reason, on the recommendation of the town planning commission.

Her husband, Sam Poletto, was away at the time, and Mrs. Poletto claimed that she did not even know of the existence of the still. The apparatus seized included three huge stills, all in operation and boiling when the fire started.

School Problems Remain Unsolved As Civic Commission Fails To Meet

While this is Tuesday, July 4, obnoxious by the residents across the international boundary line as their Independence Day, it stands in this city as the 55th day since the London civic commission held a regular session.

E. Silverwood, chairman of the collegiate institute committee of the same body; J. B. Wright, chairman of the technical school committee, and other members of the board as well, are too

WILL MEASURE STREET RAILWAY TRACKS IN CITY

City Engineer Takes Over Big Task at Council's Order.

Although it is not an enviable assignment, City Engineer Brazier stated Tuesday morning that he is ready to begin measuring the tracks of the London Street Railway Company as ordered by the city council Monday night.

The engineer, however, is awaiting instructions from the city clerk to proceed with this task, which he expects to receive Tuesday afternoon.

"It will be quite a little job," said Mr. Brazier, when informed of the action of the council. "It will be a long walk for someone, but we are ready to go ahead. I have not received instructions yet, but expect them this afternoon."

According to the engineer he will do his utmost to prepare a report on this street railway mileage for No. 2 committee of the council, which meets next Tuesday. There are approximately 24 miles of track to be measured, so that the measurement will require considerable effort.

FAILS TO PLEASE NORTH END MEN

North end residents who desired a twenty-year extension on the period of debentures to cover the cost of sewers on the street, have been disappointed. The council, however, has granted a ten-year extension of the sewer debentures.

This case is regarded as closed by the council, and unless the citizens appeal to the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board or the courts for relief, no further action will be taken.

SEES NEED OF CHRIST IDEAL

Rev. D. N. McLachlan, Presbyterian Secretary, Visits London.

Points Out Service Rendered World by Humble Persons.

"The great need of men, women and children of Canada and the world today is the practical application of the principles of Christ's teaching," declared Rev. D. N. McLachlan, B.D., field secretary of the board of social service of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, in an interview with The Advertiser. Briefly and vividly he sketched a picture of what the church is doing through social service and home mission activities from coast to coast in Canada, thereby carrying out the teachings of Jesus.

"Just as there was a time," he said, "when men of intelligence turned the light of reason on discerning the authenticity of the Bible, so today men of intelligence, as never before, are turning their thoughts to the ethical teachings of Jesus. Recently in Vancouver a Red leader stated that until a few weeks before his death he had read nights with a copy of Carl Marx, because he believed that Marx had the key to industrial peace and the happiness of mankind. Now he went to rest with a copy of the New Testament, because he had come to believe that it men applied the teachings of Jesus, differences between labor and capital would vanish, industrial peace would come, and the world would know happiness and rest. The Red leader further said he did not know who Jesus Christ was, had no personal experience of him as a Saviour, did not believe in him as the accepted savior, but he did believe that his teachings and their practical application were the solution of the world's troubles."

Turning attention to the example of Jesus and his teachings with regard to dealings with young people, the action of the old shoemaker uncle of Lloyd George was cited as a striking illustration of applying the teachings of Jesus. Through toil the shoemaker had laid by two hundred pounds for his old age. But he recognized the promise of the boy, the brightness of his ideas and ideals and he gave up his earnings that he might be able to give the boy a better life. The reward of the humble Welshman came when he sat an honored guest in the British Parliament and heard the young chancellor of the exchequer say: "And his reward is increased a hundredfold."

"When a boy who is a good baseball or hockey player comes to the city," he continued, "he need never lack friends. Plenty of people are ready to get behind him, and see he gets a good job; but when a boy comes to the city with great thoughts throbbing in his soul, do men get behind him in the same way? Do they see he gets an opportunity to develop the powers which will be of inestimable value to his life?"

Might be Expected.
Dealing with the need of service in the way of acquainting the youth of Canada with certain things, the department secretary of the social service board mentioned that half of the 100,000 children of Sunday school age in Alberta have no such facilities for training. Fifteen per cent of the children in Saskatchewan are similarly placed.

"You say," he said, "that these are pioneer days in the new west country, and such conditions might be expected. Mention was made of a Sunday school survey was made of the church district, and it was found there were 1,000 children within it not attending Sunday school."

An incident related in connection with the conditions in Saskatchewan was that of a woman who felt she had not the ability to teach, but who offered her kitchen to be used as a Sunday school. The children flocked there, among them a French boy and his two sisters. The boy decided to become a missionary in India, and was preparing himself for the University of Saskatchewan when he responded to the call of the Great War and gave his life overseas. One sister decided to take his place in missionary work abroad, and trained as a nurse in the hospitals of France. The third, following their example, is preparing herself in the University for special work among the Ukrainians in Canada.

Mention was made of the practical application of Christ's teachings in the establishment of a chain of redemptive homes for girls from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Fifty-seven of these girls served in the homes are reclaimed," was his encouraging message.
