

Water of Health; Seek Tree-climbing Fish; Jungle a la Carte

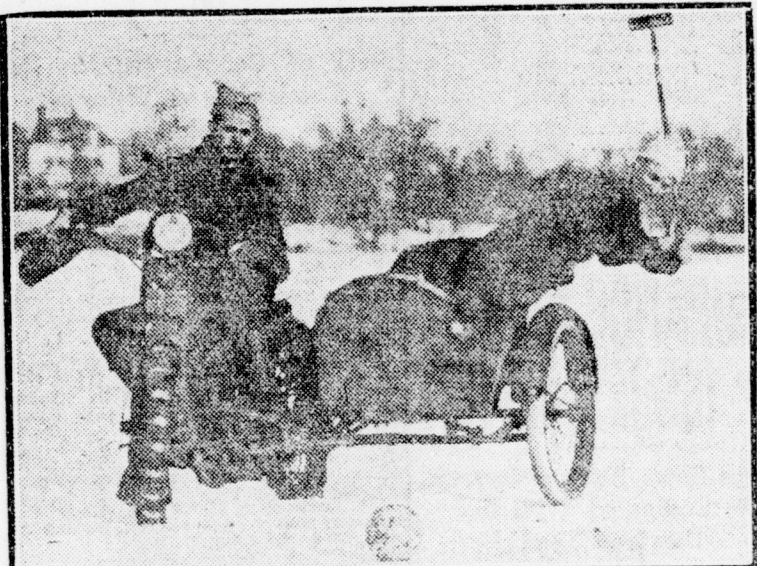

Miss Eran Izard, one of the most popular girls in southern society, who has been selected as the Queen of Mobile's 1924 Carnival

This pretty young Eskimo belle shows the latest in spring fashions for her people of the north. The costume is designed for utility as well as attractiveness

A sculptor is shown adding the finishing touches to models of statues which were guardians to the tomb of King Tut. They will be seen at the British Empire Exhibition along with an exact full-size reproduction of the tomb

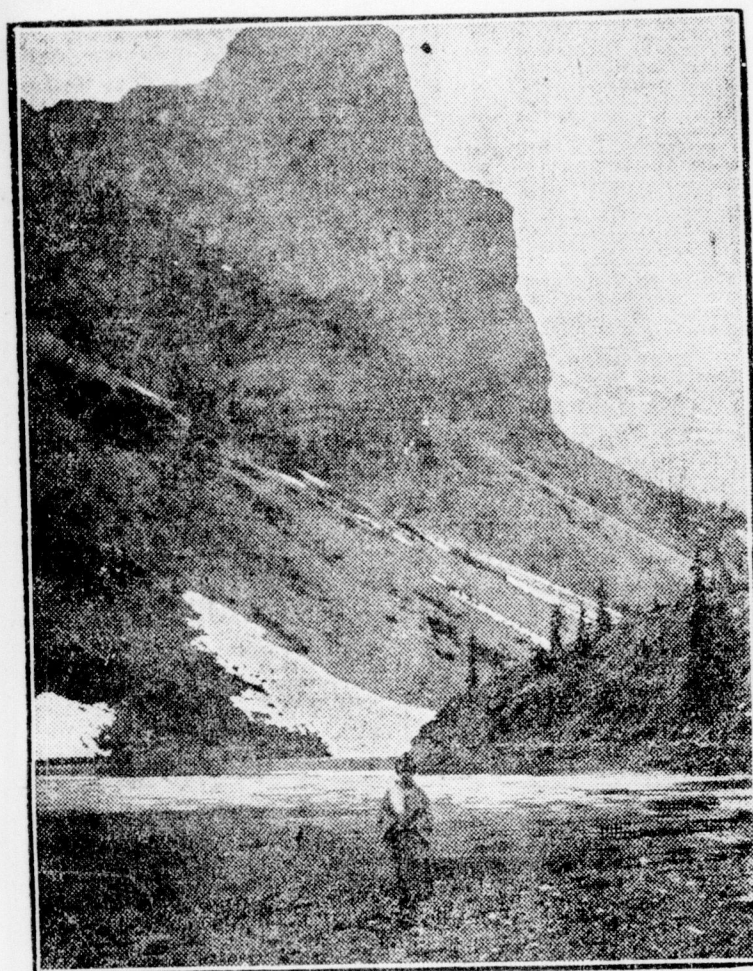

One of the players is shown about to take a "sock" at the ball during a motorcycle polo match between a Boston and a Wakefield team, the latter winning, 3-2. The game was more than replete with thrills and spills

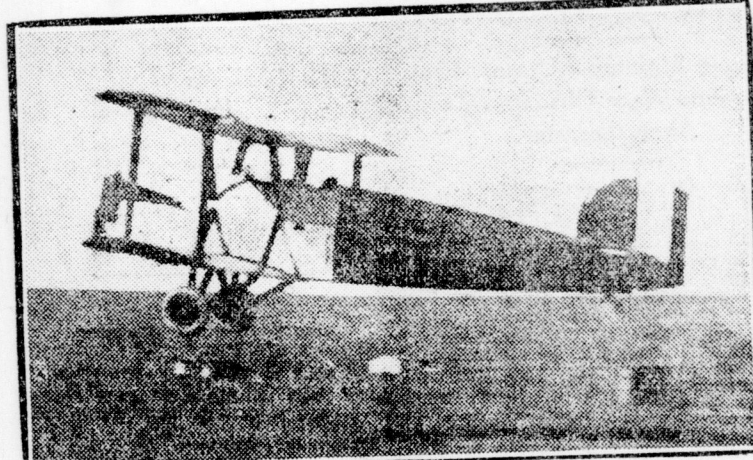

This dainty "zebra" dance dress of black and gold striped lame is one of the new creations becoming popular in the English society set

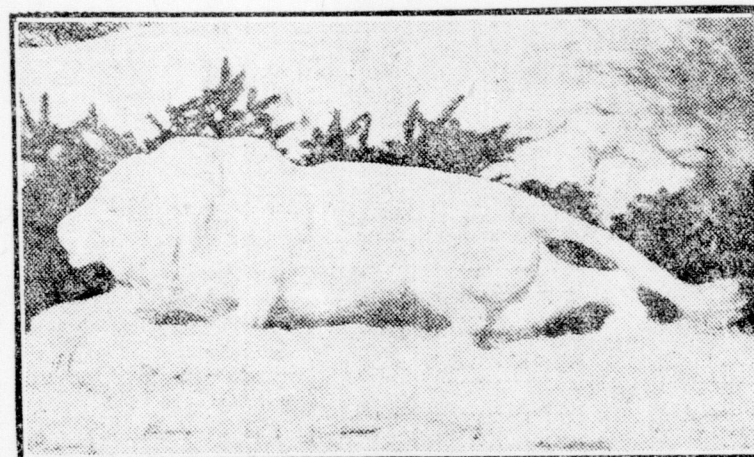

Princess Alfred of Windisch-Graetz, of Vienna, has made a name for herself as a financial wizard, having made a fortune in a short time from a small investment. It resulted in a new law being passed forbidding unauthorized transactions

How many Canadians know that Canada has a Tower of Babel? British Columbia has named this huge rock formation near Lake Louise after the famous structure of biblical history

The initial flight of the first round-the-world plane to be completed was made with success at Clover Field, Calif., recently. The first of the four planes with which an attempt will be made to circle the globe, starting March 19th, is shown hopping off on its test flight

During the recent heavy snowfall, Arthur Clark of Maple, Ontario, a well-known sculptor, was cut off from all means of transportation to his business for several days. He employed his time by making this splendid likeness of a lion in snow in front of his home

Frederick Hakim of New York believes in not leaving any of his large family behind him when he goes on a journey, no matter how long. He is shown with his wife and nine children when he boarded a steamer for San Francisco

This bear in the Assiniboine Park, Winnipeg, knows that spring is here. He doesn't need a calendar to tell him what season it is. The bright, warm days will let him know summer is on the way

This striking photograph shows A. T. Lang (Queens) landing after making a jump of over 20 feet at the inter-college athletic cup finals at Oxford University recently

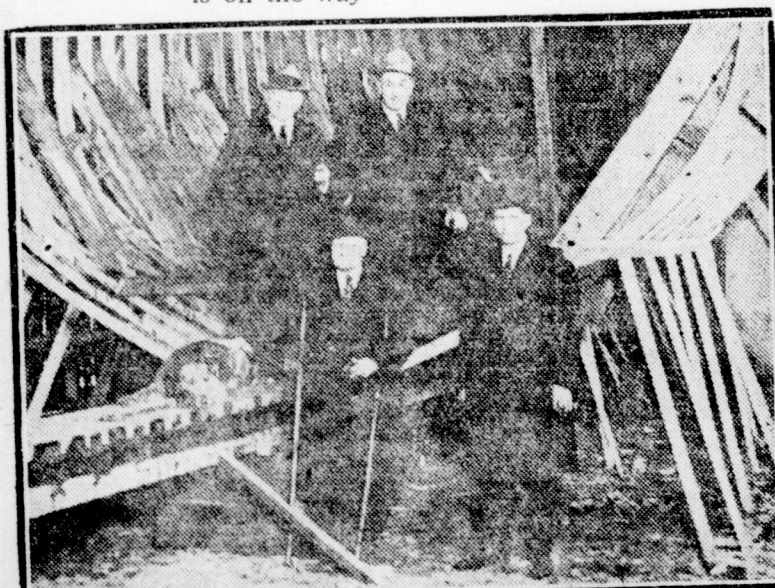

In the famous Piazza St. Bernardo, Rome, a statue which is representation of Moses, has been found to contain water of health-giving qualities. There can always be found a line of people with containers of some sort to fill

Miss Freda Haenne, 23 years old, of Youngstown, Ohio, claims to be the youngest grand-aunt in the United States. Here's the "problem": Freda's sister is the mother of a daughter, who has a son, who is Miss Haenne's grandnephew

Mrs. Thaid Conroy of Tokio, who was acclaimed the most beautiful woman in Japan in a recent contest, is shown with her husband, an Englishman, on their arrival at Victoria, B.C. Mrs. Conroy is on her way to join the movies

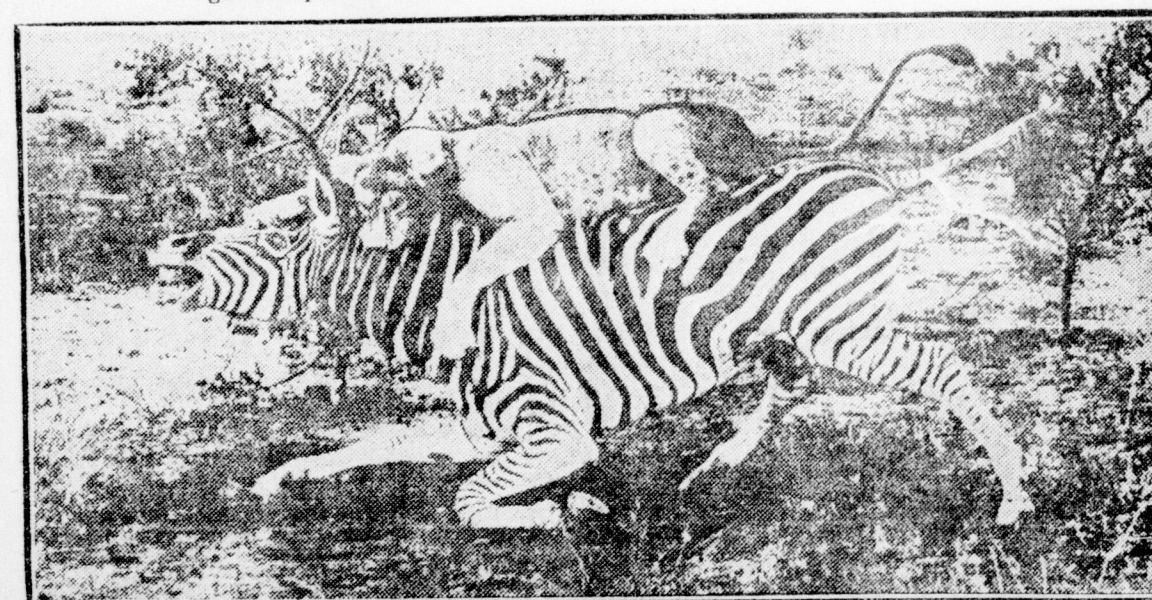

Prominent Chicagoans, among them ex-Mayor William H. Thompson, have organized a unique exploring company which is to sail early this summer for the South Sea Isles in quest of a species of tree-climbing fish

Capt. G. A. Lingham, famous aerial smoke writer, is shown in his latest cold weather head-gear just before he encountered a temperature of forty degrees below zero, 10,000 feet above Mineola, N.Y., during a recent test

Romance has turned to reality and Corliss Palmer, latest "great love" of Eugene V. Brewster, publisher, has fled from his beautiful love nest to take up her life anew, under a new name and in a distant city.

A hasty meal is the jungle law as can be seen by this photograph, claimed to be one of the most striking pictures of African wild life ever obtained. This young lioness-zebra fight was an easy victory for the lioness