the Popular Science monthly, points out how woman is bound to be the inferior of man. In the first place experience and Hesse-Darmstadt, dating back to the thirinvestigation has proved that size of brain has to do with mental activity; that the bigger brain and the better nourished brain can do the most thinking; and man is the superior of woman in this respect by great odds. Next the woman has not the physi-cal capacity of man. Work, or ability to do work, is measured by a person's power or strength; power is in direct relation to respiration and digestion; man having larger and quicker acting or gans of respiration and digestion has twenty per cent of if it is consumed in maternity. For all these reasons woman is bound to be man's inferior, and the pro-bability is that she will grow more and more his mental and physical inferior.
