An Autocrat of The Poultry Farm

By Otho B. Senga

Josiah Preston always had been of a spotic disposition, but his natural mendency in this direction seemed to strengthen after his remunerative experiments in poultry raising.

Josiah's mind apparently held but ane thought-his hens. The earth was made for the sole purpose of providing them with a scratching ground. The sun rose to give them light and warmth; night followed day that they might have time to rest.

When Flower Preston, Josiah's only daughter, came home from boarding school, and her father discovered by diligent questioning that the words in-cubator, brooder, trap nest, bone cutter clicited no answering enthusiasm, he grunted sarcastically, "A gal that's been to boardin' school for three years nd don't know a leg band from a bone

"Maybe his pa wanted him to," remarked Mrs. Preston pacifically.
"Waal," harshly, "I can't crow over Squire Curtis none. His boy don't know nothin' but bugs, and, as near as I kin figger out, that gal don't know nothin' at all. The only advantage is it took her a year less to learn it!"

When young Curtis began calling at the farm, which he did with suspicious promptness, Josiah's cup of misery was

"You let that gal git boys and bugs inter that slim brain of hern and she won't be good for nothin'."

There, there, pa, don't talk so loud. You didn't want my ma to come in and set when you used to come to see me." Josiah's face purpled; he clutched at his collar band as if he were choking.

"You don't mean"- he gasped. Mrs. Preston nodded. "Don't take it so hard, pa," she mursoothingly. "Jim Curtis is one of the likeliest young men, and"—

"I could stand it better if 'twan't for the bugs," he moaned feebly. "If he didn't want to be a lawyer like his pa why didn't he take up somethin' sensibler than bugs? What good is a bug? Bugs-millions on 'em-couldn't hatch out one chicken!"

"He's studying bees now, pa, and they're good for honey," appeasingly; "he has ever so many hives—newfan-gled ones—in his pa's back yard." Josiah only groaned.

"And, pa, it's all arranged, only I said he'd have to be old fashioned enough to ask your consent, and Flow-er, like a good girl, said she'd never marry anybody without her pa's con-That's a good-deal nowadays

Perhaps it was because of Josiah's reputation for irascibility, perhaps because the young man felt that he could express himself more satisfactorily in writing, that his formal application for the consent of the autocrat reached Josiah by mail.

The old man read the letter several times, groaning and grunting. When he rose there was a grim smile on his face and a look of determination in his keen gray eyes. This was on Thursday. In the even ing Mrs. Preston reminded him-'Aren't you going in to see Jim, pa?"

"Dunno's he's callin' on me," testily "But you-his letter"-"I ain't in no hurry to answer it. I'm makin' up my mind."

A similar reminder the next evening net with a like rebuff.

But on Saturday evening Josiah did not want to be reminded. He marched into the "best room," carrying a small basket, and displayed its contentstwenty large eggs, fair and beautiful, to the astonished young persons.
"There, young man," he growled,

"there is my answer. Three weeks from tonight, if you bring me fourteen chickens out'n them twenty eggs, I'll give my consent."

"All right, Mr. Preston," returned the young man, easily, "I shall be on hand"

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"About three years ago I had intensepain in my stomach, with cramps and raging headaches. The doctor prescribed for me, but finding that I did not get any better he examined me and, to my surprise, declared I had a tumor.

"I felt sure that it meant my death warrant, and was very disheartened. I spent hundred of dollars in doctoring, but the tumor kept growing, till the doctor said that nothing but an operation would save me. Fortunately I corresponded with my auntin the New England States, who advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before submitting to an operation, and I at once started taking a regular treatment, finding to my great relief that my general health began to improve, and after three morths I noticed that the tumor had reduced in size. I kept on taking the Compound, and in ten months it had entirely disappeared without an operation, and using no medicine but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and words fail to express how grateful I am for the good it has done me."—Miss Luella Adams, Colonnade Hotel, Seattle, Wash.

Such unquestionable testimony proves Fannie D. Fox, Bradford, Pa.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham: — (Second Letter.)

"I take the liberty to congratulate you on the success I have had with your wonderful medicine.

"Eighteen months ago my periods stopped. Shortly after I felt so badly I submitted to a thorough examination by a physician, and was told that I had a tumor and would have to undergo an operation.

"I soon after read one of your advertisements and decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and would have to undergo an operation.

A man visiting a lunatic asylum recently was conversing with some of the outdoor patients when a man rode up on horseback. The pace called for comment among the party, and one of the patients said he had seen a horse running much faster than that one. "Oh," exclaimed the visitor sotto voce, "I have seen a horse flying." "Dinna let the doctor hear ye sayin' that, my man," interjected an old Scotch lunatic. There's fouk in here for far less than fleein' horses."
