Business at Vancouver.

Vancouver, M. roh 25, 1901.

The feature of the week is the advaning price of cured meats owing to the high price of hogs in the Chicago market. Dealers say that prices will lik by rule higher nert week. In the butter market dairy is weaker, as it is in abundant supply. Owing to the approach of Easter eggs are steadying in price and likely to advance in spite of the sanny mid weather. The only feature in the flour and feed market is the buoyancy of outs which is to be expected at this time of year. The hardware market is featureless. Business is reported dull in all lines and money tight. and money tight.

It was rumored shortly before Mr. Lock's return that he was not coming back alone, but had taken in a partner to share his domestic loys, but this proves to have been untrue or at least premature.

BAKING POWDER LEGISLATION. Most of the bills introduced in legis-latures, this winter to attempt to prolatures, this winter to attempt to pro-hibit the manufacture and sale of baking powder containing aium have met a very peaceful death, says the New York Commercial. The bills were all similar, and were fathered by the cream of tartar baking powder manufacturers, who are in a combinnow dead, or practically so, except the Massachusetts and New York measures.

In Massachusetts the committee, it is said, has decided upon a substitute measure, which provides that the caus shall be marked with the names of the substances from which the powder is made. In New York the bill revising the pure food laws so as to place their enforcement in the hands of the agricultural instead of the health department was drafted without reference to baking powder. he governor said he considered it a good bill. In senate committee, however, a section was tacked on hitting at alum baking powder. The senate sent it back, but the committee again indorsed the amendment.

Attorney Boardman, of Tracs, Boardman & Platt, appeared before the committee to talk against alum baking powder. He said he had been engaged to do so by Mr. Kelley, who said he represented the "National Health Association." In other states lobbyists have said they were employed by this same association. The alum baking powder people claim the "National Health Association" is a mask used by the baking powder combine.
