

To spread the influence of the francophone world, the Cotonou Summit will extend TV5 broadcasting to Asia and the United States; become a part of the electronic highway; continue its major higher education and scientific research program; and adopt an ambitious program in culture and language, training, and development.