James Winslow of Chelsea Green in Serious Condition -Car Turns Turtle.

James Winslow, Chelsea Green, and his nephew, Herbert Winslow of Port Arthur, were seriously injured late yesterday afternoon when a wheel of the auto in which they were returning to the city from a visit to Ailsa Craig suddenly collapsed in a rut in the roadway.

The suddenness of the stop caused by the collapse of the wheel caused by the collapse of the wheel caused have to endure such remarks as were sometimes made.

If they would visit either the Protestant or Catholic orphanages they would realize fully how great was the work that they were doing in giving their time to the campaign. He referred especially to the splendid work of the Salvation Army, and said that, speaking as a Roman Catholic bishop, he had always had the highest regard for this organization. The workers in the Salvation Army had a right to everything that could be done for them, he said.

The scene of the accident was on Fraleigh's Hill, Proof Line road, nearly five miles outside of the city, and Dr. D. G. MacNeill of St. Johns, was almost immediately in attendance on the injured men, who after first aid attention, were brought in an ambulance to St. Joseph's Hospital, where, owing to the serious nature of his injuries, including several fractured ribs, James Vinslow, was detained. Herbert Winslow, whose injuries were principally severe cuts from the broken glass of the windshield, was able to proceed At the hospital it was reported later.

The United Welfare Fund has come to stay. The idea of one big campaign was a popular one, and public sentiment was very strong in support of it. In his personal canvass he had met only one or two instances of persons unwilling to contribute, he said, citing one case which he referred to as a case of contracted heart, a man who had been able to buy $200,000 worth of government bonds, but would not contribute to the welfare fund. He had no quarrel with the man who could not give, but there were

Not in Wealth.

Detroit, May 4.—In a special sermon to young men, the Rev. Joseph W. "The history of this country, as of others, is replete with instances of men who have devoted their whole lives to the accumulation of wealth in the belief that riches meant happiness, only to be tremendously disappointed in the end."

President George M. Reid was host at the dinner to the campaign workers, who crowded the dining-room of the hotel to the dining-room of the hotel to the limits of its seating capacity. Confidence in and appreciation of Mr. Reid's leadership was expressed with marked demonstrations twice during the evening, three cheers and a rousing tiger being given heartily when John Bridge announced that Mr. Reid was the host of the evening, and again when Mr. A. He regarded it as a distinct privilege to be honored with the presidency of an organization for such a noble object as the United Welfare Association stood for.

The special speakers of the evening were Rev. G. Q. Warner, rector of Cronyn Memorial Church, and Rt. Rev. Bishop M. F. Fallon of the London Roman Catholic Diocese each of whom nade brief, snappy and forceful addresses, which contributed much to the inspiration and enthusiasm of the meeting.
