Doctments in the possession of members of the Socialist party show that Wilhelm, while he was on the throne, was a financier. Among the ventures which helped him to amass his colossal fortune was the cornering of all the apartment houses in the best quarters of Berlin.

Tipped the Sultan.

So successful was he as a landlord that he "gave the tip" to Sultan Abdul Hamid, who, following his lead, became the owner of the property in Pera and also in Salonica, where are the whole of the chief residential quarters of wealthy Europeans.

Not only was the Kaiser one of the chief shareholders in the Hamburg-American Line, but he was also interested in most of the ventures of Herr Ballin, the merchant prince of Hamburg. His revenue from the Krupp armament works at Essen must have been stupendous, and Berliners are telemanding to know what has been done with the money.
