NO USE TALKING Chaplin is an artist. His every move, grimace, twitch of the eyebrow is artistic. In this super-effort, "The Gold Rush," he fills the ten laughable, cryable reels with such a succession of emotions that you wonder if you are looking at a tragedy or a comedy at times. The incident of the bolled shoe, the dance hall love affair, the crazy prospector and the bear, the tilting house on the edge of the cliff—all these are real joys of filmed
