OTTAWA, June 5.—Hon. James Murdock, Minister of Labor, has wired District President McLeod at Sydney, regretting that he cannot intervene in the Nova Scotia strike. He drew attention to the attitude assumed by the Federal government. "I cannot interfere in the matter," Mr. Murdock said. "The province of Nova Scotia owns the mines, and leases them to the company." "What would you do if the company asked you to act as a mediator," the minister was asked. "I would take the first train to Nova Scotia," he repiled. He said that lie was being pressed constantly by the men to mediate in the trouble, but the company had declined to accept his services as a mediator.
