MrJ D Chipman arrived home on Friday from Clifton Springs where he went for treatment on secount of throat trouble. He went to St Andrews this morning to attend the nomination pro-ceedings, but we understand will be un-able to speak there or during the campaign.

A special train left the St Stephen sta-tion this morning for St Andrews taking a large number of the followers of both parties, including the St Stephen candi-dates, on both tickets, and will return after the nomination proceedings. The opposition are beginning their usual tactics of absurd canvasses against the government, as well as endeavoring to purchase the workers of the govern-ment forces by bribery of money and promises of positions, but they have ailed comp etely in all their schemes as they undoubtedly will at the polls on election day. In fact, they have already given up the ides of electing more than two of their ticket, and have small hopes of even doing that much. The meetings in the government rooms are better attended than on any previous election, and all are enthusi-astic in working for the election of the government ticket.
