

THE REPRESENTATION BILL.—Many labor under the idea that the Representation Bill is not yet to come in force, and that its operation is checked by the Franchise Bill not yet having passed its third reading. This is a mistake; the increased representation takes effect at once, by which many of the constituencies will be subdivided.—17id.

ELECTION INTELLIGENCE. The writs for East and West Brent are out. The nominations take place on the 18th instant. Six or eight candidates are named for each Riding. The conservatives are either "biding their time" or are marvellously apathetic. Sir Allan MacNab will not, it is thought, be opposed in Hamilton.

Mr. Freeman runs for South Wentworth; Mr. Williamson, another reformer, also runs; and Mr. Smiley, a member of the Legislature, and Mr. McDougall, of the North America, is spoken of as an additional reform candidate for East York. Dr. Wright, of Toronto, and formerly of Markham, may be regarded as the ministerial or Dr. Rolph candidate for this Riding. He is a man of respectability and ability, and will be a valuable addition to the particular section of the reform party. Mr. McDougall and Mr. Durand represent the independent reform party, and it is not likely they will both run. The electors of this Riding are likely to come in for a large share of politeness and attention for the next three weeks, not being so much harassed by the numerous and three conservative candidates out for it.

Mr. Scatcherd was nominated by the reform convention to run for West Middlesex. The three conflicting conservative candidates for North Leeds have, we are informed, united upon Mr. Ogle W. Cowan. Without a compromise of this kind one of the most sterling conservative ridings in Canada would pass into the hands of one of the most contemptible ministerial toadies in the Province. Our conservative friends in this and other ridings should know that the Hon. John A. McDonald, of Kingston, was appointed by the unanimous voice of the conservatives in Parliament, before they left Quebec, to endeavor to settle differences between opposing conservative candidates. A more judicious selection could not have been made; and we are sure the conservatives of Leeds will endeavor, through Mr. McDonald, to make an honorable and most necessary compromise.

The Hon. John A. McDonald will be returned for Kingston by acclamation. Mr. Hincks dare not face the music in Montreal. A more honorable, gallant, and better informed man was not in the last Parliament.

Dr. Rolph is gone to Norfolk. He preferred not taking Toronto on his way, so he went by the American route. He will awaken feelings of hostility never before exceeded in Upper Canada.—Colonist.

PRESENTATION OF COLORS TO THE 2ND BATTALION OF LINCOLN MILITIA.

The ladies in Grantham presented the 2nd Battalion of the Lincoln Militia with a set of colors on the 25th ult., to which a correspondent alludes as follows:—

"I had much pleasure in witnessing the presentation of a set of colors to the 2nd Battalion of Lincoln Militia, at St. Catharines, on Wednesday last, the 28th instant. Being the first thing of the kind ever done in this country, it is deserving of notice in your valuable paper, especially as the flags were got up and painted in Toronto under the inspection of Mr. E. Baker, a person well known in your city, and painted by a young artist of the name of Griffith, who deserves great credit for the work. The day was fine and the ceremony interesting. The colors were presented by Mrs. Col. Clark and the ladies of Grantham with a short address. The Rev. A. Dixon having pronounced a blessing over them, the junior ensign then received them, and Colonel Clark, commander of the battalion, replied in a loyal and eloquent speech, which was met with the able and martial appearance of the officers, and three for the ladies were heartily given, and the regiment marched off the ground bearing the colors through the town to Brown's Hotel, where a sumptuous dinner was prepared for the officers and their friends. Col. Clark served in the war of 1812, and his venerable and able martial appearance added greatly to the solemnity of the occasion."—Colonist.

As Mr. Marks, the Reeve of Pittsburgh, was returning from the Council on Wednesday afternoon in company with two Misses Aitroll, some part of the gearing of the buggy gave way, the horses took fright, overturning the buggy, and Mr. Marks and the two ladies were much injured, though fortunately, not fatally. Mr. M. has important business to transact today in Canada, and dead or alive, must attend.—British Whig.

ACCIDENT ON THE NORTHERN RAILROAD.—An accident occurred last Thursday evening, on the line of the Northern Railroad, near Bradford whereby a laborer narrowly escaped being killed. It appears that the injured man, whose name we were unable to ascertain, was lying on the track and that the train passed over him, cutting off one of his feet, and a portion of the other. He was carried into Bradford and received proper medical attendance until his removal to the Hospital yesterday morning. He is progressing in favorably as can be expected.

PROPOSED SALE OF CUBA BY SPAIN.—From Washington last evening, we learn by telegraph, that the Star of yesterday morning announces the arrival of a special bearer of despatches from Spain. It also says that the difficulties with Cuba are in a fair way of adjustment, and that negotiations are on foot for the purchase of the Island, which Spain is willing to dispose of on reasonable terms.—Patriot.

The Rev. V. Van Ingen, D.D., has resigned the Rectorship of Grace Church, Rochester, N. Y., and removed to Minnesota, to take charge of that large and interesting territory. This is an important change, as while we regret the loss to the East of such a man as Dr. Van Ingen, we congratulate the West on its valuable gain.

The Rev. J. W. McCullough, D.D., has resigned the Rectorship of St. Luke's Church, Jackson, Tenn., and the Professorship of Mental and Moral Philosophy, Logic and Rhetoric, EXECUTION OF ORO. BARNHART AT BELLEVILLE.

At a very early hour on Sunday last, the 17th inst., the day fixed for the execution of George Barnhart, for shooting Joseph Dufoe, of Tynesburg, on the 27th of January last, crowds of persons in wagons and carriages, and some on horseback, were to be seen anxiously making their way to the town, for the purpose of witnessing the last moments of this unfortunate man. So eager were the spectators to gratify their morbid feelings, that hundreds of stations were found as early as five o'clock stationed opposite the gallows, gazing on it with gaped eyeballs, and remaining in that position till 12 o'clock; and though they were exposed to the scorching rays of the sun, they looked like martyrs, rather than deprived of the pleasure of seeing a fellow being launched into eternity. The number present is estimated at about three or four thousand. The reason assigned for so large a number being congregated is, that this is the first execution that has taken place in this country, and that it is very naturally excited that morbid curiosity which is, to some degree, common to human nature. I deeply regretted to see so many well-dressed females many of them with infants at their breasts, and could not help remarking that such gatherings were no place for mothers; but the love of the marvellous is admitted to be in her in woman than in man.

About ten minutes after 12 o'clock, the unfortunate culprit was led from the cell, attended by the Sheriff and Deputy and Dr. Hope, Surgeon to the gall, preceded by the Rev. Mr. Grier, in his surplice, who read some very pious and fervent prayers from the time the culprit was taken from the cells till he reached the scaffold. On reaching the gall leading to the scaffold, Barnhart looked around and began to speak of his property, and the unjust way in which he had been deprived of it, and said if he had done anything wrong he was not aware of it. Rev. Mr. Grier implored him to direct his mind to things spiritual, and call upon Christ to forgive him, and to banish all earthly matters from his mind, as he had but a few moments to live. He then ascended the stairs with a firm and unflinching step, assuring as he proceeded, that he had been very unjustly taken away from him, and his property had been taken away from him, and they were going to kill the old man. After ascending the scaffold he observed his grave, which was opened, (where he was to be buried, should his relatives not claim his body) and said, "You are not going to bury me here?" When he had finished the act of his relatives would be the disposal of his body. He then became quite silent, and made no resistance to the executioner while he drew over the cap and put the rope round his neck. After he was placed on the drop he was asked to join in prayer by the Rev. Mr. Grier, (which was his prayer for him.) At the conclusion of which the drop was touched by the executioner, and the spirit of this unfortunate man was ushered into the presence of God, to all appearance quite unprepared for so great a change. He appeared to have died instantaneously, as the body gave no signs of life five minutes after he dropped. In the short time just elapsed, this unfortunate man, which cost him his life, we must not forget that he was born and brought up amongst Indians, who are, to some degree, savage in their nature, and was taught to consider revenge, by taking the life of a fellow being, (which is both contrary to the laws of God and of man,) as the act of his relatives, had received an injury from him. That Barnhart labored under a delusion of this kind, is evident from the fact that he persevered till the last that he had done no wrong. Those who have visited him since he committed the fatal deed, will be struck by the act of his relatives, and will be struck by the fact that he was insane, at least on all matters relating to his property. This being the case, we deeply regret that the Executive did not feel it their duty to commute his sentence to imprisonment for life in the Provincial Penitentiary.

The New York Times says:—"Private letters from England state that Lord ELLENBOROUGH's premeditated, but unexpected declaration in the House of Lords on the occasion of the debate arising upon the second reading of the 'Canada Legislative Council Bill in favour of Canadian independence, was made with a view of ascertaining whether the Duke of CAMBRIDGE is or is not to succeed Lord ELGIN, with the large powers. He failed to elicit, and now, that the ice is broken, the matter is to be brought forward in the House of Commons in a substantial form."—Colonist.

European News.

The gallant defence of Silistria is like to prove in fact the winning of a campaign. The place has now been hotly invested for a full month; frequent and desperate attempts have been made to take the works by sap and by storm; but little ground has been gained at the cost of great loss of life. On the 15th ult., a straggling party of fresh troops had been thrown in by Omar Pacha; and Paskiewitch, Schilders, and Gortschakoff have been successively carried wounded from the field—a circumstance which speaks ill, as has been observed, for the morale of troops whose general has been obliged to expose them to a hazardous and unprofitable campaign. On the other side, a stray cannon-shot has killed the brave commandant, Mussa Pacha. The hope of the besiegers lay in taking the fortress by a coup de main. This hope has been disappointed; the advance of the Allies warns them that the hour is past, and that a further attempt would be a waste of blood and treasure. The whole Russian army, which has been gradually shifting from an extended line into an irregular column resting perpendicularly on the Danube, is under orders to fall back on Jassy, and thence retire behind the Pruth, leaving the pillaged and exhausted provinces to be occupied by an Austrian army.

It would be premature to dwell on the new aspect which, if this rumor be correct, the war will at once assume. What will diplomacy say to it? Is it more than a mere "dodge"—a trap to catch Austria and Prussia, or the result of some secret understanding with one or both of them? It is a suspicion which Lord Clarendon eagerly repels? Is the Austrian occupation of the Principalities a really hostile movement, and a pledge of sincerity given to the West—or not? What new plan of operations will open before the Allies, as the result of this? Upon his native tongue he has been hounded home again?—is the war to be prosecuted in Asia?—is the time at hand for the enterprise on which the French General is said to be intent—a grand attack on the Crimea? Turkey scores the first game what will be the scene and what the fortunes of the next? It is questions which are in every mouth, and which it is time to ask them, it would be idle to try to answer.

Whether on the Danube or the Pruth the operations of the Allies can only be of a defensive character; it is in Asia, in the Crimea, and possibly in Finland, that our efforts must be directed. In none of these countries, however, except the Circassian highlands, can we count upon much assistance from the native population. Recent travellers in Finland find there no animosity against Russia; the Tartars of the Crimea are a mild and unwarlike race; and the Georgians, both on the coast and in the interior, have shown every disposition to side with the Muscovite lords. Sir Edmund Lyons met with no welcome from them, and the adventurous officers who wished to penetrate beyond the rose-gardens and jessamine-covered cottages of the coast, found themselves in a dangerous if not hostile country. They found the destruction of which will be the next enterprise of the allied fleets. But along the whole mountain-chain which runs from the Black Sea to the Caspian we have an irregular army who no revenues can subsidize, and who only want union and organization to be absolute masters of the Transcaucasian Possessions. Here is the true seat of war. Lord Lyndhurst reminds us that, by promising concord and aid to this gallant people, we are contracting obligations towards them which we cannot help feeling aside. It is a true thing, but in his speech, somewhat indefinite though those obligations are.

The blockade of the Baltic is publicly announced, and the fleets having joined company, we may soon look for something better than desultory shell-practice at forts not worth taking, and predatory descents on petty dockyards and ports. The most interesting incident of the week—and, as yet, for the war, is a mere casualty—the loss of a transport burnt at sea, with the old colonel of the Enniskillens and a portion of the regiment on board.

The King of Naples is a potentato very apt to presume on his weakness. Here we have him setting up a neutral, and refusing to sell arms, and then, when a prohibition is convenient to us, but by which Russia, which has no nothing about bigger than a walnut-shell, is likely to be no great sufferer. He has a right, no doubt, to stand by his friend, provided he is prepared to take the consequences. He speaks of not being escaping the consequences, and he is not far wrong. Compulsion would be justifiable, but it is not worth while.

ARRIVAL OF THE "AMERICA." New York, July 5. It is reported that the Turks have driven the Russians from Silistria across the Danube, and raised the siege.

The siege of Silistria has been raised, the Russians having been defeated by the Turks, and driven across the Danube. The order of events are as follows: The siege operations were begun on the 17th May, and ceased on the 25th June. The attack and defence during this time was carried on incessantly, and with great bravery on both sides. Repeated storming parties were directed against the entrenchments, and mines and counter-mines were exploded, causing immense slaughter, both among the besiegers and the besieged.

On the 2nd June, Mussa Pasha, the brave Turkish commander, was killed, after which Prince Paskiewitch, the Russian commander, was knocked down and disabled by a spent ball, and will probably die.

On the 16th a tremendous attack was ordered under Gortschakoff and Childers, but after severe fighting the Russians were defeated, and succeeded in entering the fortress, and thus reinforcing the garrison.

Prince Gortschakoff was severely wounded, and Childers had his leg shot off, and two other Generals were killed.

Perceiving their advantage, the Turks crossed an arm of the river near the Island of Hippa, and blew up the Russian siege-works, the Turks then brought out their guns and erected temporary batteries before the face of the fortress. The Russian battalions, east and west of Silistria, retired in good order, crossing the river and destroying the bridges behind them.

The Russians are now in the vicinity of Kalarach raising reinforcements, and several detached corps are marching in haste from Slatina to join them.

This victory was gained entirely by the Turks, the French troops not yet having made their appearance.

The siege of Silistria thus raised must alter the whole of the Russian plan of the campaign in Bulgaria and consequently must change the plans of the allies.

Several ships had arrived with goods.

ARRIVAL OF THE "BAL TIC." The Baltic arrived at an early hour this morning after the quickest passage on record.

Breadstuffs—Brown, Shipley & Co., quote markets dull, with a decline of 2d on wheat and 6d on flour. Corn—Little doing; Philadelphia and Canadian flour 6s @ 37s 6d.

Messrs. R. Maxwell quote White American wheat 11s @ 11s 9d. Ohio flour 38s 6d @ 39s 8d and 40s 6d for extra.

The Russians are evacuating the Principalities in great haste.

The Assis arrived at Liverpool on Sunday morning.

Liverpool cotton market was steady at former quotations.

The news brought by the Baltic is brief, but of importance.

The Russians have evacuated the Principalities and are concentrating their forces beyond the Pruth.

The night before last the Russian reply to the Austrian note reached here. It is to the effect that as a mark of high consideration for Austria Russia consents to evacuate the Turkish territories.

GRADUATE of King's College, Fredericton, N. B., now studying for Holy Orders, is desirous of engaging himself with a clergyman of the Church of England, as Tutor to his sons, and would be happy to assist as Lay Reader in return for any assistance he may receive in pursuit of his own studies. A situation with a private gentleman would not be objected to. For further particulars apply to A. B., box 217, Toronto. Toronto, Feb. 15th, 1854. 29

PROTECTION FROM LIGHTNING By Spratt's Patent Lightning Rods MANUFACTURED BY E. V. WILSON & H. PYPHER & BROTHER, 60, YONGE STREET.

THE Subscribers are the only authorized Agents for the sale of these valuable rods in the Canadas. Manufactured and for sale, wholesale and retail, at their manufactory, 50 Yonge Street, Toronto.

CAUTION—Allow no man to protect your building without first examining the points of his rods for the agents' marks, and be sure to notice the name, Spratt's Improved Points, near the base. The coating of the point is of a composition metal that never rusts, retaining its brightness for years; the nature is soft and can be cut with a knife, yet sufficiently hard not to melt under the influence of Electric fluids. Look out for the name, Spratt's Improved Points, near the base. Spratt's Improved Points, near the base.

NOTICE—No Policy of Insurance covers losses by lightning, unless burned down or set on fire. AGENTS WANTED. E. V. WILSON & H. PYPHER & BROS., Toronto, April 15, 1854. 38-5m
