Now take another cork, cut it down to a round ball as big as a small marble, "a miggle," and pierce it through the center with a long hairpin from which you have broken off the greater part of one leg. The straight end should stick farther out of the ball than the other, so that the hooked end will be higher and will stay on top. Now in the other side of the large cork nearest the stem of the pipe stick a long wire, bent over and above and ending in a hook exactly over the little funnel and three or four inches above it.

Then drop the cork ball into the funnel, put the pipe to your lips and blow. Your breath rushing up the little tube will lift the light ball and keep it dance ing in the air for a second or two. When it falls the funnel catches it, and our breath sends it up again.

SPELLING GAMES.

A Good Way For Girls and Boys to Amuse Themselves.

There are several kinds of spelling games which can be played in the same way, one of the most amusing being as follows: A long word, such as "ca'astrophe," is given out, and each his paper. Five minutes are given in which to write down any words which can be made out of the letters in catastrophe which begin with the letter C (such as cat, cot, cast, cate, cate, cap, cape, cost). When this is over the same thing is done with the next letter, and all the players write down A, with at, ate, ape, etc., underneath.

When the word is finished one of the party reads aloud the words he has found, and every one runs a line through any word of which he has the duplicate. Each player reads aloud in turn, and a mark is allowed for words which no one else has thought of. If possible, the selected word should be one in which no letter occurs twice.

Another variation of the spelling game is called the "cate" game. A quarter of an hour is given, in which all the players have to write down as many words as they can think of end-ing in "cate," such as delicate, advo-cate, vacate, and at the end of the time one of the company reads the words aloud. If more than one person has thought of a word it does not count. The prize is given to the person who has found out more words than any one bright colors in a doorway, suspended in a row by strings.

Each ring should measure about seven to nine inches across, but they need not all be the same size.

Have ready some bowls of strong soapsuds in which a teaspoonful of glycerin has been dissolved and as many clay pipes as will be needed for yourself and your guests.

The players take turns in blowing their bubbles through the rings, and the one who succeeds in getting the most through without breaking them is declared the winner and gains a prize.—Exchange.

Red Rose

Because it is Recommended by the Best Grocers.

You will generally find Red Rose Tea in a store which deals in standard brands of high-class goods.

These are the merchants who do not look for goods which give them the largest profit, because it pays them best to sell goods which are the most reliable and give their customers the greatest satisfaction.

Ask a grocer of this kind his opinion of Red Rose Tea-his opinion will be honest, because nearly all other teas pay him a larger profit than Red Rose. He probably uses it in his own house, and will tell you in a very few words why he recommends it.

Bruises on Fine Furniture. Bruises can be removed from fine furniture by means of what is known in the cabinet trade as the steaming process, and any intelligent person can do it by exercising a reasonable amount of care. The object, of course, is to raise the grain of the wood to the same level as before the damage, Take a piece of wet felt or heavy flannel about the size of the dent to be oved and a hot iron. Lay the felt on the damaged spot and apply the iron so as to make the wood hot with the steam. Repeat the process until the grain of the wood has risen somewhat higher than the rest of the surface. Allow it to dry for some hours. Sandnaper it with 00 paper until smooth, then refinish. If this is properly done the surface will be like new. Very hard wood will succumb to this treatment, but will take more time than woods like mahogany or black To Restore Gray Hair. A celebrated German physician's recipe which is said to restore the color to gray hair after illness is to give sulphur and iron internally and by anointing the scalp with yolk of egg. A hair restorer is made from one dram of sul-phate of iron, one-half dram of sulphume, one ounce of tincture of jaborandi, four drams each of extract of rosemary and extract of thyme, one ounce each of rectified spirits and glyc-erin and one-half pint of elder flower water. Add the iron to the spirits, the glycerin to the extracts and tineture, the sulphume to the perfumed water. Agitate, then add the first mixture to the second and lastly unite them to the third. Apply to scalp and hair nightly

When she was captured by the British she was taken to England by her captor, Sir Philip Broke, and me years later her timbers were d. The purchaser was a miller in Wiskham, and when he pulled down his old mill he built a new one from the timbers of the Chesapeake. Many of these timbers still have the marks of the Shannon's grapeshot, and in some places the shots are still to be

THE LABYRINTH PUZZLE.

See if Yen Can Trace the Course Taken by the Tourist. If you were suddenly placed at the center of the earth, provided with the accompanying chart and told to start on a pilgrimage around the world you would pursue a tangled course before reaching your home city. A man, so runs the story, started to make this trip around the world. His starting point was the black spot on the chart. He wanted to stop at some big city, could not decide whether that city should be London, Paris or New York. At last he decided on the city he would first visit and set out at once. The twisted, snarled lines in the pic ture represent his course. want to know what city he went to? Then take a pencil and follow the line of his travels from the black spot and you will find yourself at last at the city he chose, for the line ends abruptly at that city. A NEAT LITTLE TRICK. to Make the Silver Quarter Drop Into the Hat.

A very neat trick may be performed by any boy with a bat and a silver quarter. The quarter may be brand new, just from the mint, but the hat had better be an old one, or at least one that its owner is not very particular about, for it is likely to get a little rough handling.

It must be of the pattern known as a "stovepipe," either silk or beaver. Lay it on its side on top of a glass tumbler, and on the upper side of the bat place the quarter.

Now what you ask one of your little friends to do is to knock the hat from under the quarter so that the latter will fall into the tumbler.

Every one that tries it will be sure to strike the hat on its brim, but that will only send it across the room and the quarter somewhere on the floor. When the feat has been pror impossible you make a few feints as if you, too, were going to strike it on the brim, and then suddenly you give it a smart tap on the inside of the crown, when it will jump quickly out and let the coin fall directly down into the tumbler. Ethel's Letter to Cecile. Dear little Cecile Valory had prom-sed to pay a visit to her friend Ethel, and Cecile was such a sweet little girl and Cecile was such a sweet little girl that her visits always brought pleas-ure. But when the day for the visit came it poured rain, and of course Cecile could not go out. So she wrote a little note of apology to Ethel, who sent the following letter in reply:

Dear Cecile—I am so sorry it rained and you could not come to see me. I missed you very very much. Do come just as soon as you can. Our baby broke my big doll's face and pulled the little doll's wig off. So you can see that my poor children are not very well. I hope to see you very soon. Your loving friend, ETHEL

Don't you think it was too bad for the rain to have kept those two little friends apart, and don't you think that Ethel wrote a nice little letter to Cecile?

The dolls the classic Greek children played with were made of wax and clay decorated with bright colors. As clay decorated with bright colors. Asthese children married when they were very young they played with their dolls until just before their wedding day.
Then they made a sacrifice of all their toys, dolls and clothes included. They dedicated them as a plous offering to some deity. If the little girl died before the ways grown up her dolls were fore she was grown up her dolls were but it with her. Thus it happens that we have been able to learn the kind and fashion of dolls which comforted these ancient children.—New York Press.
