

LIVER COMPLAINT

The chief office of the liver is the secretion of bile, which is the natural regulator of the bowels.

Whenever the liver becomes deranged, and the bile ducts clogged, liver complaint is produced, and is manifested by the presence of constipation, pain under the right shoulder, sallow complexion, yellow eyes, slimy-coated tongue and headache, heartburn, jaundice, sour stomach, water brash, catarrh of the stomach, etc.

Liver Complaint may be cured by avoiding the above mentioned causes, keeping the bowels free, and arousing the sluggish liver with that grand liver regulator,

LAXA-LIVER PILLS.

LIVER COMPLAINT.

Mr. Geo. Fawcett, Hamilton, Ont., writes: "Having suffered with liver complaint for years and tried all sorts of remedies, I was advised to try Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. I must say, that after taking two vials of them, I feel quite a new man, and can strongly recommend them to anyone."

The minister's class at the kirk of Tobermory had been reading the story of Joseph and his brethren, and it came to the turn of the minister to examine the boys.

The replies to all his questions had been quick, intelligent and correct. Such as:

"What great crime did these sons of Jacob commit?"

"They sold their brother Joseph."

"Quite correct. And for how much?"

"Twenty pieces of silver."

"And what added to the cruelty and wickedness of these bad brothers?"

A pause.

"What made their treachery even more detestable and heinous?"

Then a bright little Highlander stretched out an eager hand.

"Well, my man?"

"Please, sir, they sell't him ower-cheap."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

PEARLY EVERLASTING.

Find enclosed a weed which I got in my clover seed last year. If it is bad, would it ripen before hay would be ready to cut?

W. T. O.

Ans.—The plant enclosed is one popularly known as Pearly Everlasting. It is not a particularly bad weed, though it sometimes injures pastures slightly by crowding out the grasses. By breaking up the sod, it can be destroyed. The stage of development which the specimen has reached would indicate that it would seed before haying.

EFFECT OF USE ON INCUBATOR

Do you think that an incubator will do as good work after it has been run for a few years, as it will when new? Some say that they get so full of detrimental odors that they cannot hatch nearly as many chickens. Do you think that lining them with tin would help any to keep odors from getting into the wood? Any information you can give me will be welcome. I would like to see more about artificial hatching in your paper; would like to hear from someone with years of experience.

A READER.

Ans.—We believe it is somewhat common experience of those who buy incubators that, while they usually give excellent results at first, they are not always so satisfactory after a few years of use. Just why this should be is not a settled point; but we doubt whether odors have anything to do with it. A more plausible theory would ascribe it to certain bacteria, while others, again, think that lessened vigor of artificially-hatched breeding stock is a factor in the case. We cannot say that either or any of these suppositions is correct, but would recommend the thorough and copious use of disinfectants in the machine just after and previous to using, selecting of breeding stock as to vigor, and preferably the hatching of breeding stock with hens. The construction and lining of the machines is a matter that may well be left to the manufacturers.

DUCKS LAYING EGGS WITHOUT SHELLS.

Can you tell me the cause of ducks laying eggs without shell, open at one end sometimes; seem to drop them anywhere. I feed oats whole, morning and night. They are out all day. They get lime and grit; sometimes a handful of barley chop. One of them died some time ago. What is the best food for young ducks, to make them grow best.

C. J. M.

Ans.—There is hardly any doubt in this case that the trouble is owing to the ducks being overfat, the result of over-feeding. Would advise dropping the two whole-grain rations, and giving a very small quantity of the barley chop in the morning, and a small feed of oats when they come home at night. The digestive apparatus of ducks is not such as will easily digest rations composed mostly of whole grains. Roaming about they pick up a great amount of food. The ducks in this case seem to have a good run, presumably where they can find running water, or a pond.

The following ration has been found successful in rearing ducklings. For the first three or four days, mash of corn meal, a little hard-boiled egg chopped fine, ground wheat or oats, or granulated oatmeal; the whole being mixed with boiling milk. The young birds are very fond of cabbage, lettuce or clover, which should be chopped fine, and may be mixed with the mash, which make crumbly. Give skim milk for drink.

Later on, a mash may be made of corn meal, bran and oatmeal, with chopped green stuff, and mixed with skim-milk, boiled.

Feed the young ducks five times per day. Keep them in dry quarters, out of the hot sun, and supply water in limited quantity in shallow dishes, so as to prevent them from ducking into it.

After three or four weeks, reduce the rations to four per diem. As the ducklings grow, the rations may be added to by house waste, ground bone, beef scraps, or cooked meat. Small pieces of charcoal are aids to digestion. A small quantity of sand, say 5 per cent., added to the rations, is beneficial.

WEAR MY BELT TILL I CURE YOU,
Then Pay Me

You can talk with the men and women who have been cured by my treatment, and that's worth considering. I might preach for years in my efforts to gather converts to my way of curing diseases, and nobody would pay any attention to my arguments, but when I tell you I have cured your neighbor, Mr. Walker, or your old friend Mr. Williams, and you can go and ask them about me, and they will tell you I have cured them, then I have given you proof, and you know that I do all I claim.

And I want you to give me credit for what I prove. There's nothing surer than the word of an honest man, and when such men as these admit that I have cured them, you know that I can cure you.

To those who still doubt there is any cure because they have been misled by false representations, and want evidence of cure in their own cases before paying, I am willing to take all the chances of curing any case of RHEUMATISM, LUMBAGO, LAME BACK, SCIATICA, VARICOCELE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, CONSTIPATION, LOST ENERGY, resulting from exposure and excesses in young and middle-aged men. Give me reasonable security and you can

PAY ME WHEN CURED

I will not promise to make a Hercules of a man who was never intended by Nature to be strong and sturdy. Even that man I can make better than he is; but the man who has been strong and has lost his strength I can make as good as he ever was.

Dear Sir,—I have never felt better than I do now. I have taken no medicine of any kind since I got your Belt, and I believe I am completely cured, as I have not used the Belt for more than two years. I have recommended your Belt to many people. W. J. PATTERSON, Moncrieff, Ontario.
