LESSON X .- JUNE 4, 1911.

Israel's Penitence and God's Par

Commentary. 1. The prophet's appeal (vs. 1, 2). 1. O Israel. The prophet spoke with earnestness out of a full heart. He longed for the moral elevation of his people. Return unto the Lord. They had voluntarily gone away from God, and they must of their own will return. There could, in the nature of the cause he no compulsion since man of the cause, be no compulsion, since man is endowed with the power of choice The entreaty to return "is the key-note of the prophecy. This warning is the most needed and the weightiest. All God's judgments have this as their aim. For thou hast fallen. They had fallen from a position of spiritual and material greatness through their persistent sin-ning. The prophet is as forceful in de-claring the deplorable state of Israel as he is solicitious for their return to God. There will be no strong and effectual purpose to return to God on the part of the sinner without a clear realization of his sinfulness. Added to this must be the consciousness that he has fallen by his own iniquity. 2. Take with you words. The people of Israel were by Jewish law required to present themselves at the house of the Lord themselves at the house of the Lord three times a year, and they were warn-ed not to appear before him empty (Exod. 23:14-17). They had deeply sinned, and in order to obtain forgiveness, they were exorted to bring, in stead of animals for burnt-oferfings, words of heart repentance and confes-sion. No amount of material gifts could take the place of heart-felt penitence. Turn to the Lord. Not simply an out-ward return is intended, but such a return as includes a change of purpose, a change of heart, and a change of masters. Say unto him. The sinner has to deal directly with God. David said. "This poor man cried, and the Lord heard him, and saved him out of all his troubles" (Psa. 34:6). The publican said, "God be merciful to me a sinner" (Luke 18:13), and he went home a saved man. The road of confession is a difficult one to travel. It is frequently the case, when trouble arises, that the one who is in the wrong is unwilling to confess it and ask pardon, but attempts to make amends by showing unusual kindness to the injured one. A sentence or two of hearty acknowledgement, where wrong has been done, is of more avail they relumes of places. more avail than volumes of pleasant words without the needed confession.

Israel's prayer (vs. 2.3). 2. Take away all iniquity. This and the follow-ing expressions, including the third verse form the prayer which the prophet urg-ed the people of Israel to offer. The above petition involves two things: a above petition involves two things: a confession of sin, and an earnest desire for its removal. The people had reached a point where they desired deliverance from "all iniquity." Too many there are who cling to a cherished sin, an evil habit, sinful pleasures or associates. Receive us graciously. "Accept that which is good."—R. V. Accept our cry of penitence, which is hearty, and our yows; and accept us, freed from iniquity. Will we render. We realize our obligation to thee, and will make our offering to thee. we render. We realize our obligation to thee, and will make our offering to thee. The calves of our lips. Under the figure of a sacrificed God, is represented an offering of praise and thanksgiving. The suppliant would make his vows of obedience to the Most High. 3. Assure shall not save us. Assur means Assyria. Israel had appealed for help to that nation in their adversity, but they were pledging themselves not to apply to them, nor to Egypt any more. Will not ride upon horses. The people had depended upon the horses and charhad depended upon the horses and char-iots of Egypt. "Horses" here typifies Egypt. The work of our hands. This is a remunciation of idolatry. This verse includes a threefold pledge, a renunciation of Assyria, of Egypt and of idolatry, which indicates a change in associations, in confidence and in religion. The fatherless. Israel felt themselves destitude and desolate when separated from the true God. The Lord has prommever been converted. Will love them freely—With an overflowing love. God's nature is love and it goes out spontane ously to those who truly return to Him. Mine anger—Displeasure at sin. Him—Israel. 5. As the dew—Rather, as the night mist, that is, the masses of vapor brought by the damp westerly winds of summer.—Cheyne. These are abundant, and make up in part for the lack of rain during the dry season in Palestine. This means growth. The lily. The lily of the East is abundant and noted for its beauty. As many as fifty blossoms have been produced from one bulb. His roots as Lebanon—As the preceding figure means abundance and beauty, this means strength and stability. Two interpretations are given. One view is, that reference is made to the trees of Lebanon, whose roots penetrate the soil to a depth equal in distance to that of the height of the tree. The other view is that reference is made to the mountain which "rises from great roots. mountain which "rises from great roots, cast out across the land like those of some giant oak."—G. A. Smith. Either figure brings out the thought of steadfastness, 6. The Olive tree—The promise is not yet complete. The lily implies growth and beauty, Lebanon, permanence, and the olive, fruitfulness. "The the people of Israel shall revive upon their return to the Lord. Grow as the vine—The vine in that land flourished, and was an expressive symbol of fruit-fulness.—Dowling. As the wine of Lefulness.—Dowling. As the wine of Lebanon—The vine is still very largely cultivated in every part of Lebanon, but the finest grapes vine is still largely cultivated in every part of Lebanon, but the finest grapes of Syria are those of Helbon, a village in the Aptilibanus district, a little north of Damascus, precisely as in the days of Ezekiel and Nebuchadnezzar.—Lenormant. 8. Ephraim—The leading tribes of the northern kingdom and tribes of the northern kingdom and hence often stands for Israel, Idols—The hence often stands for Israel. Idols—The expression indicates a thorough giving up of every form of idolatry. I. Israel made. Like a green fir tree—Israel own statement. This tree is large and beautiful, green all the year round. From me is thy fruit found—The Lord declared Himself the source of Israel's fruitfulness. This verse seems to be a conversation between the Lord and Israel 9. Wise prudent—These who hear conversation between the Lord and Israel, 9. Wise. prudent—Those who hear the word of God and live in harmony with it. The prophet here sums up the truths expressed in the previous teaching. Ways of the Lord are right—They are marked out by Him who is infinite in wisdom and holiness. They are the happiest and most useful who walk in them. Just—Righteous. Transgressors shall fall therein—The wicked at the righteous requirements of Jehosors shall fall therein—The wicked at the righteous requirements of Jeho-vah, They are unwilling to yield them-selves to God. Those who rebel against those commands stumble over them to their own destruction,

Questions.—At what time did Hosea prophesy? To whom did he bear God's message? What reproofs did he bring?
What kind of spirit does he manifest in his writings? What entreaty does he make to Israel? What was Israel's need? How could the people of Israel return to the Lord? What was Israel willing to do in order to find mercy What is the attitude of God toward is the attitude of God toward those who have forsaken Him? expressions are used showing the blessings promised to those who return to him in what sense are the people of God like the lily? Lebanon? The olivetree? The fir-tree?

PRACTICAL APPLICATIONS. PRACTICAL APPLICATIONS.
"Thou hast fallen by thine iniquity"
(v. 1(. A minister's little daughter said to her playmate. "Do you know what a backslider is?" "Yes; a person that used to be a Christian and isn't," said the child promptly. "But w hat makes them call them backsliders?" "Oh, that's easy. When people are good they go to front and sit up in front.
When they get a little tired of being 6 for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmangood, they slide back a seat and keen good, they slide back a seat and keep on sliding until they get clear back to the door. After a while the slide clear out and never come back to church at all." We smile at the child's definition, but there is truth in it. "One never suddealy falls from an advanced Christian experience into open sin. The descent is slow and the steps not always perceptible. Little foxes spoil the vines. Litle temptations betray to the enemy. Little negligences eat our spiritual joy. By gradual departure from God at length comes apostasy." In Hosea are some of the steps of him who "slideth back." (Hos. 4:16).

back." (Hos. 4:16).
"Take with you words, and turn to the Lord" (v. 2). Bring words of confession. Acknowledge the worst. Say with David, I have sinned (Psa. 51:4). with David, I have sinned (Psa. 51:4). Confess you have sinned against light and love against goodness and grace, against Father, Son, and Holy Spirit. Christmas Evans says: "I was weary of a cold heart toward Christ, in the pulpit, in secret prayer and in study. For fifteen years previously I had felt my heart burning within, as if going to Emmaus with Jesus. One day ever to be remembered, as I was climbing up toward Cader Idris. I considered it toward Cader Idvis. I considered it incumbent upon me to pray, however hard or worldly my spirit. Having be-gun in the name of Jesus, I soon felt gun in the name of Jesus, I soon felt the fetters loosening, the hard heart softening, mountains of frost melting within me. This engendered confidence in the promise of the Holy. Spirit. I felt relieved of great bondage: tears flowed copiously, and I was constrained to cry out for the gracious visits of God."

destitude and desolate when separated from the true God. The Lord has promised to be a Father to those who separate themselves from the unclean (2 Cor. 6:17, 18). The scriptures make prominent the thought that God exercises a parental care over his children. "A father of the fatherless, and a judge of the widows, God in his holy habitation" (Psa. 68:5). Jesus said, "I will not leave you orphans: I will come to you" (John 14:18, margin).

III. The Lord's promise (vs. 4-6), 4, I will heal their backslidings—This was God's answer to their sincere and earnest prayer, The backsliding refers especially to their idolatry. From this they had suffered, but relief was at hand. Repentance, confession and faith appeal effectually to God in the case of a backslider, as well as of one who has never been converted. Will love them freely—With an overflowing love. God's nature is love and it goes out spontaneously to those who truly return to thim. Mine anger—Displeasure at sin. Him—Israel. 5. As the dew—Rather, as not one to be a father than the stranger of plants, particularly at night. "It does not "drop" like rain, but distils on the plant under certain conditions (Peut. 32 2). Dew in Oriental countries is heavier than in ours, and often takes the place of rain. Dew is one of the many types of the Maly. "I will heal their backsliding" (v. 4)

IV. Israel restored (vs. 7-9). 7. Under His shadow—Under the protection and control of Israel. Revive as the corn— As the grain is sown in the ground, appearing to be without life, and soon shoots forth and grows, so

In the 20 years ending with 1900 the population of the United States increasd by 50 per cent., but in the same time the production of eggs increased by 89 per cent. There was a still greater increase in the production of milk per capita. Meantime the United States has practically ceased to be an exporter either of eggs or duiry uroducts. The increased production has been entirely absorbed in the home market owing to the fact that the same number of people are using vastly greater quantities of both eggs and milk to-day than they used 30 years ago.

Feed alfalfa in reasonable rations of from 10 to 20 pounds a day. Livery horse may be kept in vigorous thrift with a small additional quantity of grain, and thus a saving be made of 20 to 30 per cent. in cost of maintenance. In the alfalfa districts there may be found many liverymen who, having had experience with alfalfa hay, feed their horses little or anything else. In the last few years there has been a growing demand for alfaifa hay for souther towns and cities.

For the benefit of beckeepers the Department has just issued a publication containing a discussion of the nature of these diseases and their treatment. The Lehigh county, Pennsylvania, last year #20,000,000, and there are vast opertun-ties for increasing this output. The loss caused by diseases, which have been found to exist in 37 States, is a serious handicap. Loss of honey production, due to the weakened condition of the colnies and the value of the colonies which die, can be greatly lessened according to the department, if active measures are taken to control the diseases.

BRADSTREETS' TRADE REVIEW.

Montreal reports to Bradstreet's say the general tone of business there con-tinues to show little change. A general review of the situation in the different branches of wholtsale trade would seem to establish the fact that the volume of business moving at the present moment is not up to the mark by earlier expecta-tions. The business done has been of average proportions and does, perhaps, compare fairly well with that of last year. As yet there has not been the general expansion that the market growth of the country would lead one o reasonably expect.

Toronto reports to Bradstreet's say all nes of trade report an excellent volume of business moving. Orders from all parts of the country for sorting lines show improvement and heavy shipments are being sent out. Deliveries of goods to the watern are being sent out. Deliveries of goods to the western provinces are particularly heavy. Some complaint is heard here and there on the matter of collections, but on the whole they seem to be fairly satisfactory. Summer dry goods are beginning to move well and there is also a good hydrogen comping up in secolation. a good business opening up in goods for fall delivery.

Tall delivery.

Winnipeg reports say general business conditions continue good in all parts of western Canada. Good rains have fallen since seeding and the outlook for the crops is now bright. The greatly increased acreage will be a large factor in the total yield for the season.

Quebec reports to Bradstreet's say: Business is fairly active and a good movement is noticeable in hardware, groceries and provisions, and the outlook is regarded encouraging.

Hamilton reports say retail trade there is now quite active. General lines of seasonable goods are moving quite
