We publish the following Report from the Vermont State Agriculturist, on breed ing horses, which will serve as an excellent model for such of our Societies as are desirous of promoting improvements in Canadi an Agriculture :-Your committee are of opinion that there is no branch of stock-raising more profitable than the rearing of the best of horsesand they consider there is no trouble in ac complishing this, provided none but the very best stallions are bred to, and none are bred from, but excellent horses, which by th way, are very scarce and hard to be obtain ed, and for the following reasons :- Owing to the high price good "horse flesh" will ever command, the majority of our best mares, as soon as they come to maturity, find the way, to our village and city mar kets, and are never allowed to breed, save a few that may be returned to the country a ter becoming unsound in limb, or having their constitution broken down by has usage and old age; and many that remain among the farmers are volved to highly for their labor and fine as pearance that they are never permitted to breed until they are in similar condition to those returned from our city markets. The consequence is, that nearly the whole of our horses are produced from the most ordinary mares, or unsound ones. An unsoundness of the limbs may not impair the value of a breeding mare, but the last ten years, in a sound state, has been the class of a majority of our breeding mares.) From mares of this stamp, and to good stallions, we cannot raise colts which, at four years old, would have sold, higher than fifty dollars to seventy-five dollarswhereas, from the first class of mares, and double these prices, and occasionally one may command four times as much.

Another thing that has a great tendency to multiply the number of poor herses is, that farmers too often estimate the profit of raising colles by the first cost of getting them—bestowing their patronago where them—bestowing their patronago where they can be insured with a foal for the least money, and frequently to a horse of orders are qualities; when, by the addition of a few dollars, they might recuire the services of a horse whose services would afford them a profit similar to that spoken of with the best class of breeding marce. It should be remarked, however, that the stallions are of a much higher quality than the breeding marce. more than dry food the first two winters .-The starving of colts will not only impede their growth, but will bring on a contraction of the ribs, cords, and muscles, especialmore or less, impair their power, action, speed, and endurance, after coming to maand action with a natural tail, yet, for appearance, they would recommend a moderate docking, which should be governed by the build of the animal and the character of the tail; but we should very seldom leave a dock of less than 12 inches; and the docking should be performed when the colts are one or two years old, (one year old is prefcrable.) Colts may be docked at these age with less injury to them than when they are nearly grown up; they will have more of a bush to the tail, with longer hair, and wil be inclined to carry it in a more elevated position. Nicking should be looked upon a a cruel and useless practice, which undoubtedly impairs the strength and action of the horse, and may sometimes seriously injure

Ball and the second of the sec

Great care should be used, in breaking colts, to have them kind; and there is but little difficulty in this, provided they have proper and gentle treatment., They very eldom need but little if any whipping .-They should be learned to do their work in an easy and handsome manner, and without fretting. A horse that is trained to chafe and dance in the harness, or under the sad die, may do very well for fops and horsejockeys, but it is not what a sensible man wants in a horse designed for service, as i is a waste of strength and action, without accomplishing any useful purpose. And ir forming an opinion of a restless horse it wil be well to consider whether the action in natural or whether it is brought about by training, and the fear of the braid.

All of which is respectfully submitted.—
