There was the guarantee every man who ought to pay would find his name placed up assessment roll. There was, in tion, a local body; consisting probably of opposite political engaged in the work of revisi ssessment roll. . It was point at that time, in an observation by the present leader of the tion, that if the time should when any provincial governm provincial legislature should, legislation or by its administ that legislation, interfere with course of the preparation of the or that there was ground to fe factory nature, then the Federal control over its own lists and hended evil from taking place

The "Difficulty" in Manitob

"At the last general election 1904," continued Mr. Aylesv "there was difficulty, to use a the veneral election to the veneral election of the veneral word, with reference to the v lists in the province of Man especially there, perhaps elsewh well, but a difficulty which h origin out of the system of prelists which under the Manitoba ute and under the method in that statute was administered I necessity arisen. These lists we based upon the assessment rolls. lists were prepared upon a syst registration, personal registration the part of the voter if possible not necessarily personal registr provisions being contained without personal application The general outline of their syst preparing voters' lists was that tration clerks were appointed for ious constituencies of the pro and the work of the registration in forming the basis of the lists was afterwards revised by a of registration which upon the county judges or of barristers of standing. Those lists wer cessarily prepared under the s Staining in Manitoba with refe to the various electoral districtand down for provincial pur purposes of representation in House the whole province of Mar is divided into nine constituencies for the purpose of representation the provincial legislature of the divided into forty constituenci every Dominion constituency the four provincial constituencies ar boundaries are not coterminous. not know whether in any single ance any Dominion constitue
