Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—While attending the Assembly Wednesday all in the galleries noted with a smile the Premier's economic views when the question of raising the stipends of civil servants was referred to by Mr. Kent. In connection with these underpaid officials Sir Edward would "cut his cloth to suit his measure." Sir Edward's measure has been taken by the whole country I doubt not. When the pictures for himself and political friends are being planned and patronage about to be distributed to needy sympathizers, heeds and hangers on will our "careful" leader consider the question of economies so closely? I think not. The past record of the "Solid" Government shows that they care little how much of the people's taxes they spend as long as it is for their own pleasure or aggrandisement. However, their powers in this respect will soon be curtailed by an indignant and outraged people.

Yours sincerely,
POOR VOTER.

CUTTING DOWN GULCHES.—Yesterday and to-day the Council has a number of men engaged on Water, New Gower and Duckworth Streets levelling the gulches which beset these thoroughfares. This will facilitate traffic along these streets.

"THE ONE THING THAT DOES ME GOOD"

At 60 Years Of Age, Gin Pills Give Me Perfect Relief"

As one begins to get along in life, the vital organs grow less active and need assistance. Men and women of 50, 60 and 70 should read the following letter very carefully. It points the way to a happy, healthy old age and long life.

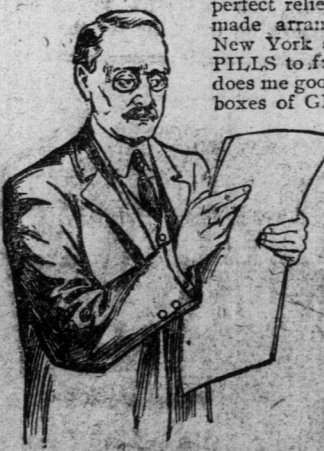

H. G. WOODFORD, Consulting Mining Engineer,
29 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

"Bought some of your GIN PILLS at Victoria, B. C. last September. I made inquiries in New York on my arrival there but was unable to obtain any information about them. Your remedy, I find at 60 years of age, to give me perfect relief and I regret very much that you have not made arrangements to have GIN PILLS on sale in New York and London, as I urgently recommend GIN PILLS to friends of my age as being the one thing that does me good. I will be glad if you will send me a few boxes of GIN PILLS to my London address and a few to my office in New York by post if possible".

H. G. WOODFORD.
P.S. Since receiving the above letter from Mr. Woodford we have completed arrangements for supplying GIN PILLS to the British Public.

Perhaps you are 60 years of age. Perhaps your kidneys are troubling you. Perhaps you have Pain In The Back or trouble with urinating. Do just as Mr. Woodford did—get GIN PILLS—keep a box always on hand—take them whenever you feel that the kidneys need help. You will find an occasional GIN PILL will keep you in perfect health and free from pain and discomfort. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50. Write for free sample and give GIN PILLS a trial before you buy them. Address National Drug and Chemical Co. of Canada Limited, Dept. N Toronto.

MANGA-TONE BLOOD AND NERVE TABLETS build up the system and purify the blood. Ask your druggist. 50c. a box.

W. & N. C. O's. Annual.

The W. & N. C. O's. of the C.I.B. held their annual meeting last night. The reports of the different officers were read and showed the less to be in a flourishing condition. Col. Sergt. Myles took the chair and conducted the election of officers for the coming year, which resulted as follows: Chairman, Sergt. Inst. Ebsary; Vice-Chairman, Sergt. Reid; Secretary, Corp. Barnes; Treasurer, Sergt. Bartlett; Committee—Sergts. Edwards, Cake, Marshall, Strong, Rice and Miles. Speeches were made by Sergt. Major Dicks, Staff Ambulance Reeves, Col. Sergt. Miles and Sergt. Instructor Ebsary. The meeting then adjourned.

MORAN WON IN TWELFTH. London, Feb. 6.—Owing to the unsatisfactory result of the contest on January 2, between Frank Moran, the Pittsburgh heavyweight, and Fred Storbeck, formerly heavyweight champion of South Africa, a return match was fought in Blackfriars tonight. In the previous fight Storbeck was disqualified in the seventh round for fouling. Moran proved the winner to-night in a hard fought battle. Both received much punishment, and in the 12th round the American was unable to come up for the thirteenth.

The Terrible Experience

Of the Crew of the Schooner Morrissey.

(Western Star.)

The Morrissey first left Bonne Bay for Bay of Islands on the morning of 6th January, but carried away peak block and had to put back.

Tuesday morning, 9th January she again got under weigh in rock ballast, the wind blowing fair breeze from the southeast. At 2 p.m. the wind changed to south and very light. At between 3 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon when off Cape Gregory, the wind again hauled round to southeast and blew a hurricane accompanied with snow.

Had to strip the vessel of all sail and put her under bare poles, single reef, and the foresail, and it blew out of the crew, then double reefed it at 5 p.m.

At 7 p.m. the double reefed foresail, (brand new) was torn in riven from the craft off for about twenty miles under bare poles, but the sea being so heavy had to leave too at 9 p.m. in order to keep her from foundering. Took the riding sail single reefed it and put it to the foremast. At about ten o'clock that night the wind hauled to S.W. and continued to blow very heavily with high sea still running, also snow squalls, and lightning.

About 6 o'clock Wednesday morning the wind hauled to N.W. At about 1.30 p.m. met with slob ice. Tried to keep the vessel clear but found her difficult to steer in her condition, she being all "awash" forward, seas going clean over her continually. Had one of the dories smashed by the sea that afternoon.

The vessel was still hove too making lee way when about five minutes after two Thursday morning land was sighted, through the snow storm. It was first thought to be ice. Immediately wore the starboard tack. They now discovered it was land and that the vessel was in the trough of the seas.

The vessel struck a reef 1/2 of a mile from shore. Three or four seas washed clean over the craft and carried her over the reef. Then it was a continual bump, bump, till the vessel was thrown high upon the beach at Table Point Cove. This was about half-past two o'clock Thursday morning. And in the piercing W.N.W. gale, with mercury registered 10 below zero the shipwrecked mariners were compelled to leave their stranded craft and seek shelter on the shore.

The vessel was "ratt and ratt" with ice, and she could not possibly remain afloat more than three or four hours more had she not gone ashore. All hands did their endeavor "chopping" away ice in order to keep her afloat. The windlass and a dory on deck could not be discerned, being completely covered up with ice. Her bulwarks had to be chopped away in order to let the water flow off, but yet the ice continued to make. The crew had to hold on with one hand while chopping with the other, in order to save themselves from being washed over board, the sea making clean over her all the while.

Our first effort on reaching the beach was to find inhabitants, said Gillispie, and in the effort, the mate and J. O'Brien the cook, got astray in the woods and we did not find them till after daylight. In the meantime the captain and the rest of us, six all told, held a consultation in the woods, and it was decided that the Captain and Lewis Dunn should go and try to find inhabitants. They returned at 3.30 after an unsuccessful search for inhabitants, though they had succeeded in finding a house in the woods.

The skipper had also endeavored to again board the schooner but could not. Dunn told me that the skipper was almost played out and that he was compelled to take a little rest in the woods.

We all started off for the house, the skipper and myself (Gillispie) bringing up the rear. Had not gone twenty yards when the skipper dropped and could go no further. I called to the men ahead, but owing to the fierceness of the storm they could not hear me. The skipper could not walk any further so I had to pull him along, till we reached the edge of a cliff over which we both fell and rolled to the water's edge.

After a while I managed to drag the skipper from there to abrest where the schooner lay a distance of about 1/4 of a mile.

The captain asked me where the vessel was, and I told him we were just beside her. But he was unable to see the craft as the lashes of his both eyes were frozen together.

I now found myself, says Gillispie, very much done up and unable to get the skipper along any further. The skipper wanted me to leave him to die, after giving me a message for his mother. Gillispie declared that so long as a spark of life remained in his body he would not leave him, though he thought that by that time he would be well nigh dead himself. I had lost my sou-wester and the skipper wanted me to take his, as he said he would need it no more.

The skipper had lost his mitts so I gave him mine. Seeing that I could be no more help to him, I set out in the dark and deep snow to try and find the house in the woods where the rest of the crew had gone, and get them to help in getting along the skipper.

I had some trouble in finding the house, but at last succeeded, and found Dunn, Nickerson and Burton, with a fire in. I said for God's sake come and help me with the skipper as he is dying on the beach. I asked Dunn to come, thinking he being his countryman, his schoolmate and his shipmate, that he would be the first to come to the assistance of his skipper.

Followed by Burton and Nickerson I returned to the skipper and found him unconscious. Burton, Nickerson and myself carried him to the shack in the woods. (When we were within about ten yards of the house, Dunn came out crying, "poor Charlie," but he had to beat it while his boots were good.

After we had got the unconscious skipper in the shack we resorted to various efforts to bring up circulation and restore consciousness. But not until five hours untrifling efforts on their part was the unfortunate mariner restored to consciousness. His boots were frozen to his feet, and his face and hands were badly "roast bitten." After daylight the inhabitants of Bellburns, seeing the wreck upon the shore, started out for the shack, where they found us endeavoring to restore the captain. They took us up to their homes, where we were so well treated that their many kindnesses will never be forgotten by us.

The mate had his face and hands badly frozen, Ben More, and the cook, was badly frozen about the face and the captain's face, hands, and feet were so badly frozen that it would be some days before he could be able to travel.

A Splendid Elocutionist.

The recitation given by Miss Flora Curtis at the Guards' sociable in the Methodist College Hall last night captivated all present and received the appreciation which its excellence merited. Miss Curtis is an elocutionist of transcendent ability and her appearance at any function is looked forward to with pleasurable anticipation. This talented young lady, who was educated at Sackville College, is a daughter of the Rev. Dr. Curtis of the Methodist Conference.

Wedding Bells.

A pretty wedding took place at St. Thomas's Church on the 7th inst. when Mr. James Burn, of Mortdale Penrith, Cumberland, England, led to the altar Miss Margaret Elizabeth Wilkinson, of Lancaster, Lancashire, England, in the presence of several friends of both. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. R. Golden, and the bridesmaid was Miss Gladys Davis and the best man Mr. John Dooley. The groom is shepherd at the Golf Links and he and his bride are very popular. The Telegram extends congratulations.

Good Suggestion.

It has been suggested to the Telegram that the 14 men selected to play the Windsor team give an exhibition game of hockey in the Prince's Rink Monday night, the proceeds of which might be devoted to swelling the Bunsiel matches of Wednesday next for the purpose of purchasing coal for the poor of the city. We think the idea a good and charitable one. It will at once give our boys a good practice match, will prove an interesting game and will help out a good cause. Now then, gentlemen, forward a philanthropic idea.

Hr. Grace Notes.

The C. C. C. entertainment given here on Monday night was placed before a Riverhead audience in St. Joseph's Hall last night.

Mr. Moses Shute, one of the employees of the Oil Refining Factory, is now laid off with a very sore hand. A little scratch on the hand was the first trouble, but Mr. Shute kept to work and getting a cold in the member it became worse, and he was compelled to secure the services of a doctor fearing blood poison.

Another well-known and highly respected citizen passed away this morning, in the person of Mr. Wm. H. Sheppard of the West End. Mr. Sheppard had been ill all the winter and his death was not unexpected. Deceased followed the fishery during the whole of his long life—he being about 75 years. If we remember aright, he commanded the schr. Mary M. of this port on banking voyages for several years, and was very successful. Mr. Sheppard received a sad blow last year when his son Noah was killed in Boston. The shock was a very severe one for a person of his age. He leaves six sons to mourn his loss. He was a member of the C.B.E.S. and L.O.A. Society, and both these bodies will attend his funeral to-morrow when interment will take place at the C. of E. Cemetery.

The Adams Brothers of Bear's Cove, are storing ice in a building there, and hoping to make a profitable business out of the sale of it next season. We wish them all success with their venture.

Captain Charles Pike son of Mr. Ambrose Pike, Bear's Cove, arrived last week from New Brunswick on a visit to his parents. It is over 20 years since Capt. Pike left here, and we are glad to say fortune has smiled on him. A good seaman, steady and square in all his dealings has given him the good will of his employers. His old friends are glad to meet him and to wish him a continuation of his fortune.

The King's Speech proved a disappointment to the supporters of both Home Rule and Woman Suffrage. A telegram to the Times this morning from Dublin states that the scanty reference to Home Rule has greatly disappointed the Irish Nationalists, who hoped for a more fervent allusion to that pre-eminent measure of the session. The Nationalists are said to be still more seriously perturbed by a persistent rumor that the bill will not be introduced till after Easter. To Miss Pankhurst the speech has been more than a disappointment. She states that the Union of Suffragists will make an impressive demonstration at an early date, and that every opportunity will be taken of embarrassing the Government, thereby proving to them that women must have the vote. Miss Pankhurst said: "We had hoped for a distinct pronouncement in the King's Speech. We always expect the best, but are prepared for the worst. Now that they have given the worst, we shall fight for a Government measure until we win."

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.

The New York American publishes this morning the following agreement reached between the Cunard company and the Canadian Northern Railway, which has created interest in steamship circles here. With the competition of a coast to coast system, the Canadian Northern will be in a position to wrest the larger portion of the trans-continental traffic from its rival, the Canadian Pacific. An agreement has been reached whereby the Cunard Lines, three steamers now in the Montreal service, and two larger ones now building, would combine with the Royal Line and the Uranium Steamship Companies, the latter concerns being controlled by the Canadian Northern. The new arrangement means that eleven steamers will feed the Canadian Northern road, as against ten vessels that will form the connecting link between Liverpool,

Antwerp and Montreal for the Canadian Pacific.
