Our Navy.

For the first time, an official announcement has just been made showing the British naval casualties, in vessels, during the war. The loss of the Navy proper was 264 vessels, while the auxiliary fleet lost 815 vessels. Included in the losses were 13 battleships, 3 battle cruisers, 13 cruisers, 12 light cruisers, 13 sloops, 64 torpedo boat destroyers, 11 torpedo boats, 54 submarines, 17 armed merchant steamers, and 13 coastal motor boats.

Six of the light cruisers were sunk as blockships at Zeebrugge and Ostend. Of the 64 submarines lost, seven were destroyed at Heligoland to avoid capture.

Only 42 warships were lost in action; 43 were sunk owing to submarine attacks and 44 by mines. Eleven were destroyed to avoid capture, 25 were lost in collisions, 22 were wrecked, 5 were lost by internal explosions, and 7 by accident, while in 28 cases the cause of the loss was unknown.

Among the 815 auxiliary vessels in the list of losses, 246 were hired trawlers, 244 were colliers, and 130 were hired drifters. There were 18 minesweepers, 2 mine carriers, 2 hospital ships (the Robilla, which was wrecked off Whitby in October, 1919, and the Rewa, which was sunk by a submarine at the beginning of 1918), 44 "ollers," 29 special service ships, 14 tugs, 13 yachts, 18 Admiralty trawlers, 24 motor launches, 6 motor boats and 9 Fleet messengers.

A large proportion of these boats were lost as the result of attacks by U-boats, the number being 289; while 225 were destroyed by mines, and 43 went down as the result of actions.

Prospero Arrives.

The S.S. Prospero, Capt. Wes. Kean, reached port at 8 o'clock last night after experiencing the worse trip for the season. She went as far north as Flower's Cove. The weather at that end was terrific, very cold, and blowing a gale. Coming south the full force of the storm was met with, consequently many places of call had to be left out. She brought a quantity of cargo, and the following passengers—Mesdames Pond, Howlett, Barbour, Kean, Davis, Capt. Kean, Simms, Boyde, Norris and maid, Fitzgerald and child, Wiseman, Barbour, Hill, Stratton, Misses Dewick, Simms (2), Long, Penney, Fennanour, Burton, Jones, Rev. Wood, Pearce, Adams, Jacobs, Hewitt, Winsor, Baird, Walton, Phillip, Noble, (2), Jackman, Grant, Pilgrim, Capt. Sweetapple, S.A., Small, Facey, Young, Miles, Kearley, Farthing, Blake, Blandford, Howlett, Boyde, Earle, Hiscock, Rowell, Blandford, Mullett, Way, Hill, Capt. Winsor, Tiller, Capt. A. Barbour, Capt. Kean, Dr. Kean, Gillespie, Wright, Brown (2), Oakley, Howlett, Brown, Curtis, and 35 steerage.

A Novel Window Display

Possibly some thousands of people stopped on Saturday night to look into the display window of Ayre & Sons' New Building, where as novel a display as has been seen here for some time had been made up. This was comprised of three cages containing two hens each. The latter, which were owned by Mr. W. R. Butler, of Leslie Street, were winners in the recent poultry exhibition, and were undoubtedly splendid looking birds. The Ayre firm has always been noted for its novel window displays, but the latest may safely be said to equal either previously shown.

C. L. B. Old Comrades' Dance.

The C.L.B. Old Comrades, are holding a dance at the Armoury to-night. The affair promises to be very successful as the Committee in charge have all arrangements finalized. A special programme of music has been prepared for the occasion, and all who attend are promised an enjoyable evening.

Mrs. Strickland Recovered.

The woman Strickland, who was the victim of the unfortunate happening of a fortnight ago, has progressed so favorably that she has been removed from hospital, and in a few days will be as well as ever. The husband, who was the most severely injured, is getting better, and will be able to leave hospital in the course of next week.

Artificial Limb Study.

A large number of friends were at the station yesterday to see Mr. Richard Tilley, of "Ours," who left by express for Chicago, where he will make a study of artificial limbs and how to fit them. After taking this course, which will occupy about one year, Mr. Tilley will return to St. John's to engage in that business.
