—OR—
THE TEMPTATION.

CHAPTER XXVIII.
WHAT BEFELL JIM DOTT.
It required no common firmness to wear an undaunted aspect in view of such an appalling prospect, nevertheless Jim remained outwardly as calm as one of their own proud warriors would have done in the presence of his enemies. But Jim had solemn thoughts just then, indicated by the solemn position in which he stood. The savages by their cruelty were about to send him into the midst of dread, eternal realities far more important than these brief, sharp pangs which should accompany his exit for this mortal life, and these realities were engaging his attention, carrying him so far above the outward scene around. Yet it was with a yearning gaze he turned his wild eyes towards the recess of the forest in vague quest of help and deliverance. There could be no rational expectation of such coming to him; still, in his dire extremity, the act became instinctive, and from point to point his eyes wandered only to realize the more how utterly lonely, desolate, and forsaken he was, for out of the dark old woods came no voice of sympathy, or hand of help. The wide realm of nature was dumb to him in his necessity, while the bright sky seemed to mock him with a peace and beauty which had for him no comfort or aid.

The Indians were now engaged in the leaping and evolutions of one of their wild dances, to the accompaniment of rude, monotonous music. Their motions were slow at first, but gradually these were quickened under a growing excitement which, by degrees, wrought them into a state of frenzy, under the influence of which they leaped and yelled like luatic fiends, and brandished their weapons with threatening gestures towards the victim at the stake.

Jim expected now that at any moment that the first spear-thrust would be made at him, and his eye was feverishly glancing from side to side, watching for this blow, when suddenly the tall form of an Indian, in a magnificent war dress, entered the leaping circle, and approached Jim with majestic strides.

He carried in his right hand a bright bladed tomahawk, whose edge seemed sharpened to excessive keenness, and it was with evident intention of using this that he drew near.

Jim could only gaze at him as he advanced, being powerless to resist or to defend himself, but as he steadily regarded the hideously magnificent savage he recognized him as the Indian whom Steve had named so cleverly under the tree, and who had made his escape in the way formerly described. The gleam of triumph which Jim now detected in his eye revealed that his purpose was to obtain revenge for the indignity to which he had been subjected, and the revenge he contemplated was that most dear to the cruel Indian heart—he meant to scalp Jim and carry the bloody trophy dangling at his belt.

With a fiendish grin, he stood in front of his victim, holding ready the gleaming knife with one hand, while he stretched out the other to grasp the hair. Jim experienced a thrill of horror as the fingers of the savage were passed over his crown, and he felt him trying to get a gripe of his short, stubby hair, which was so different from the long patted lock which all braves wear for the conventional accomplishment of the delicate operation.

For some moments it baffled the warrior to obtain a grasp of sufficient firmness, and a guttural sound expressive of contempt escaped him; but by dint of careful handling he did at length obtain sufficient hold, when immediately the knife which he held in his other hand was elevated and its edge turned against Jim's brow. The later closed his eyes and set his teeth to endure the coming pain, which he expected he would immediately feel.

It is proposed to form a joint stock company in Brantford, to carry on the manufacture of furniture for the wholesale market; capital $50,000.

WALLACETOWN was lately visited by a terrific wind storm. The dwelling house of Neil McArthur, farmer, was struck by lightning and the whole end of the house smashed in. Sad to say, his little son, aged about 7 years, was struck and instantly killed.

BREAKFAST.—EPPE'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which will save us many heavy doctors' bills.—Civil Service Gazette. Made simply with Boiling Water or Milk. Each packet is labelled—"JAMES EPPE & CO., Homoeopathic Chemists, London."

The Venerable Archdeacon Scott, of Dunham, Canada East, says that he suffered from Dyspepsia more than twenty-five years, but that three bottles' use of the Pevrian Syrup (an Iron Tonic) has benefited him so wonderfully that he can hardly persuade himself of the reality and people who know him are astonished at the change.

MANUFACTURE OF COCOA.—We will now give an account of the process adopted by Messrs. James Epps & Co., manufacturers of dietetic articles, at their works in the Euston Road, London.—See article in Cassell's Household Guide. J286mdw

A BOOK FOR EVERY MAN.—The "SCIENCE OF LIFE, OR SELF-PRESERVATION," a Medical Treatise on the Cause and Cure of Exhausted Vitality, Premature Decline in Man, Nervous or "Physical" Debility, Hypochondria, Lethargy, Spermatorrhoea or Seminal Weakness, and all other diseases arising from the errors of youth or the indiscretions or excesses of mature years. This is indeed a book for every man. Thousands have been taught by this work the true way to health and happiness. It is the cheapest and best medical work ever published, and the only one on this class of life worth reading. 1200th edition, revised, much enlarged, illustrated, bound in beautiful French cloth. Price $1. Sent by mail, post-paid, on receipt of price. Address: PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 4, Bulfinch Street, Boston, Mass., or Dr. W. H. PARKER, Assistant Physician, N.B.—The author may be consulted on the above as well as all diseases requiring skill and experience. 39347w

DR. WHEELER'S COMPOUND ELIXIR OF PHOSPHATES AND CALISAYA. Sandy Creek, Aug. 31st, 1872. The Compound Elixir of Phosphates and Calisaya prepared by you I have been for two years using largely in my practice, and I assure you that in my judgment there is no preparation of its kind that can compare with it where it is applicable. With feeble, anemic women, of whom we have so many, and in cases convalescing from prostrating diseases I should hardly know how to get along without it. In Dyspepsia it acts like a charm—in fact in any of the long list of chronic diseases it is THE REMEDY.

I am, yours truly,
J. LYNN BUCKLEY, M.D.

THE Genuine Thing!
10 per cent. off for Cash
As Mr. STEWART is leaving for the British and Continental Markets in July, he has determined to reduce his large stock of Dry Goods and Clothing by $20,000 this month. To effect this he has resolved to allow a discount of 10 per cent. on all purchases of $1 and upwards. So rare a chance of securing cheap goods seldom occurring, the public should avail themselves of making and saving money. Quotations of prices being no real criterion of cheapness, an inspection of goods is solicited.

WILLIAM STEWART.
N.B.—A lot of Dress Goods slightly damaged by water from a leak in the roof will be offered at less than half price.
Cottons will be sold at the Genuine Cost—and are exempted from the 10 per cent. reduction.
