-Yesterday, to the congregations of St. Andrew's Church there were preached two scholarly and impressive sermons by Rev. Prof. Ballantyne, who for some years was pastor of Knox Church here, but who is now of To-ronto. In the morning his sermon was evolved from the words, "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on thee," which are found in Isaiah, xxvi., 3. He spoke of the unrest that is being manifested continu-ally in this world, a material strife of nation against nation, and of individual against individual; and afterwards, in recounting the causes of unrest, he expressed the opinion that the present tendency is for a more universal peace, so that with it there might come a fuller opportunity for the ac-puirement of spiritual peace. Of this latter his sermon contained a completer explanation. McGAFFEY-FORD.

Mr. Lawrence told some harrowing details of the destitution of the famishing, and dwelt strongly upon the good effects which the help now being given must have upon the future acceptance of the Gospel by the natives of India. The speaker quoted a missionary as having written that the assistance rendered in a previous famine had done more to advance the cause of the Christian religion than anything that had before happened. Rev. Mr. Cousins said that thousands of the natives were already Christians, and would naturally expect sympathy and help from the more favored brethren. The mystery of the divine purposes was the next subject brought forward for consideration, and the reverend speaker believed that ultimate great good would come out of the present judgment, by the breaking down of prejudices through the loving efforts of missionaries and Christians. He considered this was a great consequently for

Has been received from the Superintendent, showing result of our witner's work. We have 2241/2 feet of underground work completed, giving us as results, the fact that we have located a well-defined ledge, some 40 feet wide, carrying ore. In our last tunnel we have found shipping ore in bunches. The quartz and formation is improving, and the Superintendent sums up the improvements by saying: "So we should very soon have shipping ore." #### The Beekeepers' Association.

The annual report of the Beekeepers' Association of Ontario for 1899, published by the Provincial department of agriculture has been received. It comprises the papers read and disoussed at the annual meeting, held last December, embracing many questions of interest to beekeepers, and the report of the inspector of apiaries. Among the most important matters considered was the spraying of fruit trees while in bloom, a practice which has proved very destructive to bees. This is contrary to law, but many fruit growers, either ignorant or otherwise, persist in using the spray-pump at this time. The association urged that greater publicity should be given to the enactment forbidding spraying visited 125 bee-yards and found foul broods in 47, and gave a resume of the work done during the last nine years in eradicating this disease, which had been entirely banished from many localities. A good deal of attention was devoted to the marketing of honey. Prof. J. W. Robertson, of the Ottawa Just about 4:30 p.m., the Cornwalls' Prof. J. W. Robertson, of the Ottawa captain ordered a charge. We all fixed bayonets and rose as one man at the sound of his whistle. To sit here paper by H. G. Sibbaid, cooks, and think about it would make a man also comprised some useful suggestions. It was a sight I never will fortions as to the marketing of the crop. Other noteworthy addresses were delivered by D. W. Heise, Bethesda, on "Spring Management in the Apiary," W. Z. Hutchinson, Flint, Michigan, on "Beekeepers' Associations," M. B. Holmes, Athens, on "Management in Extracting Season," and John Newton, Thamesford, on "Production of Comb Honey." It was determined to use every effort to have a creditable pre-sentation of Ontario honey at the Paris Exposition. A report of R. F. Holterman on "Experiments in Wintering Bees Conducted at the Agricultural College," embodied some practical conclusions on this important subject.

FATAL SNAKE BITE.

Greenville, Mich., April 9.—Percy Selous, who was bitten on Thursday by a moccasin snake, died Saturday night. He was a professor of art and languages in the Greenville schools, but had a love for reptiles. He had several boxes of different kinds of venomous snakes, which he kept in his house, and every day let them out in his room and played with them. He handled them, and in cold nights took them to bed with him, and placed them next his body to keep them warm. It was while he was having the moccasin out in the room that he was bitten. He attempted to get him back into the cage and touched the reptile's tail when he sprung and bit him. The doctors worked over him since that time without avail.
