Give the Farmer Facts. The average planter has but little use for finely spun theory, whether it pertains to the relation of his condition to politics or whether it deals with the best ways and means of growing the best crops. What he wants is Facts. No one has realized this more than the great seed firm of D. M. Ferry & Co., Windsor, Ont., who for forty years have been studying the wants and condition of planters, large and small, and as a result have created the largest seed business in the whole world. Without doubt, a strict adherence to the policy of dealing in facts represents the secret of their success. They know their seeds are right before they are sent to the many thousand dealers from whom the planter gets them. The dealer knows this to be a fact requiring no further question, and the planter finds it to be a substantial fact when harvest time comes. Another illustration of the value of this method is found in Ferry's Seed Annual, in which there is nothing but facts. Facts that prove of the greatest value to every planter; facts about how, when and where to plant, that can be had from no other source. There are no worthy facts left out, and no unworthy theories let in. This book is sent free to every one who asks for it. A postal card with your name and address sent the firm will bring it to you. St. John's, Nfld., January 7.—A mob of unemployed men proceeded to-day to the British cruiser Tourmaline, now in port, and a deputation representing them interviewed the warship's captain, demanding bread or work, and asking whether he would prevent their obtaining food by force. The captain promised he would write Governor O'Brien and the other executive authorities about their representations. He advised them to disperse, telling them to return to-morrow, when he would be prepared to give them an answer. The mob thereupon dispersed. If work or food is not forthcoming to-morrow the consequences, it is apprehended, will be serious. The Election.

It is a common opinion that the meaning of all the various rumors that have been heard as to the date of dissolution, and of the silence of the Government on the question, is that the Dominion elections will take place before another session of Parliament is held. It may be taken as settled that this is the present intention of the Government.—Globe.
