

Neil MacLeod

A Tale of Literary Life in London.

By DAVID LYALL, Author of "The Land o' the Leal."

PRICE: Paper, 50 Cents. Cloth, $1.25.

"The phase of literary life which this writer describes is not a common one, but perhaps for that very reason the more interesting. Neil MacLeod is one of those bright exceptions who leap at once into popularity, and are feted and entertained everywhere without the preliminary discipline of disappointment and failure. His head is turned by his success, and only by the influence of the girl who loves him is he at last saved. There are many bright glimpses of literary people and their ways, and much pleasant reading in the book. It is a wholesome and interesting story, and will be enjoyed quite as much by non-literary readers as by those who are personally interested in the mode of life that it describes."—British Weekly.

WINDYHAUGH.

By Graham Travers, Author of "MONA MACLEAN."

PRICE—Paper, 75 Cents. Cloth, $1.25.

The Westminster says:—"The story is full of interest for those who love character studies rather than moving adventures by flood and field, and it deals boldly with many very real questions."

The Canadian Magazine says:—"Windyhaugh," by Graham Travers, is a cleverly written book. The author of 'Mona MacLean, Medical Student,' has a very thorough knowledge of human nature, and exhibits it in a most pleasing and assuring manner in this new novel. . . . The characters are cleverly drawn. Mr. Darsie, the grocer, is very quaint indeed."

DR THERNE.

By H. RIDER HAGGARD.

PRICE—Paper, 75 Cents. Cloth, $1.00.

"In this story Rider Haggard presents a strong plea for compulsory vaccination in the form of a fascinating autobiography of a prominent Anti-Vaccinationist."

LINNET.

A Romance. By GRANT ALLEN.

PRICE—Paper, 75 Cents. Cloth, $1.00.

"His present story was written in the midst of the scenery which it describes, and its local color is in consequence all that can be desired. The scene opens at Zell, in the Zillerthal, which is the centre of all that is most Tyrolean in the Tyrol. . . . The characters are cleverly drawn, the dialogue is 'crisp' and natural, and the story, though an old motif, is extremely attractive."—Montreal Star.

With KITCHENER to KHARTOUM.

By G. W. Stevens

PRICE—Paper, 75 Cents. Cloth, $1.50.

"This book is a masterpiece. He writes an English which is always alive and alert. He fits a vivid experience with a vivid phrase, and his quick talent permits him to realize for his readers the magnificent panorama which fate has driven before his eyes. . . . The description of the battle of Omdurman reaches, we do not hesitate to say, the high water mark of literature."—Spectator.

Fights for the Flag.

By W. H. FITCHETT.

With Portraits and Plans.

PRICE—Paper, 75 Cents. Cloth, $1.00.

"What is the flag of England?"

Winds of the world declare!"—Kipling.

"What examples are to be found in the tales here retold, not merely of heroic daring, but of even finer qualities—of heroic fortitude; of loyalty to duty stronger than the love of life; of the temper which dreads dishonor more than it fears death; of the patriotism which makes love of the Fatherland a passion. These are the elements of robust citizenship. They represent some at least of the qualities by which the Empire, in a sterner time than ours, was won, and by which, even in these ease-loving days, it must be maintained."

Deeds that Won the Empire.

HISTORIC BATTLE SCENES.

The British Empire.

PRICE—Cloth, $1.00.

By Sir Charles Dilke, Bart., M.P.

In this little book, which was originally published in the form of a series of newspaper articles, Sir Charles Dilke has given in a general and thoroughly readable way, a sketch of the positions and relations, military, commercial and political, of the different parts of the Empire with regard to a closer union. His clear grasp of Canadian affairs gives us thorough confidence in his knowledge of more distant parts. The chapter on Imperial Defence is interesting, but moderate, merely urging the necessity of preparation for collective action, while his closing chapter gives some valuable hints on "How to Study the Empire."
