D.L.A. TO TALK COMMISSION

Con Jones and Party Prepared
Way While in Toronto
—His Ideas
About it.

Con. Jones, Lionel York and J. T. Hewitt, all from the coast, stopped off in the Queen City yesterday and separated themselves from several items regarding the lacrosse situation. Con has been and last year he had a most memorable visit. Then he came east with war in his eye and a heavy purse with loose strings, and yesterday he resembled a peace-monger going to The Hague. Instead of a lacrosse war he was looking for a treaty. After renewing acquaintances as a commission, party left for Montreal last night, accompanied by the Toronto delegates to the D.L.A. meeting.

When they arrive in Montreal Jones D.L.A. that will be formed along the following lines: First a body to be formed along the lines of the National Baseball Commission, with each team putting in a list of players (either 15 or 20, preferred), and these players may be sold or released, but will not be allowed to play for other teams until they are given their release.

Second, a uniform set of rules to be adopted and be so constructed that both amateurs and pros. can use them. Third, a salary limit should be arrived at, not necessarily an aggregate of a maximum amount, but a minimum limit, so that no player could get less than a stated amount. The idea is more to get the salary upon a basis that will not protect the league from going bankrupt, but still giving the player a reasonable and proportionate remuneration. Contract jumpers will be considered as outlaws and will not be allowed to play in any of the leagues controlled by the commission.

Mr. Jones summed up the situation as follows: "With 20 players on a reserve list all the good material in sight would be tied up, but if only 15 were held there would be a chance for a weak team to draw on these free agents and so strengthen their team. Whether the N.

L.U. will become members of the commission I do not know until everything is thrashed out at Montreal. At present I am dubious as to whether Victoria will be able to gather together a good team in 1913, but should be able to do so in 1914, with the aid of the commission. In regard to that dispatch from Cornwall it is absolutely untrue. I must look to the amateurs for players and it is up to the founding of public school leagues in the way to get at the difficulty and I am now on my way to see Joe Lally regarding an assignment of sticks that I will distribute to the boys in Vancouver free. Lionel York, the amateur of the Victoria team, was a member of the Toronto team 12 years ago and played point for men signed up, Johnston, a local goal-keeper, Joe Gorman, the brilliant Tecumseh player, and a centre and a home N.L.U. and a few of the Vancouver amateurs he may be able to fix up a team this year.

Grand National Course Too Much for Highbridge

The defeat of Highbridge, the American representative in the Grand National, run at Aintree yesterday, shows that the English critics are good judges of jumpers, once they see them perform, as nearly every one of the four winners of the English sporting papers predicted negotiating the course.

The Grand National course is a very trying one, as the jumps are of the stiffest nature, which is evidenced by the fact that out of twenty-two starters in yesterday's big race, only three went the course, the others coming in grief at different intervals.

Highbridge was probably the best steeplechaser we had on this side last year. So it seems that our best is not good enough to win the field in the more important of cross-country events in England.

LEAFS CANNOT HIT SOUTHPAW

Tim Jordan Again in the Game
—Poor Exhibition by Pitcher
Herbert—Fine Work
by Brant.

ATLANTA, Ga., April 4.—(Can. Press.)—The difference between good and bad pitching was never more strikingly demonstrated than this afternoon, when the Leafs got another beating from Atlanta by 9 to 3. The final game of the series will be played Saturday afternoon, after which the Kelleys will move on to Richmond, Va.

Tim Jordan got into the game, and the champions played their regular lineup, with the exception of Holt, who has a twisted ankle. Isaacs played short and made a good fist of the job. The undoing of the Leafs was another left-hander, Gil Price, who was secured from the Washington Americans.

Four hits represented the Leafs' efforts with the stick. Tomorrow the Kelleys will be called upon to face Buck Weaver, the best twirler on the Atlanta staff. He is also a left-hander. The Crackers have been training here since the first of March, and there is not a pitcher on the local payroll incapable of twirling nine innings.

The one redeeming feature of the game today was the work of Pitcher Brant, whom Kelley got from the Boston Americans. The tall Texas Leaguer, after making a fine showing against the Pittsburg team at Hot Springs, stepped on to the rubber this afternoon and tied the Crackers into knots. He shut them out for five innings and then retired in favor of Herbert, whose work was anything but promising.

Brant struck out four of the Atlanta batsmen in five innings, gave only one base on balls, after having three and nothing on the batter, and was hit for a safe single and a scratchy one. He had the locals ducking from a fast curve ball. Swinging at his fast ones and popping up a tantalizing floater, none of the Crackers got past second while Brant was on the mound.

When Herbert took to the slab, in the fifth inning, he had Trout to catch him instead of Graham, who retired with Brant. With one of the veteran backstops to handle his delivery he might have done better than he did. He used little else than a slow ball, and did not show to good advantage with men on bases, and immediately starting him in the sixth inning he was hit for two costly errors. One of the batsmen behind him and were also guilty of two costly errors. One of the batsmen hit for five hits and six runs during the ninth inning in which he occupied the mound. A double and two singles were exacted off him in the seventh and eighth. Men behind him were unable to place their drives off Price, they hit him hard enough, but not safely. The score:
