2.30 P. M. REVIEW AT MACAULAY'S POINT, BETWEEN HER MAJESTY'S IMPERIAL AND CANADIAN FORCES.

Admiral Stephenson and Staff will be received with a general salute, the brigade afterwards firing a feu de joie which will be punctuated with the roar of seven guns from the Royal Marine Artillery.

The Royal Salute, with three cheers for Her-Majesty, will close the first part of Programme.

Blue Jackets and Canadian Artillery form in quarter column, march past the saluting base, the attacking party leading the march. First the nine-pounders, then the Blue Jackets, then the Marines with defending force, with six 13-pounder field guns in command of Captain Barnes, R.M.A., and last the 5th Regiment, C. A. A line is then formed facing saluting base, Blue Jackets, Marines, and 5th Regiment. An exhibition will then be given by Blue Jackets in physical drill. Then forming fours and marching through battalions to the rear. Marines go through sword bayonet exercise and 5th Regiment review exercise; also detachment from the ship big gun drill, mounting and dismounting the 9-pounders.

SHAM BATTLE

Blue Jackets in three columns form the attacking force under Commander Nicholson, extending along the Sea Roads. A single gun from the invaders, signals the opening attack. Duty of holding forts falls to the R. M. A. and 5th Regiment, C. A., who form outposts along rocks. These finally driven through fort gates, a halt is sounded, when attacking party reach palisades.

The engagement will be interesting in bringing into service the New Forts.

Spectators will be conveyed to within short distance of the Parade Ground, Macaulay Point, by Consolidated Tram Company, or from the various wharves by Ferry Steamers.

Spectators are requested to Keep Off the Parade Ground.
