So, suiting the action to his words, he rapidly scanned thru several pages of the book, running his firefinger up and down the pages of proverbs, stopping suddenly and exclaiming, "There, there it is, just as I told you, and it fits the picture perfectly."

"You see, young man," continued the lidest gentlemen. "you must first get eldest gentleman, "you must first get an idea of what the picture represents, and then search the book carefully for the answer. It's just as simple and easy as it can be."

"But," replied the young man, "what do you make of this picture published in today's Sunday World. I've been studying it a long time and I can't figure out what the idea might even as he readjusted his glasses and studied the picture with a more determin-ed look. "That is not so difficult," and leaning over close to the young man, he whispered something in his ear that made him look more encouraged. "You see," he continued, "there is a correct answer to every picture, but it is necess ary to study the book very carefully to find them."

"I should think," spoke up the second sentleman, "that this contest of The World is a most remarkable feature. I notice so many persons, even many of my friends, who are in the contest, and I understand that The World is going to give an automobile to the one that sends in the nearest correct set of answers."

"Yes, yes," exclaimed the young man. 'Sure, it's an automoile, that's what I'm in it for"—and so the conversation ran. It shows the wide-spread interest The World's popular proverbs have created everywhere. Old and young alike are cudgeling their wits and setting forth their best efforts to solve the pictures correctly. The pictures are fascinating and amusing, and promote much intelligent thought and argument for everyone.

To those who have not yet entered, there is a splendid chance to get started now thru the splendid free coupon offers published again today on page 2. By taking advantage of the special offers one can secure a large number of the proverb pictures and coupons free of charge, and enter the contest upon an equal footing with all earlier

The special offers also provide an excellent opportunity for regular con-testants who desire to secure extra pictures and coupons at a great saving in price. Why not take advantage of these offers now, and get in line for one of the big prizes, aggregating more than $5000 in value?
