

FAMOUS P.P.C.L.I. HONORED IN DEATH

Canon Plumptre Urges Living Veterans to Work Against War.

PROUD OF COLORS

Solemnly and with much sweetness, as the gentle reminiscence, the strains of "Home, Sweet Home," alone broke the silence which accompanied the laying of the colors of the P. P. C. L. I. on the altar at St. James' Cathedral, last night, in memory of the last achievements of this most famous of Canadian regiments. And with equal solemnity the strains of that beautiful hymn, "Abide With Me, Fast Fails the Evening," closed the poem of praise dedicated to this band of Canadian "Contemplatives." It was Major Niven who led the veterans, as custodian of the colors which had been specially brought up from London, in his party led the P. P. C. L. I. veterans in the parade, so did the gallant 48th Highlanders march in the parade, and immediately behind the band came the color party, ten deep, in route of fours, and behind them came the scarred men of many battles, in full, and all resplendent in their badges and colors. They were the veterans of Polygon Wood, of St. Eloi, of Vimy Ridge, of the Somme, of Passchendaele, and of many another lesser, but never to be forgotten engagements of the great war.

The only colors, that your colors were the only colors in the whole British army, which were carried by their regiment right into the firing line," said Rev. Canon Plumptre, "I found are no Canadians of this fact."

Continuing, the rector of St. James' Cathedral dwelt upon the camaraderie and sense of brotherhood which actuated the veterans of this regiment in battle, and hoped that they would so inculcate their children and friends with these humane qualities that the Canada of tomorrow would witness the substitution of the international arbitration board for the field of carnage. What was desired today was peace in the best accepted sense of the word. Peace, a sure thing already was as between nation and nation. Another sort of peace was harmony between classes and class. As there were in the days gone by wars and rumors of wars, so today there were strikes and rumors of strikes, and the industrial struggle now being waged by the industrial classes, those terms, and those who were known as capitalists, with the general public as victims, victims of high prices, and of increasing costs of living. But, said the rector, there were signs of the better era to come. Years ago there was much bitterness against labor unions by most employers, today we are in an era of rapprochement, of co-operation between labor and capital, and a more general sense of harmony was discernible. But appeals to class hatred were still strong, and were being fostered where co-operation should prevail.

Days of Disillusionment. "We live in the days of disillusionment," said the rector. "We have into a new era, a higher ideal. It is the ideal of a better democracy, of a better co-operation with the league of nations as its highest expression. This surely inspires our hearts today. May we not appeal to you men, who know the carnage of war as it really is, may we not appeal to you men of the P. P. C. L. I. and Canada's other famous regiments to exert all your influence toward the ideals of this league of nations, of arbitration as against carnage, and of brotherhood as against battle? Do you men who can make war as impossible as humanity and will make it in the days to come."
