RECENT DEATHS

James Kingston, a former resident of St. Martin, St. John county, died at Mattapan (Mass.), on Sunday, March 22. He leaves two children—a son, James, who resides at the farm in St. Martin, and a daughter, Mrs. Archy Moore, with whom he lived for some years past at Mattapan. He was 86 years of age.

Miss Helen Bustin, aged 17 years, the eldest child of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bustin, Lattimer, Lake, died very suddenly yesterday morning at the home of her parents. She had been into the city the day previous and had taken her music lesson from her instructor, Miss Frankie, Cliff street, returning home in the evening with her father. During the night she became ill and died in a few hours.

The sad news of her death will be heard with sincere regret by the large number of friends of the family within and around the city. She leaves, besides her parents, three brothers—Allan, Francis and Pearson, and one sister, Vera May. The funeral will take place on Friday afternoon.

The many friends of Mrs. Eliza Day, wife of Isaac G. Day, of 89 Adelaide street, this city, will hear with much regret of her death, which occurred yesterday at her late home. The late Mrs. Day, who was 53 years of age, was held in high esteem by many residents of St. John and elsewhere. She leaves to mourn their loss, her husband, one daughter, Miss Jennie M. Day, at home, four sons, Martin W. of Bowmanville (Ont.), Leslie M. of Brandon (Man.), and Walter B. and Herbert M., both residing at home; also four brothers and two sisters.

Mrs. Amelia B. Crawford, aged 87, widow of William K. Crawford, a well-known resident of this city, passed away at her home 77 Sewell street, yesterday after a short illness. Mrs. Crawford was the daughter of the late Henry A. Sewell, of Kingston, Kings county, and was a member of St. John's (Stone) church.

Many friends in the city and particularly in Charlton, have heard with regret of the death of Mrs. A. Blanche, wife of James S. Lemon, well known engineer for the West Side fire department. She passed away last evening at her home, 184 Duke street, after a short illness. Besides her husband, for whom sincere sympathy will be felt, one young daughter survives. Mrs. Lemon had been a regular and active member of St. George's church and was well liked by many friends by whom she will be much missed.

John Wood, formerly a resident of St. John, died in Reno, Nevada, on Tuesday. He went west in the early days of the California gold rush with two companions, S. Z. and W. H. Dickson, and never came back east. Two sisters, Mrs. C. D. Fowler and Miss Agnes Wood survive in Charlton, and a brother, J. A. Wood, in Cambridge, Mass.

John M. Smith, of the firm of Bennett Smith & Son, died yesterday at his home in Windsor, N. S., aged sixty-six years. He was greatly interested in shipping and was one of the business men in the Maritime Province.

TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS

Eat Less Meat if You Feel Back-achy or Have Bladder Trouble

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp twinges in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The uric is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush of the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salt is made from a combination of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys; it stops bladder irritability. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.

USED A MEGAPHONE

J. Fred Belyea, Assisted by Musical Artist, Announced His Platform From King Square Bandstand

The unpleasant weather did not deter J. Fred Belyea, candidate for commissioner, and his musical announcer and megaphone artist from appearing in King Square last evening to discuss civic issues, and at times there were several hundred people gathered about the square. W. G. Birmingham, the megaphone man, proved to have a powerful and rather pleasing voice, and his solos were greatly enjoyed.

There was no regular set speech, but Mr. Belyea's platform was put forward, a plank at a time, by the musical announcer. He advocated, among other things, a change in the law to give all police court fines and liquor licenses to the city instead of making a division with the provincial government. He also contended that time had been wasted in holding the fisheries sale by the mayor and commissioners. His stand on the encouragement of sport was put forward at some length, and this part especially appeared to be received with favor by the younger portion of the occasional audience.

Mr. Belyea made the somewhat startling statement that it was better for the city to allow him to discuss the civic issues on the public streets than to allow the sale of literature which tended to degrade the young people. He thought some of the literature which could be purchased by young women was of a dangerous character.

MAN DEAD FROM GAS

Wife and Niece Near Death When Neighbor Breaks In

Boston, April 9.—Giuseppe L'Eana, aged forty-five, is dead, and his wife, Vincenza, aged forty, and a niece, Miss Josephine C. Alagio, aged nineteen, are in the City Hospital as a result of gas poisoning at their home in Roxbury, a basement tenement in the three-story house.

James Scigliano, who is acquainted with the family, had occasion to visit the tenement about 10.30 a. m. and when he rapped on the door and got no response he became alarmed. There was an odor of gas about, so Scigliano went to a rear window and broke it. He crawled through and found the tenement filled with gas. He began to open doors and windows and called to neighbors to send for a doctor. In the rear rooms were Mr. and Mrs. L'Eana, while the niece was in the front room. Between these two rooms is a kitchen. Attached to a fixture from the center of the ceiling is a gas tube connected to a stove. The tubing had become detached during the night. But the gas had been turned off at the stove, instead of at the fixture, so this allowed the gas to escape into the rooms.

Doctor Hall was called, and he pronounced the man dead. A call was sent for an ambulance, and the two unconscious women were sent to the City Hospital. While waiting for the ambulance members of Ladder 13, nearby, worked over the women, applying first-aid treatment.

RECENT DEATHS

James Kingston, a former resident of St. Martin, St. John county, died at Mattapan (Mass.), on Sunday, March 22. He leaves two children—a son, James, who resides at the farm in St. Martin, and a daughter, Mrs. Archy Moore, with whom he lived for some years past at Mattapan. He was 86 years of age.

Miss Helen Bustin, aged 17 years, the eldest child of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bustin, Lattimer, Lake, died very suddenly yesterday morning at the home of her parents. She had been into the city the day previous and had taken her music lesson from her instructor, Miss Frankie, Cliff street, returning home in the evening with her father. During the night she became ill and died in a few hours.

The sad news of her death will be heard with sincere regret by the large number of friends of the family within and around the city. She leaves, besides her parents, three brothers—Allan, Francis and Pearson, and one sister, Vera May. The funeral will take place on Friday afternoon.

The many friends of Mrs. Eliza Day, wife of Isaac G. Day, of 89 Adelaide street, this city, will hear with much regret of her death, which occurred yesterday at her late home. The late Mrs. Day, who was 53 years of age, was held in high esteem by many residents of St. John and elsewhere. She leaves to mourn their loss, her husband, one daughter, Miss Jennie M. Day, at home, four sons, Martin W. of Bowmanville (Ont.), Leslie M. of Brandon (Man.), and Walter B. and Herbert M., both residing at home; also four brothers and two sisters.

Mrs. Amelia B. Crawford, aged 87, widow of William K. Crawford, a well-known resident of this city, passed away at her home 77 Sewell street, yesterday after a short illness. Mrs. Crawford was the daughter of the late Henry A. Sewell, of Kingston, Kings county, and was a member of St. John's (Stone) church.

Many friends in the city and particularly in Charlton, have heard with regret of the death of Mrs. A. Blanche, wife of James S. Lemon, well known engineer for the West Side fire department. She passed away last evening at her home, 184 Duke street, after a short illness. Besides her husband, for whom sincere sympathy will be felt, one young daughter survives. Mrs. Lemon had been a regular and active member of St. George's church and was well liked by many friends by whom she will be much missed.

John Wood, formerly a resident of St. John, died in Reno, Nevada, on Tuesday. He went west in the early days of the California gold rush with two companions, S. Z. and W. H. Dickson, and never came back east. Two sisters, Mrs. C. D. Fowler and Miss Agnes Wood survive in Charlton, and a brother, J. A. Wood, in Cambridge, Mass.

John M. Smith, of the firm of Bennett Smith & Son, died yesterday at his home in Windsor, N. S., aged sixty-six years. He was greatly interested in shipping and was one of the business men in the Maritime Province.

READY TO FIGHT FOR THE HOME RULE CAUSE

Boston Lads and Wooden Guns Haled Before the "General"

(Boston Globe)

Daniel O'Connell and his brother Maurice O'Connell, both of whom reside with their parents at 9 Putnam street, within the shadow of Bunker Hill Monument in Charlestown, were picked up today by Patrolman Peeney of Station 3.

Both were armed with guns made of wood. The two lads demonstrated to the satisfaction of the policeman that they could wield a cudgel with telling effect.

He found them trudging in single file over the trail by the Court House leading to the parade ground on the Boston common where they had planned to rendezvous. Because they had such a grim look of determination upon their faces, carried "arms" and appeared to be equipped for a long "stay-out-at-night" campaign, the policeman commanded them to "halt."

They halted, came to attention and presented arms, for they already had begun to recognize the authority of the uniform of their superior.

With some stern questioning the policeman drew from them the story of their plan to drill their regiment on the Common and then sail for Ireland and offer their services for the cause of home rule.

"We will have to go and see the general first," said Patrolman Peeney.

"Yes, sir," replied the lads.

"About face, march," shouted the policeman in severe tones, and then the "Soldiers Three" began swinging with military step down to Station 2.

A throng of persons watched the lads on the way and when they were lined up at the desk in Station 2, they came to "present arms" and saluted the "general" at the desk.

After their story was told the parents of the lads were sent for and they were taken back to Charlestown and Bunker Hill to think it over, and wait until they are called upon for service in Ireland.
