YOUNG GRIFFO TALKS OF OLD LIGHTWEIGHT STARS

A gray-haired, sturdy-looking fellow was introduced to the crowd at a New York boxing club the other night as "the greatest lightweight boxer ever known." Before his name was announced veteran ring followers recognized Albert Griffiths, better known as Young Griffo of Australia, who has travelled a rocky road since his retirement from the ring a dozen years ago. Griffo is taking some care of his health nowadays and hasn't tasted intoxicants for more than a year. Though confined on several occasions to asylums, he is in full possession of his faculties. The Australian has run through a fortune and is practically without funds but in view of his good resolutions friends have taken him in hand and are to find employment for him in short exhibitions with the gloves. Griffo saw Packy McFarland defeat Owen Moran and was enthusiastic over the wonderful little Chicago fighter.

"McFarland is about the fastest man I have ever seen." exclaimed the Australian after the bout. "He's got a great head and knows more about real boxing than any of the lightweights of the present day. The strongest point I noticed was his speedy footwork. He was all over the ring, in and out, and he would have puzzled any man. I am sure that Packy would have held his own with the lightweights I used to box. That is to say he would have outpointed a lot of them and would have stalled off the others.

"I remember Kid Lavigne when he was champion. I boxed a 25-round draw with him once and had no trouble in blocking his attack. But Lavigne wasn't as fast as McFarland in getting around the ring. He rushed all the time and tried to land a knockout blow, paying very little attention to the defensive part of the game. He never could be called a boxer, and in the case of Frank Erne, who won the title from him, I believe Lavigne's defeat was due to this reason. Erne was a first class boxer, but he wasn't a hard hitter, not so hard as McFarland, and Packy cannot be called a slugger. Gans was about the cleverest of the lightweights and a great fighter too. I remember Spike Sullivan, Kid McPartland, Jack Everhardt, Horace Leeds, Charlie McKeever, Dal Hawkins, George McFadden and other first class lightweights and I can say that all of them were better men than the ones now before the public, barring McFarland, of course.

"I shall never forget the bout I had with Jack McAuliffe at Coney Island. He was the lightweight champion then and regarded me as an easy mark. But I outpointed him squarely and should have received the referee's decision by right. The referee, however, tried to keep track of the blows landed and they say he got mixed. At any rate he decided in favor of McAuliffe and there was a big howl. If I had been named the winner of that affair I'd have been the champion and it might have changed my whole life. It was a hard blow for me and I soon lost heart. That was the beginning of the end. I've been through a lot since then, but the training I did when a young fellow probably kept me from dying. At any rate I am trying to begin all over again and I hope I can still make a livelihood out of the boxing game.

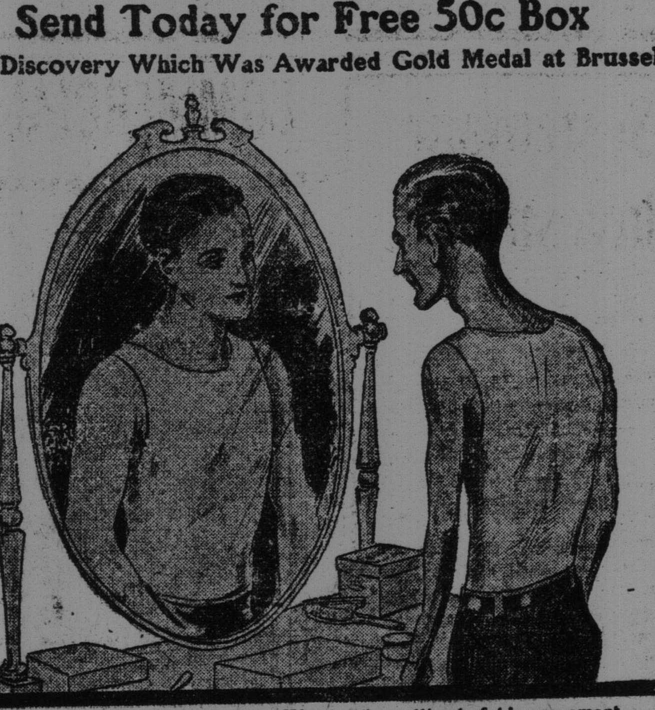
New Discovery Which Was Awarded Gold Medal at Brussels



The Mirror Shows Plainer Than Words What a Wonderful Improvement May Be Realized by a Gain of Even 10 or 12 Pounds.

Lean, lank, skinny, scrawny men and women should take advantage of this ten-day Free offer before it expires.

Nothing is more embarrassing than extreme thinness.

It is the plump well-developed man who "cuts the melons" and has the fun socially.

Scrawny, skinny women are seldom popular. We all admire fine figures. No dressmaker can hide a bony, skinny form.

Here is a chance to test free the one guaranteed reliable treatment which has "made good" for years in this country, which has taken England by storm and which has just been awarded a gold medal and diploma of honor at Brussels, Belgium.

Nothing in history has ever approached the marvelous success of this treatment, which has made more thin folks plump than all the "tonics" and ineffective medicines for fifty years.

There is a reason. Plump, well-formed men and women assimilate what they eat. Thin, scrawny ones do not.

This new discovery supplies the one thing which thin folks lack; that is the power to assimilate food.

It renews the vigor, re-establishes the normal, all in nature's own way.

It is not a lash to jadded nerves, but a generous upbuilder.

This new discovery puts on firm, solid flesh at the rate of ten to thirty pounds a month in many cases.

Best of all—the flesh "stays put."

The treatment is furnished in concentrated tablet form. A week's supply can be carried in the vest pocket.

No one need know what you are doing until your gain in weight causes complimentary comment.

Here is the special offer for the purpose of convincing thin people in this community that these tablets will do just exactly what is claimed for them. It has been arranged to distribute for the next ten days for the coupon below, a free 50 cent package of Sargol.

This large 50-cent free package will be sent you in a private and perfectly plain wrapper so that no one but yourself will know the contents. Accompanying this package will be full and complete data and directions, letters of testimony and a special letter of expert advice that in itself is well worth your time reading.

If you want to add ten, twenty, or even thirty pounds of good, solid flesh to you bones, do not delay, send at once for a free 50c. package of Sargol.

All that you have to do is to cut the coupon below and send it with your name, address and ten cents to pay for distribution expenses to the Sargol Co., 245-D Herald Bldg., Binghamton, N. Y.

FAMOUS GEMS OF PROSE

ADDISON

By Thomas B. Macaulay

(From Edinburgh Review, essay on "Life and Writings of Addison," July, 1843.)

BUT that which chiefly distinguishes Addison from Swift, from Voltaire, from almost all the other great masters of ridicule, is the grace, the nobleness, the moral purity, which we find even in his merriment. Severity, gradually hardening and darkening into misanthropy, characterizes the works of Swift. The nature of Voltaire was, indeed, not inhuman; but he venerated nothing. Neither in the masterpieces of art nor in the purest examples of virtue, neither in the Great First Cause nor in the awful enigma of the grave, could he see anything but subjects for drollery, The more solemn and august the theme, the more monkeylike was his grimacing and chattering. The mirth of Swift is the mirth of Mephistophiles; the mirth of Voltaire is the mirth of Puck.

If, as Soame Jenyns oddly imagined, a portion of the happiness of Seraphim and just men made perfect, be derived from an exquisite perception of the ludicrous, their mirth must surely be none other than the mirth of Addison; a mirth consistent with tender compassion for all that is frail, and with profound reverence for all that is sublime. Nothing great, nothing amiable, no moral duty, no doctrine of natural or revealed religion, has ever been associated by Addison with any degrading idea. His humanity is without a parallel in literary history. The highest proof of virtue is to possess boundless power without abusing it. No kind of power is more formidable than the power of making men ridiculous; and that power Addison possessed in boundless measure. How grossly that power was abused by Swift and by Voltaire is well known.

But of Addison it may be confidently affirmed that he has blackened no man's character, nay, that it would be difficult, if not impossible, to find in all the volumes which he has left us a single taunt which can be called ungenerous or unkind. Yet he had detractors, whose malignity might have seemed to justify as terrible a revenge as that which men, not superior to him in genius, wreaked on Bettesworth and on Franc de Pompignan. He was a politician; he was the best writer of his party; he lived in times of fierce excitement, in times when persons of high character and station stooped to scurrility such as is now practised only by the basest of mankind. Yet no provocation and no example could induce him to return railing for railing.

BETTER HOMES FOR THE WORKERS

(Ottawa Citizen.)

The first step was made yesterday afternoon towards providing the people of this city and surroundings with plans of houses for the working classes which would be more suitable to their needs and withal more beautiful and not more expensive. A subcommittee of the factory sites committee met in C. P. Meredith's office and took up the matter fully. The plan is to hold a general competition in which all the architects and draughtsmen in Canada will be asked to compete. It will be for plans of residences that will cost between $1,000 and $2,500. Efforts will be made to get the assistance of as many architects as possible so that there will be a big number of plans to select from. At the discussion yesterday it was the feeling that a much better house could be planned for the workingmen than the present style (almost identical all over the city) of a parlor, dining room and kitchen.

It was argued that the parlor in the front of the house was very little used, and that if the working classes were once accustomed to the living room instead, they would soon come to appreciate the great advantage of this over the other variety. Two weeks ago The Citizen's real estate column emphasised the present unsatisfactory condition of houses in that they were laid out down stairs in almost exactly the same way all over the city, namely the parlor, dining room and kitchen, one behind the other. The discussion bore out this contention and emphasised that the living room should be substituted.

When these plans have been all received, a committee will judge them and the best will be selected. Sets of plans, copies of the better ones submitted, will be printed and given to the public at a nominal charge. It is believed that in this way not only will there be an excellent set of houses designed but it will also create a residence that will be essentially Canadian, having regard to the weather conditions here, etc. Prizes will be offered for the best plans.

These sets of plans will show the building as it is when completed and construction plans which will be easy to follow by laymen in the building business. There will also be a set of specifications and lists of the materials required. Some were suggesting that these sets of plans should be given away but others urged that it would be better to charge for them because people regard as of very little use anything that they get for nothing, when in fact these plans will be the best that can be obtained for this country at low prices. It is not proposed to confine their use to Ottawa alone but any person anywhere who wishes a copy can secure it by applying at the city hall.

At a meeting yesterday C. P. Meredith was selected as chairman. A. J. Hazelgrove was appointed secretary, and J. E. Macpherson, treasurer. A committee composed of C. P. Meredith, P. M. Draper, Lawrence Taylor and N. Cauchon was appointed to draft the conditions of the competition, to be submitted to a general meeting at an early date.

It is hoped that when the plans have been provided large labor employers will co-operate in helping the workingmen to build such homes. Besides those named above there were present Dr. H. P. Bryce, T. St. Germain, Gerald Brown, T. D. McFarlane, Morley Donaldson, and D. L. Haycock.

FATHER MORRISCY'S WAY

Of Curing Catarrh is Simple and Effective.

In treating catarrh, some doctors recommend internal remedies, while others pin their faith to external applications. Internal medicines do not produce immediate relief, while external ones do not reach the seat of the trouble.

Father Morriscy's method was to supplement one treatment with the other. His famous prescription, "No. 26", consists of tablets and salve, each skilfully compounded of Nature's own remedial agents. The learned priest did not believe in using dangerous and powerful drugs, when simpler and better remedies were available.

The tablets, to be taken three times a day, invigorate the system, purify the blood, and restore to health and vitality. The antiseptic salve, applied inside the nostrils, soothes and heals the passages and destroys the germs therein.

Attacking the disease from within and without, and working together, the two treatments known as No. 26 quickly cure catarrh and prevent future trouble.

For this tried and true combined remedy, 50c. at your dealer's or from Father Morriscy Medicine Co., Ltd., Montreal, Que. 88

DIED BY ORDER.

After the Battle of Custozza a soldier supposed to have been killed was entered on the books of his company:

"Died on the 24th June, 1866."

A few days afterward it turned out that he was still alive, and the honest sergeant made the following entry:

"Died by mistake."

At length there came a letter from the Ministry of War announcing the death of the man at the hospital, when our sergeant recorded the fact as follows:

"Re-died by order of the ministry."

The door of adversity is never locked.
