To Make Farming Profitable.

Every beginner in farming should be careful to observe the following essentials, which will insure success, and prevent the loss of time and money.

1. Buy no more land than you can manage to cultivate.

2. Lay out the fields in a regular and systematic manner, so that you can get the most out of every acre.

3. Provide good fences, and valuable time in driving out intruding animals by their depredations.

4. Furnish good farm buildings, and keep them in good repair.

5. Select the best animals, and keep them in good condition.

6. Bring the soil into good condition, and manure it well.

7. Effect a clear system of all the work, so that you can keep your books.

8. Employ diligence and careful management.

Working and Tending.

It is no less a fatal error when regulated by intelligence, and there is no days trying to separate this from the other, and the other from the working man ought to be the thinker often, and both should be the best sense. As any ungovernable, the one envying the other, the one thinking that labor can be done for less than the other, and the other for more.

Dissolving the Union.

The Knickerbocker Mowing, which is not bad or a speech. During the exciting union speech at Quincy, after he was through, crowd had dispersed, and he was lifted upon the pedestal that he could not stoop to something. "Gentlemen and ladies, that's that are flag a wa the Star Spangled Banner, give the stars to the No to the South. No sir-re-ud. (Cheers). "And thar's the good hand's a playin' out to Doudie! how are ye ch? Are ye agoin' to the North and the South boldly the thing can't be man? "And thar's the sterner 'down thar, called t'ers' how are ye goin' Dixie's line? I say thing wal you can't."
