about it? The former was always very ready to take any steps, toldo anything to As is well known, it was the Liberal party in Britain which, during the past As is well known, it was the hotset past party in Britain which, during the past century, has been most largely instrumental in extending the Empire, while practically all the territorial losses occurred either while the Tories were in office, or the sauses which led to such disasters were Tory in origin. It was also by the granting of Colonial Home Rule that the Liberals preserved that Empire to the flag. Mr. Herbert Samuel, the brilliant Postface and the content of Mr. Herbert Samuel, the brilliant Post-master General of England, very recently delivered an address in London on Liberalism and Imperial policy, in the course of which he said many fine things. In reply to the question, "what policy is to be adopted by men holding Liberal opinions adopted by men holding Liberal opinions is moulding the development of the Empire I'he sald in part:

He did not hesitate to express the view that as matters now stood the best service which the Mother Country could render to the Dominions was to manage the foreign relations of the Empire soberly and successfully, to maintain peace, to abstain from aggressive tendencies in foreign relations, to keep armaments at a point at which they were adequate without being exaggreated; and, further, to see that our own civilization here, at the heart of the Empire, was maintained at the highest level. The social policy of Liberalism was a real Imperial service.

This last is often forgotten, for the soundness of the Imperial heart is of nee by far to the stability the British Isles during the first half of of Empire than the worry over Colonial loyalty or the inauguration of schemes

Mr. Samuel observed keenly and drev Mr. Samuel observed keenly and drew accurate conclusions when in Canada: During his visit to Canada he found the people wholly uninterested in the policy of Tariff Reform as it affected themselves. The picture that had been drawn of millions of Canadians eagerly watching to see whether they were to preceive as more for their corn in competition with foreign producers, and ominously threatening to withdraw from the Empire unless this concession was made to them, was wholly devoid of reality. He was convinced that there was not a Canadian who would not regard it as an insult if it was suggested to him that his loyalty to the Empire, depended on whether or not he received 2s. more for his corn, Mansfield, Conn., Dec. 11.—Miss Annie Coant, of this town, yesterday celebrated the Boards of Trade to the matter of the notorious underpayment of the army of railway porters, checkers and clerks, whose duties are so ardious and important, and upon whose activity, intelligence and efficiency so much depends in regard to our national transportation system. Fifty dollars per month as a maximum wage, and sixty cente pir dosen as the maximum price for eggs, certainly constitute a startling contrast. The much vexed question of the relation between Union and non-Union labor is trasted at some length by Mr. D. D. Lum, but the treatment is more forceful than convincing, the passion more prominent than the logic, although many of All, both men and women, have been as a different same age.

New York, Des. 10.—After an unbroken record of forty years as a dividend payer, the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company has finally been forced to the accessing of suspending further disbursements on its $157,000,000 of stock. It is estimated faar, mot less than forty millions of New Haven stock and bonds, as well as securities of affiliated companies, are held by saving banks and other financial institutions as well as in estates.

It is very difficult to sell property and securities at this time, and the directors believe it is unwise to attempt to do so until general conditions are better.

The arbitration of wage disputes in the last eighteen months has resulted in increases in pay that, will increase expenses for the present fiscal year between $800,000 and $1,000,000 for the same number of employees.
