

FELLOWS' DYSPEPSIA BITTERS

A Sure Cure for that Distressed Feeling After Eating.

PRICE 25 CENTS.
For Sale by all Druggists.

BACON!

The best in the City.
TRY IT.

F. E. WILLIAMS
80 CHARLOTTE STREET.

Jewelry.

You are looking for the very articles we have in our show cases. We never had a finer stock. That's saying a good deal, but it's true. Come and see.

FERGUSON & PAGE,
41 KING STREET.

PHOTOS! ETCHINGS! ENGRAVINGS!

To beautify your rooms at small cost. Also Fancy Goods, Silverware and Stationery. Souvenir Post Cards and Views of St. John to send to friends.

A. E. CLARKE,
57 KING STREET. - - - St. John, N. B.

INTERNATIONAL S. S. CO'Y.

One Trip a Week for Boston.
$3.50-Winter Rate-$3.50.

COMMENCING Jan. 2nd the Steamer St. Croix will leave St. John for Boston, Portland, and New York, every Thursday morning at 7.30 a.m. Returning leaves Boston every Monday morning at 8.15 a.m. Freight received daily up to 5 p.m. WILLIAM G. LANE, Agent, St. John, N. B.

CANSO, SHELBOURNE AND GRAND MANAN HERRING.

JAMES PATTERSON,
19 and 20 South Market Wharf.

Why Not Have The Best?

If you send your Shirts, Collars and Cuffs to the Globe Laundry

you will get work that is sure to suit.

Telephone 523. 115 & 117 Waterloo Street.

VAIL BROS.

NEW EVENING PAPER
ST. JOHN STAR
PRICE ONE CENT
$3.00 PER ANNUM
SUBSCRIBE NOW

These rooms are so small! said the house hunter, looking around disapprovingly. "You couldn't sling a cat in any of them." "No, madam," majestically replied the janitor. "And you couldn't speak a baby in any of them. We don't allow either cats or babies in the building, madam."—Chicago Tribune.

TO ADVERTISERS!

Advertisers in the STAR are requested to send in copy not later than TEN O'CLOCK IN THE FORENOON, in order that the matter may be set up in time for that day's issue.

THE ST. JOHN STAR is published by THE SUN PRINTING COMPANY (Ltd.), at St. John, New Brunswick, every afternoon (except Sunday), at $2 a year.

ST. JOHN STAR.

ST. JOHN, N. B., FEBRUARY 8, 1901.

THE "BILLY" TELEGRAPH.

The Telegraph professes to have discovered persons who are pleased to know that the winter port trade of St. John is much less this winter than it was last season. Those persons are of course, liberal-conservatives, and they show a "ghoulish lack of civic patriotism." Our contemporary devotes nearly a column to a discussion of the question of export trade, but is not able to show that there has not been a great loss of business. It assures its readers, however, that there will be no uncertainty next year, such as existed last fall. On what evidence this statement is made the Star does not know. Possibly Mr. Blair has assured his organ that he will make a satisfactory arrangement with the C. P. R. covering a term of years, so that there will be no more disputes between the two railways. This is greatly to be desired, but it takes two to make a bargain, and, as yet, there has been no authoritative statement that the agreement has been reached. The Telegraph is forced to admit that Mr. Blair's railway has furnished very little export trade this year. We all remember that a few months ago the liberal newspapers entertained us with glowing pictures of long trains coming over Mr. Blair's railway from the west, laden with grain and other produce. Everybody will be glad if during the balance of the season a much larger amount of freight comes over the government line than has thus far arrived at this port. No one in St. John is pleased to know that there has been a falling off in export business; and everybody will be glad if arrangements between railways and steamship lines can be made at an early period during the present year, so that there will be no delays or misunderstandings when the time comes for next winter's business to begin. It is neither ingenious nor clever on the part of the Telegraph to represent any citizen as rejoicing over what cannot be regarded as other than a blow at the best interests of St. John.

TOURIST HOTELS.

The success of the great tourist hotels in Florida, on which, together with the railway serving them, Mr. Flagler has spent millions of dollars and finds it a profitable investment, is well known, and was particularly referred to at the recent meeting of the tourist association in this city. In connection with that money making enterprise the following despatch from a Mexican city is of special interest:—

Gen. H. M. Flagler of New York and the Mexican Central Railway company have entered into an arrangement for the construction and operation of a number of large tourist hotels in Mexico. These hotels will be located along the line of the Mexican Central railroad at Chihuahua, Zacatecas, Aguascalientes, Guadalajara, San Luis Potosi, and the City of Mexico.

The late Gov. Russell of Massachusetts predicted that the day would come when the shores of the St. John river would be dotted with lovely villas. Why not some great tourist hotels? If it pays in the south in winter it should pay in the north in summer.

A correspondent of the New York Mail and Express reminds Mayor Van Wyck that there was a precedent for the action of President McKinley in causing the White House flag to be half-masted when Queen Victoria died. In 1881, when the news of the assassination of President Garfield was flashed over the cable, the queen ordered the English court in mourning for a week, and the London Times printed many columns, telling how the mayors of all the large cities in England and Scotland ordered flags at half-mast in memory of the American president.

The announcement that the war office will reinforce Kitchener with 20,000 mounted men besides those already landed in Cape Colony is welcome news. The first contingent will leave England tomorrow, and others will be recruited and sent forward as rapidly as possible. The implacable Dewet will presently find that his holiday is drawing to a close. The news that more troops are on the way will have a deterrent effect on any Dutch settlers in Cape Colony who might be tempted to unite their fortunes with those of the Boer general.

The speech from the throne at the opening of parliament yesterday referred to the Queen's death; the return of the soldiers from South Africa, the Austrian federation, the coming visit of the Duke of Cornwall and York to Canada; the progress being made with the Pacific cable scheme; the governor-general's western tour; the Canadian display at the Paris exposition; the improvements on the St. Lawrence route and the continued large volume of trade. The only reference to prospective legislation was the statement that measures would be submitted for the better supervision of the export trade in food products and also in connection with the post office, the Pacific cable and various other subjects.

The total value of iron and steel products exported from the United States last year was $129,633,480, compared with $27,000,000 ten years before, and $62,737,860 three years before. A New York paper says of this trade that there was a substantial increase last year over 1899 in steel rails and builders' hardware, and still more emphatically in such products of ingenuity and skill as sewing machines, typewriters, electrical machinery and scientific instruments. These American products, it adds, are sent all over the world, but the notable thing is the extent to which they penetrate the very strongholds of European manufacture in the same line.

The Telegraph this morning devotes half a column to a letter which evidently emanated from the Telegraph office, defending the present passenger arrangements on the I. C. R. R. As might be expected, Tory newspapers come in for unfriendly criticism. The Star would suggest that the Telegraph publish a list of the names of liberal patrons of the I. C. R. R. who have been satisfied with the train service for the last three months. The manager of the Telegraph is himself a suburbanite, and must be in a position to know all those persons.

The people of Prince Edward Island are enjoying the pleasure of their customary winter mail service. When a Charlottetown man gets his mail now he is said to require a warehouse. But it does not happen very often.

Mosquito bites that disseminate yellow fever may be of interest down in Havana just now, but we are thinking more about chills and frost bites in this latitude.

The aldermen repel with indignation the suggestion that they went a-courting when they decided to purchase the block at Indian town.

HOPE FOR ST. JOHN.

Mr. Tarte, it is said, wants Improved Dredges.

The 'Patrie' publishes a special letter from New York sent during Mr. Tarte's recent visit to the American metropolis, by Mr. Goblet, to examine the suction dredges now in use in the United States. The letter says that the minister of public works and his deputy inspected at Newport one of these dredges, having a capacity of 2,000 cubic yards per hour, and it points out what valuable services such a powerful machine could render for the deepening of Lake St. Peter. The writer then adds, "I would be astonished if the minister of public works, who is not in the habit of lagging behind, does not immediately set to work to procure dredges of this nature. They are of a character to create a revolution in the cost of dredging, and the time required is well." Another part of the letter says: "There is not a minute to lose for Canadians if we do not wish to see the work of the dredges go to waste. The old methods are insufficient if we are to keep up with the times. The means at the disposal of the department of public works have been much improved during the past three or four years, but we must move still faster."

JOHN MORRISON'S TEMPTATION.

(Bangor Commercial.)
John Morrison of St. John was one of nine men who were arraigned before Judge Bailey in the police court on Wednesday morning. Morrison begged hard for his liberty, saying that he had not been in court before for three years, and that if he were allowed to go he would at once leave the city. Upon this promise the case against him was continued for sentence.

Wednesday evening he was arrested by Police Constable Pichay in Pichay square, gloriously full. Thursday morning he appeared in the prisoners' dock for the second time within 48 hours. "What have you to say for yourself?" asked the court. "Nothin'," mumbled Morrison. He was given 30 days in jail and the continued sentence was held over him.

NO METHODIST JUDGE.

The Christian Guardian, in an article on the vacant judgeship this week, compliments the government upon the appointment of William Lount as judge, but criticizes the efforts that are being put forth to have a Roman Catholic appointed to the other vacancy, not on account of his qualifications, but his religion. The Guardian mentions the names of several Methodist lawyers, amongst them B. M. Britton, K. C. M. P., Kingston; S. F. Lasier, K. C., Hamilton; J. J. McLaren, K. C., Toronto; J. L. Whiting, K. C., Kingston; H. H. Dewar, K. C., Alex. Mills, E. B. Ryckman and Frank Denton, K. C., who are as much entitled to the position as any of the Roman Catholics mentioned. The Methodist organ concludes by saying: "There is now no Methodist on the bench. We are not lawyers for office. Let the government pick a man of eminent qualification and put its heel on the clannishness."

There can be no objection to family broils so long as they are confined to the kitchen.

PARLIAMENT.

OTTAWA, Feb. 7.—Parliament met formally this afternoon and transacted its first business. The attendance of spectators was very large and the galleries were crowded. The ladies taking a particular interest in the proceedings. Nearly all the fair sex were attired in black, and the few bright colors which appeared were objects of comment.

The appearance of R. L. Borden, the new conservative leader, was the signal for a great outburst of applause from the opposition benches, in which those occupying government seats joined heartily. "Good again for Nova Scotia," was heard from several quarters, and amid flattering demonstrations Mr. Borden took his seat.

The formal communication from Secretary Harris Graham, announcing that his excellency Lord Minto desired to convey to them the speech from the throne, was followed by the appearance of the gentleman usher of the black rod, who requested the presence of the members in the senate. After the return to the commons Premier Laurier announced that the debate on the speech would be taken up on Monday.

The bill to name the regular standing committees passed as usual. Tomorrow an address to the King will be considered. Premier Laurier took advantage in making the last announcement to congratulate Mr. Borden on assuming the leadership of the opposition. He said he would offer his own congratulations to the new leader of the house to his honorable friend, Mr. Borden, on the elevation to the high office of leader of His Majesty's loyal opposition. It would not be fitting for him to offer any suggestion, however, and observations as to what should be the internal policy of the conservative party. But, speaking personally as leader of the house, he (Laurier) felt much pleasure to think in advance that relations between Mr. Borden and himself (Laurier) would always be pleasant and cordial. Amid great laughter Laurier expressed the hope that Mr. Borden might continue to exercise for a long time the functions of leader of the opposition.

Mr. Borden, replying, thanked the premier for the kindness and courtesy so well expressed. He (Borden) wished to say in passing that if he should remain leader of the opposition for as long a period as Laurier's joke was old, it would be wholly beyond his own expectations and beyond the expectations of the members of the opposition. (Great laughter.) Mr. Borden expressed himself as living in expectation of opposing on some occasions the right honorable leader and those who support him, but support was promised for all measures in the best interests of the country, and any differences would be adjusted, in so far as they might be, in a kindly and courteous manner. In saying that, the speaker felt he voiced the sentiments of the opposition. He had accepted the leadership with diffidence and hesitation, but as the result of any fear of loyalty or fidelity of the opposition, but rather on account of his own comparative inexperience in public life, and by the fact that he doubted his own capacity to follow in the footsteps of those great men who in times past had filled the position of leader, on one side or the other of the house, of the party which he now had the honor to lead.

In closing, he felt quite sure that the opposition would accord most cordial support to an address to the King.

SENATE.

In the senate the galleries were crowded, and the same sombre appearance was to be seen as in the commons. On the floor were seated Lady Minto, Lady Artrim, and members of the families of cabinet ministers.

After the usual formalities, Sir Mackenzie Bowden brought up the report of the senate the grave charges and affidavits made by H. H. Cook, and said that on Thursday next he would move for the appointment of the following committee to investigate the allegations: Senators Beaudry, Ferguson, Pelletier, Ellis, Landry, Cox, Kirkcaldy, Young, King, Loughheed, Wood and Bowell. Sir Mackenzie dwelt on the serious nature of the charges, which he thought should be carefully probed.

NOTES.

Mr. Hall, M. P., and Senator Ellis arrived today, after being snow-bound for hours.

It was announced today that the government contemplates a substantial grant to assist the movement for a Canadian Lloyd. During the past few weeks the position of Canadian shipping, owing to the action of the British Lloyds, has been brought forcibly to the notice of the government. F. P. Clergue, whose interests in Canadian shipping are heavy, is the leading agitator. With the government backing it, the movement promises to be crowned with success.

On Tuesday next Mr. Mulock will introduce "An Act to amend the Pacific Cable Act of 1893."

Mr. Blair will move on Monday to sell the binder twine of government manufacture direct to farmers at the actual cost of production. At a meeting of the conservative party held tonight Sir Charles Herbert Tupper retired from the seat occupied by him and gave way to Mr. Monk of Jacques Cartier, who will assist Mr. Borden as lieutenant. Mr. Monk is recognized as one of the ablest men in the house and was the unanimous choice of the party, who will enter the fight with the feeling that they have been strengthened by the best opinion of Quebec.

REV. JOSEPH MARQUIS DEAD.

Rev. Joseph Marquis, the great apostle of colonization and repatriation for Quebec province, died at Hotel Dieu Feb. 4th as a result of an operation. The deceased made frequent trips to the United States, inducing French-Canadians to return and settle in their native province.

A Chance to do Your Plumbing Cheap.

I am offering this first class, highly sanitary, up-to-date

Low Down Closet Combination.

Worth $24 for $14.95, For one month only.

If you are thinking of making changes in your Bath Room or putting in new w.c., why not get one of these high class closets at the extremely low price I am selling them at.

John S. COUGHLAN

122 Charlotte Street.
Shop Tel. 1097. Residence Tel. 1165.

ST. ANDREW'S SOCIETY.

Quarterly Meeting—Resolutions of Sor-row at Queen's Death.

At the quarterly meeting of St. Andrew's Society last evening the following resolution relative to the death of the Queen was passed:

Resolved, That this society seeks to give expression to the profound sorrow of its members collectively and individually by reason of the recent death of Her Majesty Queen Victoria, sorrow only mitigated by the knowledge that it is through Whom all monarchs rule and to whom a long life and a long reign, endowed her with wisdom, goodness and countless winning and beneficial personal gifts, and guarded her from innumerable evils and dangers from the cradle to the grave, and by the assurance that a fitting reward for an admirable and useful life is hers in a kingdom more glorious than any earth can ever know.

Her life in all its phases must be regarded as an example and an encouraging subject for study and reminiscence. As a young maid, seeking in retirement and amid simple pursuits to obtain and develop such qualities as adornments as would fit her to occupy a throne; as a beautiful bride and loving wife; as an ever vigilant and noble consort, sorrowing yet not with the sorrow of one without faith; as a mother, tender yet judicious, training her children in all that conduces to the right discharge of princely duties; in each of these capacities she has won admiration, respect and affection. As Queen and Empress she will hold an unrivalled place in history. Sympathizing with her subjects in their joys and sorrows and deeply interested in all movements to promote their spiritual, intellectual and material advancement, she was never inamenable of the rights and claims of the people, sought to secure peace, good will and good fellowship among the nations. Her should be the motto of the party of Queen Victoria's court and her beautiful and consistent personal character and conduct had a wide and highly elevating influence upon society not merely in the British Isles but throughout the world.

When the wondrous sovereign assumed the royal diadem there yet lingered a memory of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion of every Scottish heart, wholly incapable of resisting the influence of her regal and womanly charms and public and domestic virtues. Among her wisest and most faithful counselors Scots have always held a foremost place; of bitter contest for its possession, and many a Scot sympathized at least in secret with a lost cause, faithful to the tendency of his race to be in allegiance ever loyal. It was not long before the gracious lady won and held forever the absolute devotion