EVERYTHING NEW AT THE PRIN-CESS MONDAY, EVEN A NEW CHARLOTTE STREET.

With the same desire that has alwith the same desire that has always marked the management of the Princess—that to please—its patrons will hail with delight the opening of the grand new Charlotte street entrance Monday afternoon. The stairs, the work of that master stair builder. E. V. Wetmore, are a work of art and so constructed as to make them easy, convenient and a pleasure to all Princess patrons. At the head of these stairs, directly between the charlotte and Princess street entrance, we have another innovation, one the ladies will feel proud of, a handsome waiting room for ladies. This room is now in the hands of the painters and decorators, and if all goes well will be ready on time Monday.

Starting in with the vaudeville are Ethel Morris and May Dayis, refined ingers and dancers. Then come Harry and Anna LaDell, sensational staircase acrobate and equilibrists, an act entirely new to this city. Next the Kelly sisters, "the cutest kids ever," as a gentleman remarked who had the pleasure of hearing them sing and seeing them dance last week. A splendid bill of new mothion pictures will be shown and T. A. B. Waterall will be heard in a new illustrated song. llustrated song.

Today marks the closing of Emil-Cheveril, the celebrated trick violin-ist, who has made fame for himself at the Princess this week, and the mar-velous Tenny will also be seen for the last time. To all who have not attended the Princess this week be on hand early tonight, as things look to NICKEL TODAY AND NEXT WEE This afternon at the Nickel the children will have their innings of fun pure and simple. There will be 3,000 feet of good wholesome pictures, songs by Miss Edwards and two special shows by the Sillbers, who have bee ngaining in popularity each day. The popular numbers are especially entertaining. Tonight the Nickel's usually fire week-end show will be put on.

On Monday the Nickel will introduce to its patrons a soprano entirely new to this city., Miss Evans of Bangor, who has been filling a long engagement most acceptably in both the Gaiety Vaudeville Theatre and The Nickel, both under the same general management as the St. John house. Her opening number will be the new ballad, The Red, Red Rose, a poetic writing.
