PROTESTS AGAINST THE CONVEYANCE OF UNCOVERED BEEF

Citizen Expresses Opinion that Matter Should be Governed by City Instead of Board of Health.

"The other day I saw a big load of beef being driven through the city without a covering of any kind," said a prominent citizen to a reporter yesterday. "A visitor to the city also noticed it, and remarked to me that St. John could not be as up-to-date as some people claimed, or it would not permit such a thing. A high wind was blowing and a fair proportion of the dust and dirt of the streets must have been distributed over the beef.

"There is a bye-law of the board of health prohibiting the transportation of uncovered beef through the city streets, and I understand the board of health officials try to enforce the regulation. But the board of health officials are very few in number, have a good deal of other work to attend to, and, I suppose, are not able to keep watch over all beef brought into the city.

"It seems to me there ought to be a civic bye-law governing the transportation of foodstuffs in the city, and then it would be up to the police to enforce it. Some time ago a delegation from the Local Women's Council went before the old city council and urged the passage of a bye-law, prohibiting the conveyance of foodstuffs through the city unless protected by a covering from the dust and dirt, but nothing seems to have been done about the matter."

THE ROYAL RESIDENCES OF ENGLAND DESCRIBED

First of Winter's Lectures Before Ladies of Natural History Society Proved Delightful—Miss Scovil Lecturer.

The beauties of the royal castles of England were vividly drawn in a word picture by Miss E. R. Scovil, in a lecture given before the Ladies' Association of the Natural History Society in their rooms yesterday afternoon. That only the short time allotted alone prevented the lecture eclipsing any that was ever delivered before the association, was the opinion held by many of her hearers.

Miss Scovil chose for her subject the "Royal Residences of England," and incidentally was the first lecturer of the winter courses. The attendance was large.

Windsor, with its interesting features of antiquity and Buckingham Palace, the London residence of the British sovereigns, were brought before the audience in a careful manner. How St. James Palace was given the title of "the court of St. James," Balmoral designed by the late Prince Consort and accordingly the favorite of Victoria the Good, and Kensington Palace where Queen Victoria's childhood was spent. It was here that the young princess received the tidings of the death of King William IV. and of her accession to the throne. The palace is not being used by King George and Queen Mary. Marlborough House and York Cottage were also dealt with, as was Hampton Court, one of the most beautiful of the show places of London.

The lecturer carefully brought her hearers to a high pitch of interest and when she used as a climax a vivid history of the Tower of London, the oldest and most famous of the royal residences, the enthusiasm was great.

A vote of thanks was given Miss Scovil for her interesting lecture by an unanimous vote of the members.

The next lecture will be given next Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 6, by Mrs. Sarah H. Gronlund, whose subject will be "Norway and Swedep."

WORDY WAR IN COURT IN FAIRVILLE

Lively Exchange Between Rev. W. R. Robinson and Mark Carey After Hearing of Liquor Case.

In the Fairville court yesterday morning Magistrate Allingham dismissed a case against Mark Carey, charged by Rev. W. R. Robinson, deputy county liquor inspector, with peddling liquor without a license.

The magistrate dismissed the case as there was no evidence of guilt against the defendant. About a dozen witnesses were called but no evidence could be obtained that Carey had been performing the pocket bottle business.

J. A. Barry appeared for the defence.

At the finish of the trial there was a lively tilt between the clergyman and Carey. The latter addressing the clergyman said, notwithstanding that the case against him had been dismissed, he had lost his job.

According to report Mr. Robinson replied that Carey would lose more jobs and that he would yet catch Carey.

Carey in reply said: "And I'll get you."

Mr. Robinson asked Carey if he meant that as a threat and if he did to remember that in doing so he was threatening an officer.

Carey replied that he was not making a threat and all he wanted was fair play.

The clergyman said: "I know your reputation," and in reply Carey said: "And I know yours."

At this juncture Carey and his counsel left the court and the war of words ended.

FARM LABOR WOULD BE ABUNDANT IF ALL YEAR WORK OFFERED

Superintendent of Immigration Says Winter Employment for Farm Laborers Would Bring Them to This Province.

"If the farmers of this province want to develop their lands and make the most of their opportunities they must get in the habit of providing employment for farm laborers through the winter," said James Gilchrist, superintendent of immigration, to The Standard yesterday.

"Some farmers consider money paid out in wages for labor as money thrown away. That is not a very sensible idea. A farmer has a poor business head if he can not make a profit out of a man's labor. In certain seasons of the year the farmers are grumbling because they cannot get help, and often they find that lack of labor at the planting and harvesting seasons means a serious loss to them. The solution of the problem of securing farm labor is for the farmers to hire men by the year. One of the principal reasons why the young men have been migrating from the farming districts of New Brunswick has been the disinclination of farmers to pay wages in the winter time.

Furnish Year Round Work.

"In many places you will find the farmer needing labor to work his land properly, and his wife needing help about the house. If they would agree to give a man employment the year round, and build a cottage and allow him to cultivate some land on his own account, it would be an easy matter to get farm laborers from the old country, who would bring out their wives and daughters.

"The farmer would then have labor at his disposal the year round, and the farmer's wife could get the laborer's wife or daughters to help her with her house work.

"I know some farmers who have tried this plan, and are well satisfied with the way it has worked out. They have increased the output of their farms more than enough to pay the cost of erecting a cottage and paying the wages of a man the year round, while they and their wives have been relieved from a good deal of drudgery. Allowing the man to work some of the land on his own account and raise his own food products, makes him contented, and he is not always looking for a chance to move to fresh fields."

OPENING OF MASONIC HALL LAST NIGHT

St. John Craftsmen Now Formally in Possession of One of Finest Lodge Rooms in Canada.

Impressive ceremonies marked the reopening of the blue lodge room in the Masonic temple, and the consecration of the new altar last evening. The function was in the nature of a response to an emergency communication of the grand lodge, and it drew together a larger number of the Masonic order than have ever before attended an affair of this kind in St. John. In addition to a large representation from the city there were members present from all over the province, and also from other parts of Canada and from the United States; it was estimated that there were upwards of 400 officers and members in attendance.

After the opening of the grand lodge with the Most Worshipful Grand Master F. J. G. Knowlton presiding, the new altar was dedicated. A feature of interest in connection with the dedication ceremonies was that the Bible used had served a similar purpose as far back at 1837, being loaned for the occasion by W. B. Wallace. Later in the evening Francis Burpee presented the St. John lodge with a new Bible which will be at the service of the lodges using the blue room.

After the grand lodge had performed the consecration service, Grand Master Knowlton formally opened the renovated hall, and in doing so gave an interesting sketch of the history of masonry in St. John. Then a selected staff of officers conferred the third degree under the charter of Albion Lodge.

This completed the official part of the ceremonies and the lodge was closed, and the members spent the remainder of the evening in a social way Refreshments were served and an interesting musical programme was furnished by Mr. Sheppard, Arthur Bowman, D. B. Pidgeon, D. Robbilliard, Ralph March, C. Dickason, Fred McKean and D. Arnold Fox.

As a result of the recent improvements the Masons of St. John have now one of the finest lodge rooms in Canada. Several thousands of dollars have been spent on the hall, and it presents a very attractive appearance. The new altar is a striking piece of work, set off by carvings in old English style. New canopies have been erected in the south and east, and a large organ loft with accommodation for a choir built at the western end. The ceilings have been painted in pale blue, relieved with terra cotta and gold, and the dominant color of the walls is a pale green, while the wainscoting is formed of cypress with panels of beaver board in red. A new and artistically arranged lighting system has been installed, and the furniture renewed in mission style with heavy weathered oak upholstered with leather.

The work was in charge of a committee consisting of W. S. Clawson, F. F. Burpee, J. H. Crockett, R. Clerke B. S. Smith and T. E. Powers. The contracts for the work were performed by the following:—Carpentry, A. L. Dodge; painting, J. Johnston & Sons; electric lighting, Vaughan Electrical Co.; carpets, M. R. A., Ltd.; altar, Hafely & Co. F. Neil Brodie was the architect.

SUFFERED THREE YEARS

Till Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills cured his Kidney Trouble

There are few diseases that cause more acute suffering than Kidney Trouble, and Mr. F. A. Thomas, of Sudbury Ont., is one of those who know it. He writes:

"For over three years I suffered from kidney disease. First I thought I had sprained my back, for suddenly the pain would catch the small of my back and it would be impossible for me to straighten myself up for several minutes. A dull ache across the kidneys was always present, my urine was thick and cloudy, and passing it caused a burning, scalding pain. Tried medicines, but they failed. I was advised to try Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills, as they had cured my wife years before. A few boxes affected a complete cure. I now enjoy the blessings of good health, which is due to this remedy."

Don't neglect kidney trouble—it's too dangerous as well as too painful. That old, reliable family remedy, Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills, has cured thousands and will cure you. It is equally effective in curing constipation and its attendant evils, biliousness, indigestion and sick headaches, and in purifing the blood. 25c a box at your druggist's. 10
